AT THE THEATERS

Bessie Barriscale appears in a play within a photoplay during the action of "The Luck of Geraldine Laird," the Robertson-Cole Superior picture which is opening today at the Liberty theatre.

First she is seen in this picture, which was made by B. B. Features, as a small town woman taking part in a "recitation" at a church bazaar. She does a "bit" called a "languishing Barnhardt" which is a great hit in her home town where the bazaar takes place.

She is seen that night, by chance, by a New York producer. She remains on his mind for months, and when he sees her later at work in a Fifth Avenue shop he recognizes her and engages her for the new show he is putting on.

Smiling, good-natured Harry Carey, star of "Marked Men," "Overland Red" and many other Universal productions, is coming to the Liberty theatre tomorrow in his latest Universal feature film, "Bullet Proof."

In the Philippines, though not enfranchised, the public status of women is exceptionally high, and they are admitted to all the professions.
