At the Theaters

STAR THEATRE

Admirers of Irene Castle will have difficulty in recognizing the "best dressed woman in America" when she first appears on the screen in her latest Paramount Artercraft photoplay, "The Amateur Wife," which will be shown at the Star theatre tonight only.

Mrs. Castle has the role of a French convent girl, but lately arrived in America. She is awkward, grotesquely dressed, and has her hair in long braids. She is amazed to discover that her mother, whom she has not seen for years, is the star in a jazzy musical comedy. Later, tragedy overtakes the girl. A man about town marries her out of sympathy, only to leave her. But when he returns, the ugly duckling convent girl has blossomed out as a beauty and is the social hit of New York.

In the later scenes of the picture Mrs. Castle wears some stunning gowns that bear the distinctive Castle stamp. Altogether, "The Amateur Wife" is said to furnish her with the most unique role of her screen career. William P. Carlton is the leading man. The picture, which was adapted by Jane Murfin from a magazine story of Nalbro Bartley, was directed by Edward Dillon.

Humoresque, the wonder picture of today is coming to the Star theatre Thursday and Friday. This picture has just completed a four weeks showing at the Imperial in San Francisco and broke all box office records. Perhaps no picture has ever been made that has had as much favorable comments and is so appealing as Humoresque.

Postmaster Asks for Co-Operation of All in Christmas Season

Once more we find it necessary to appeal to our patrons to cooperate with us in the handling of the heavy mails, which will steadily grow heavier until the Christmas season is over. We are in our new quarters which enables us to handle our work much easier but the volume of mail has also increased with our growing population and all clerks are working to their limit to handle it.

You can assist us wonderfully if you will insist upon your correspondents addressing you in full street number, box number, or route. Not a day passes but clerks must patiently work from 200 to 1000 letters through the directory to supply the address that you or your correspondent should have placed on the envelope. Think of the time this takes from regular work needed to keep the mails moving.

Insist on your correspondents addressing you in full. Tell them your mail is delayed by their carelessness and hammer it home to them that it must be done. Nine out of every ten complaints in regard to delayed letters is due directly to faulty addresses. We cannot correct this trouble—it is you alone who can remedy it. Don't mail a letter yourself unless it bears the full address of the person for whom it is intended, and insist on your correspondents doing the same and the service will be vastly improved.

W. A. DELZELL, Postmaster.

PROSPECTS FOR BUILDING OF NATRON CUTOFF

Started off by Oregon City Enterprise, the Eugene Guard takes a fling at Southern Pacific for not at once building the Natron-Klamath cut-off, now that it is permitted to earn up to 6% for its stockholders. It ridicules the company for alleged lack of enterprise, in not having built extensions in Western Oregon. Aside from the fact that the Southern Pacific has consistently built extensions as well as improved its lines in Oregon ever since the time Harriman acquired control, it is unreasonable to expect its owners to enmesh over advancing new capital for extensions when they are limited to 6% return and can obtain much higher rates of interest by investing in non-railroad securities.

When there was neither limit or earnings nor a so-called guarantee that rates would be maintained, the Southern Pacific constructed its electric lines in Oregon, the $13,000,000 Coos Bay line and many other lesser extensions. These lines promised returns both from local traffic and as feeders. The Natron cut-off was started at this time. Only the increase of restriction at the same time that times were a bit dull prevented that completion long ago. While the present situation of the railroad is an improvement, owing to the authorization to grant rates that may earn up to 5%, it is hard to see where there is any incentive to take money from other more attractive investments and put it into railroad extension.

If anything like a 6% return could be expected on the millions necessary to complete the cut-off, there might be a better prospect. It is hard to see how these extra millions would yield anything like this return for years. The main traffic to be carried over the cut-off would be part of the through business now carried over the main line by way of Ashland and the Siskiyou. The cut-off would be on an easier grade, so there might be some small saving on such through freight as could be hauled over it, but this saving for many years could not yield anything like 6% on the capital cost of the cut-off.

Lumber business would undoubtedly develop along the cut-off, but not to the extent that ordinarily might be supposed. The extensions out from Eugene and Klamath Falls now completed penetrate a timber territory. Between the termini of these extensions, the forest area is practically all within national reserves, which to a great extent makes it unattractive to the lumbermen. Part is within the Klamath Indian reservation, and were this timber opened up on anything like a reasonable basis, there might be extensive sawmill development there, but legislation by congress is required to make it practically available.

With the cut-off uncompleted, the Southern Pacific can charge local rates on traffic out from Eugene and Klamath Falls. With the cut-off completed, a large part of this freight would take through rates, as it would be on what amounts to a main line. Rate regulation would make this essential, and by making it necessary deprives the company somewhat of an incentive to connect up the two ends.

The hope for construction of the Klamath cut-off is in a general increase of business here in Oregon, so that added facilities must be constructed to handle it. Under pressure of expanding business, the owners of the company may be willing to provide capital for the purpose even if that capital may earn only 6% return. Something depends probably upon the good will of those same owners towards Oregon. Over-regulations, nagging its officials, oppressive legislation and nasty newspaper criticism do not tend to establish that good will. The owners and officials of the railroads are human and are no more susceptible of being enticed by vinegar than are any of the rest of us.

In proportion as public sentiment in Oregon helps to make it possible for railroad stockholders to make more money in this state will the investing public provide the funds needed for just such extensions as the Natron cut-off. Probably not until federal legislation permits railroad owners to reap more than 6% return may much or anything in the way of railroad extension be expected in Oregon. The press of the state, instead of inflaming public prejudice against the railroads, should rather foster a policy of good will towards them in proportion as it is deserved, so that such legislation and regulation as may be imposed with permit an adequate return and thus make possible some of the extensions Oregon imperatively needs for her development. Oregon will not have as much population as Washington until its railroad mileage is practically doubled. The railroad problem, therefore, is a very vital one for Oregon, and one which should not be approached in a contentious spirit. Abusing railroad officials and owners; and inciting misunderstanding and prejudice, will bring very few dollars into our state for much needed development.—Oregon Voter.

IF BACKACHEY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat, also take glass of Salts before eating breakfast.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy, the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoon in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

MOODY BACK ON THE JOB

Two weeks in the hospital was sufficient for Eugene Moody, of the Pastime Billiard Parlor, and he is now back at the old stand, meeting his customers as of yore. Some of Mr. Moody's acquaintances accused him of "lying down" during his two weeks' absence, and Mr. Moody says that while he must plead guilty to the charge it was due to a severe case of ptomaine poisoning and not to inertia that he did the lying down stunt, anyway the popular billiard room proprietor is back on the job again, and apparently is as good a man, physically, as he ever was. At the same time when the word "good" is mentioned in connection with Mr. Moody, it must be remembered that he not only is a good man physically, but morally as well.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

WHEN MIXED WITH SULPHUR TO BRINGS BACK ITS BEAUTIFUL LUSTRE AT ONCE

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.
