

Cut Price Sale

Here we are again! At various times during our business career here we have conducted bona fide "mark-down-from-actual-value" sales, and each sale has been a tremendous success. Really, folks, our sales cannot be anything else but successes, because, with durable, comfortable, seasonable and classy lines upon which to base these sales, and with substantial reductions from prices with which you undoubtedly are familiar, success is bound to attend our efforts. DRIVER DITCHES CAR; ARRESTED FOR INTOXICATION

Jason Charley, son of Abraham Charley, an Indian, of Chiloquin, ran a big Studebaker car into the irrigation ditch at the upper end of town yesterday afternoon and abandoned it. He is alleged to have been intoxicated at the time and was later arrested and placed in the city jail.

The matter caused a good deal of commotion for a time. Someone who happened along by where the car was standing thought that the driver had met with a serious accident and called up one of the local hospitals. The result was that an ambulance was dispatched to the scene but after a thorough search failed to discover any victim.

Later in the day the boy's father, Abraham Charley, made a complaint to Chief of Police Wilson that someone had sold his boy whisky and made him drunk and that the accident was the result. He requested the chief to arrest the boy and hold him in jail until he sobered up.

POLICE HAVE BICYCLE

Chief of Police Wilson picked up a bicycle yesterday on the street, the owner of which could not be found and he has it at present in his office in the city hall. The gear is painted red and it has a brown leather seat and has a small bar across the handle bars. If the owner sees this item and calls at Chief Wilson's office he may have the wheel.

At a trial before a mixed jury of men and women at Bath, England, the court announced an adjournment of two hours for luncheon. Instantly a woman juror protested that the time was not sufficient for her to prepare her husband's dinner and return to court. Whereupon the magistrate promptly and gallantly extended the recess by a quarter of an hour.

For the first time in the history of the United States women will help to write the constitution of a state when the Louisiana constitutional convention meets at New Orleans next February, two women having been appointed as delegates.

A feature of the recent convention of the Mississippi valley medical association at Chicago was a "ladies' night smoker." Cigars and cigarettes were passed freely among the ladies and the majority of them accepted, but it was suspected that the most of them took the "smokes" home to give to their husbands.
