

TURNER IS HELD FOR MURDER IN SECOND DEGREE

Jasper Turner, with the stolid characteristic of his race, sat apparently unconcerned in United States Commissioner Bert Thomas' office for several hours yesterday afternoon while witnesses wove a web of testimony around him which, if substantiated, will clear up the mystery surrounding the death of his wife, Mary Turner.

Turner was arrested recently upon information, obtained from Indians who say they heard him admit that he committed the murder. George Alexander, deputy United States marshal, made the arrest.

United States Attorney Hall Lusk acted for the government in the hearing, and H. M. Manning conducted Turner's defense. After examining about a dozen witnesses, the hearing extending well into the evening, Turner was bound over to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of second degree murder and is at liberty under $10,000 bonds.

N. G. West, superintendent of the Klamath Indian reservation was the first witness. Mr. West told about his hurried trip to the home of William Turner, father of Jasper Turner, to investigate the report that Mary Turner had committed suicide. This was in May of this year. The death of the woman was said to have occurred about 8 o'clock Monday morning, but owing to the delay in sending him the information, and the distance to be traveled, he did not arrive there until about 2 o'clock Tuesday morning. When he arrived Dr. Abbott, Jack Turner, an Indian policeman, William Turner and his wife, Benjamin Martin, engineer for the Klamath agency, and Jasper Turner were there.

Describes the Scene

The body of the woman, Mr. West said, was found lying on the floor of a front bedroom, her own room he understood, with the feet toward the door. Immediate examination disclosed a bullet wound in her breast, and her clothing, for a space three inches in diameter, had apparently been burned. When the body was turned over a bullet fell to the floor, and another bullet wound directly opposite the wound in the breast, was discovered. A pool of blood had formed below the dead woman's head. The limbs were lying perfectly straight and rigid, with the exception of the right hand, which was turned toward the body, which might indicate that she had released the revolver after dropping to the floor following the fatal shot. A person might have gained the impression, according to Mr. West's testimony, that the body had been placed in its straightened position following the shooting. A revolver, with the muzzle pointed toward the feet, was lying about four inches from the dead woman's hand.

Talked to Turner

Mr. West told about his conversation with Jasper Turner. The latter's version was that he and his wife had quarreled that morning. They had also quarreled the night before, and Mary had threatened to kill herself. Following the quarrel in the morning, Jasper had gone to the corral southeast of the house to catch a horse. A short time after he entered the corral he heard his mother calling to him that Mary had shot herself. Rushing to house he found Mary lying on the floor dead. After telling his parents not to disturb the body, he informed the authorities relative to the death.

Husband Was Calm

Jasper, said Mr. West, was not frustrated when he talked to him 19 hours after the shooting, but related the story in a matter-of-fact way. Furthermore, Jasper told him that Mary had threatened to kill herself several times.

Benjamin Martin, engineer for the Klamath agency, was the second witness. His testimony corroborated that given by Mr. West, almost in detail. He, however, testified that Jasper had said that he heard the shot before he was apprised of the shooting by his mother. It is Mr. Martin's opinion that the bullet entered from the front.

Couple Had Quarreled

Jack Palmer, Indian policeman, was then called to the stand. He went to the Turner home in his capacity as peace officer he said, Jasper and Turner had been having "mouth" trouble he understood, but he did not know what the trouble was about. Palmer's testimony opened a new phase of the inquiry. He testified that he had been told that when Jasper reached the room in which his wife lay he found the door locked. Jasper's mother entered the room first—how she managed

Give Farm Boys And Girls Chance, Says Meredith

On the shoulders of the farm boys and girls of today rests, in considerable measure, the future of American agriculture. Their success or failure financially and their satisfaction or dissatisfaction with their environment is of direct importance to the whole country. I have always been much interested in what the boys' and girls' clubs are doing to help them, and I believe this important and far-reaching branch of extension work should be encouraged in every feasible way.

One of the needs of the clubs is more adequate housing on the state and district fair grounds for the club members and their exhibits. At most of the fairs tents are now used for this purpose. These have proved to be very inadequate, especially when the weather is bad. A movement is now under way, which I am very glad to endorse, to provide a permanent exhibit building and a permanent camp for the junior farmers on every large fair ground. This would emphasize the importance of the work these young people are doing and make them feel that their aid in promoting the interests of agriculture through exhibits at fairs is being properly appreciated.—E. T. Meredith, secretary of agriculture.

COUNCIL LETS CONTRACT FOR BRIDGE REPAIR

Last night's meeting of the city council was not productive of anything of sensational nature, only an ordinary amount of business being transacted, with very little discussion. A full council was present.

Building permits were granted, those of L. O. Ahrens, who wants to make improvements on the White Pelican garage on Main street, and to J. O. Beardsley, who wishes to put a wood floor in the garage he will build on the corner of Seventh and Klamath. This is the building which will be occupied by Louis Hoagland, recently appointed agent for the Buick car. Mr. Hoagland was present, and stated that if a concrete floor was insisted on it would require a fill, and necessitate the charging of a rental which would be prohibitive.

O. R. Boyle and E. G. Allen were awarded the contract for the repairing of the bridge across the government canal on Eleventh street, $494 being the contract figure. This bridge, according to J. C. Brockenbrough and others who live in that vicinity, has been in bad shape for quite a while, the supports having been weakened. The work under contemplation is expected to place it in shape to withstand travel until the city can replace it with a concrete or steel bridge, a change which must take place, in Council Lavenick's opinion, before many years have passed.

The Warren Construction company was authorized to pave the alleys through blocks 37 and 16, the paving to be of Warrenite, the company's usual paving material. This work will not be done until spring, it is believed.

Property owners in several parts of the city will be notified that they will be expected to construct sidewalks within the near future. A petition was read showing that there were no sidewalks on East Main street from Applegate south to Sixth. The petition stated that sidewalks on these streets would accommodate a large number of children who attend the Mills school.

Has a Job That Keeps Him Moving

Hon. Frank Davey, erstwhile newspaper publisher, politician, speaker of the house of representatives, and for the past four sessions member of the house, is in the city. He comes as a representative of the state industrial accident commission and will be in the city for several days. Mr. Davey's home is in Burns legally, but actually it is under his hat, as he is afflicted with the wanderlust to a large degree and likes to stir around the state, swap stories with "the boys" and keep in touch with the development of Oregon.

Varied Experience Gained Traveling Malin-K. F. Road

MALIN, Nov. 23.—Traveling in air and on land, but most of all under water was the experience of C. V. Holmes, local merchant, on a recent trip to Klamath Falls. This condition of the roads was caused by the lengthy rains, which Malin and other points have been enjoying.

Mr. Holmes reported having traveled the highway all the way, with the exception of two miles which was still fenced. He says he enjoys driving a submarine and an airplane, but when it comes to driving a skating automobile, the pleasure ceases. According to his statements it took three hours of solid work to get the mud off his car.

BOY SCOUTS AID RED CROSS WORK

Eighteen boy scouts, under the direction of Paul T. O'Dowd, have been scouring the city in their role of "gleaners," unearthing people who have been overlooked in the Red Cross drive, and securing contributions from places which would certainly be overlooked by other solicitors. To the present time the boys have turned in more than $100, and the end is not in sight.

Edmund Folliett and Kenton Hamaker worked in the Hot Springs addition, and George Bradley and Claud Redfield took care of the Second Hot Springs addition. Herbert Phillips and Harold Bateman worked in the district between the canal and Tenth street, George Shuman and Hugh Curran from Tenth to Eighth streets, and Weaver Solomon and Donald Loomis from Eighth to Sixth streets.

Donald Ritchie, alone, took care of the people between Sixth and Fourth streets, and three boys, Robert Knight, George Condrey and Leonard Quill, canvassed the district between Fourth street and the river. Lucian Applegate worked in Mills addition, Cecil Humphrey on South Main street and East Sixth, Gordon Loomis across the river, and Frank Upp in the business section.

Mr. O'Dowd devoted a great deal of his time to the direction of the boys, and the boys themselves, impelled by Mr. O'Dowd's good judgment and perseverance, responded nobly. The amount already turned in will be materially increased, said Mr. O'Dowd, before his career ceases their work.

LOCAL C. OF C. NOW MEMBER OF U. S. CHAMBER

Formal notification has been received by Secretary Stanley that the Klamath county chamber of commerce has been elected to membership in the chamber of commerce of the United States. Affiliation with the national chamber gives the Klamath chamber of commerce a voice in the activities and affairs of that constantly growing business organization, which now numbers about 1,400 commercial and trade organizations.

Closely following its election to the national chamber, Klamath county chamber of commerce will appoint a national councillor who will serve as a connecting link between the local organization and the national chamber at Washington.

Hereafter when policies affecting business are under discussion by the federal authorities, the Klamath county chamber of commerce will have a chance to express itself, inasmuch as one of the chief functions of the chamber of commerce of the United States is to voice the business sentiment of the country.

From time to time referenda are sent out by the national chamber for the purpose of ascertaining, for the benefit of congress and the government departments, opinions prevailing throughout the country on questions of importance.

The views and opinions of the nation's business men, expressed through the national chamber, are listened to with respect. In fact, the views of the chamber on important legislative matters affecting business are sought. Never before in the history of United States have business interests been so efficiently represented at the national capital, toward which there seems to be an increasing business centralization all the time.

The national chamber will soon have a home of its own, just across Lafayette square from the White House. A $2,500,000 fund for this building has practically been all subscribed. It will be an elaborate workshop for American business, in the study and solution of its national problems.

In order to be of greater service to its members, and the business men of the nation generally, the business organization of the national chamber was recently departmentalized, the various departments being, foreign trade, insurance, transportation and communication, domestic distribution, fabrication, production, natural resources and civic development. The aim of these departments is to help the business man solve his problems, and gain new markets for American trade. Members have the privilege of utilizing them, which virtually amounts to the Klamath county chamber of commerce having a special Washington representative.

Membership in the national chamber entitles the Klamath county chamber of commerce to receive a weekly general bulletin containing news of commercial interests, a weekly legislative bulletin while congress is in session, which follows the progress and gives a digest of legislation having relation to the conduct of business. They also receive a special bulletin which is issued whenever anything of commercial importance arises which is not regularly covered, as well as the Nation's Business, the official magazine of the organization.
