

$12,000 Worth of Building Is Covered by Weekly Permits

Twelve thousand dollars will probably cover the amount of building permits granted by the city council at its meeting Monday night. Of this amount $1,000 will be represented by the garage to be built at the corner of Seventh and Klamath by J. O. Beardsley. This will be a one story brick building, 40x100 feet, and will occupy the site upon which the Meisner blacksmith shop is located. To make room for this building, Mr. Beardsley asked permission of the council to move the blacksmith shop back and across the alley in the same block.

Vochatzer Brothers want to build an addition to their garage, the new part to be 20x28 feet. This garage is on Melrose street, and the improvement will cost approximately $200.

Confer On Alien Land Laws

WASHINGTON—Roland S. Morris (left), American ambassador to Japan, and Baron Shidehara (right), Japanese ambassador to the United States, recently held their final conference at the State Department regarding negotiations for a settlement of the questions arising out of the California alien laws and the drafting of a new treaty with Japan.

F. N. Frakes asked permission to build a dwelling in Buena Vista addition, dimensions 12x28 feet, at a cost of about $500.

W. D. Miller will build a frame store building in Klamath addition, 15x28 feet, at an approximate cost of $750.

Jack Almeter will add two rooms to his dwelling in the Hot Springs addition, the rooms to be 12x14 feet each, the cost to be about $350.

W. H. McPherrin asked permission to move Mills addition hall to the northwest corner of Pine and Eleventh streets. It will be remodeled and made into an apartment house.

In addition to conducting a general garage business in the H. S. Hauger building across from the White Pelican hotel on Main street, L. O. Arens also wants to install a gasoline pump on the curb.

There was no opposition to any of the permits.

At the Theaters

AT THE LIBERTY THEATRE

They can do almost anything they want to in the movies, but occasionally there's a limit imposed, and often where you'd least expect it.

For instance, the S. P. A. C. would be likely to look askance at the chloroforming of an animal for picture-making purposes; so when the plot requires an unconscious cat or dog the studio has to call in one of its staff of specially trained animals.

There's one scene in "The Dangerous Talent," the special Margarita Fisher feature which you'll see at the Liberty today, that needs the help of a doped kitten. Pretty Miss Tabby, educated within an inch of her ninth life, obeyed the cue like a veteran and registered "coma" in every line of her inert little body.

But if you watch the screen very, very closely, you'll catch, just for a flickering instant, a hesitant little head-lifting movement that serves as evidence of full compliance with the rules of the humane societies.

William Russell, cleverest of the motion picture stars whose names have become famous in adventure picture drama, has a new thrill in "A Live-Wire Hick" which, by the way, was adapted from that winner, "New York Luck," this being a fight with two ruffians in an elevator shaft, the star hanging to a wire cable and finally plunging several stories to the bottom of the pit, where he administers the knockout punch to his surviving antagonist.

See William Russell put it over at the Liberty theatre Thanksgiving day.

Farmers' Union Head Urges Members Not to Part With Crops

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Declaring that he understood that federal agents were going over Kansas, Iowa and other states trying to get evidence for the indictment of any one asking the farmers to hold their crops, Charles S. Barrett, president of the national farmers' union, appealed to all members of the organization to stand together and not to sell their products.
