THANKSGIVING DAY

Down the years in an unbroken chain, the links of which now number close to 300, civilization in the new world has been handed a torch which tomorrow we light anew.

Thankfulness is not always the offspring of virtue. Often the seed that brings it to fullest flower in our hearts is the vicious seed of selfishness.

True thankfulness does not, either willfully or thoughtlessly, take pride in one's elevation above another.

The first Thanksgiving was a feast, meager perhaps in comparison to the repasts that will grace the tables of Klamath county tomorrow.

In the new made cemetery at Plymouth, had been laid away many a loved parent, son, sister, wife and friend.

So when the crops were gathered from the new tilled acres they feasted and thanked God. Doubtless they had known better feasts in England.

Not as a feast of the Epicureans, tempting jaded appetites with fine food, was the first Thanksgiving kept, but as an observance of hospitality between neighbors—a sharing of the best that each possessed.

They knew, these sturdy men and women, that their hardships were not over, that their biggest tasks doubtless were before them.

The civilization of which the Pilgrims were the forerunners has spread over a continent. Each era of development has brought new problems.

On the path of liberty appear such milestones as Valley Forge, New Orleans, Chapultepec, Gettysburg, El Caney and Argonne.

Let us tomorrow thank God for America, for American ideals and American liberty and the heritage of courage that has never failed to rally to freedom in danger.

UNFORTUNATE FAMILY ARE THANKFUL FOR HELP
Many, many thanks to the kind and generous people of Klamath Falls who made donations to the Barrett family.

Misfortune overtook Albert Barrett early last spring when he received a double compound fracture of the left leg.

Surely, owing to the kindness of Klamath Falls residents, this will be a real Thanksgiving for us and we are deeply thankful.

The Spark Plug

In which we tell of the big men and the little things we find in Gasoline Alley

Everybody familiar with the quotation "The mills of the gods grind slowly, but they grind exceedingly fine" will be surprised to learn that recent scholarly investigations into its origin by authorities of international reputation have discovered that wrong construction has been used since the quotation first became popular.

But very little has been learned about the history of the Mills family previous to their advent here, but statistics show that they came here from the vicinity of Albany, this state.

With commendable discretion, they decided that nearness to a live city was the next best thing to living in a productive farming community.

LANGUAGE SPOKEN BY ALL

That of Heart Far Outranks the Written Word in the Making of Friends.

There is one language of the tongue and another of the heart, and the second is the more important. The dough-boy in France often found himself unable to exchange words—beyond the briefest greeting or the expression of the elemental needs of life—with those among whom he came.

The traveler in a land held by savages is under a constant surveillance. The aboriginal folk are wondering whether he is the advance agent of a great many more, who are coming to take what through the ages has belonged to them and to their forbears.

With commendable discretion, they decided that nearness to a live city was the next best thing to living in a productive farming community.

ALWAYS THE SAME OLD HUN

Nation Continues to Dream of Victorious War, in the Face of In-glorious Defeat.

The Hun never changes. We read in well-informed magazines everywhere that Germany, unlike any other nation participating in the great war, refuses to forget the war.

The astounding sale of books dealing with military phases of the war and the military lessons taught by the war continues throughout Germany.

As a result of the consumption of sugar in France has fallen to one-eighth the pre-war mark.

One of the most interesting features of the laboratory is a complete flat, including kitchen, dining room, bedroom and bath.

Teach Value of Foods.

The first laboratory for working out household food problems was installed in Teachers' college, New York city, a little more than ten years ago.

Making Wood Fire-Resisting.

Keeping wood wet, injecting certain chemicals, and coating with suitable paints, are the three methods of increasing resistance to fire that have been tested at the United States forest products laboratory.

Furs From New South Wales.

An important export trade in fur skins is being developed in the state of New South Wales, says Consul Edward J. Norton, Sydney, Australia.

From Frying to Flying.

Aviation is occupying a great deal of attention in Canada these days. It is highly probable that the helium gas rising out of the ground in Alberta and other parts of western Canada and used in parts of the country for family cooking will one day be carrying English lighter-than-air flying machines.

Sweets Losing Popularity in France.

France has lost its sweet tooth. Recent official statistics show that, because sugar was unobtainable during the war, children born between 1914 and 1919 have been educated by their parents not to require sugar in their drinks and food.

Many Will Dine at White Pelican

A consistent stream of inquiries about the Thanksgiving dinner to be given by the ladies of the Catholic church in the White Pelican hotel tomorrow, and requests for reservations, is being received at the several sources of information designated by the ladies.

that the dinner is going to be well patronized. The reputation of the ladies as providers of unexcelled home cooked dinners, the regular old-fashioned kind, is the obvious cause of the demand.

The TRUE STORY of ASPIRIN

ASPIRIN is a useful chemical, being prescribed constantly by skilled physicians for treatment of rheumatic affections, neuralgia, colds and certain types of fever.

Fraudulently made Aspirin Tablets were put on the market by a Brooklyn concern. This has been exploited by one concern for the purpose of discrediting all tablets of Aspirin made by others.

The Aspirin patent expired in 1917, and anyone can now make Aspirin and sell it under that name.

Our customers may depend upon it that Aspirin U. D. Co.—sold only at Rexall stores—is everything that the most careful, most discriminating and skillful physician could demand.
