Who Wrecks Marriage? WOMAN Says Claiborne Foster

CLAIBORNE FOSTER

Marring in "Ladies Night."

"Of course it all depends on the individuals concerned, but I think in most cases the woman is to blame for unhappy marriages. It is not so much because of what she does, but because of what she can do, but fails to do.

"Women are blessed with an indefinable charm which can be exercised over man in such a way that an unhappy marriage would be a remote possibility.

"The man's fault is that he too often seeks the girl with the pretty face instead of an intelligent comrade for a wife.

"The woman who wins a man's love in the beginning can always keep it by using good judgment and patience. She should allow for his shortcomings; she should not weary him with the petty details of life; she should keep up with current affairs so that the two of them can discuss things of mutual interest. Mere prettiness is not enough.

"I believe that the political equality of women will broaden their interest so that men and women of the future will be companions as well as lovers."

Riverside School Wins Music Banner

Great interest has been shown by the teachers and pupils of the city schools over the banner offered by Miss Applegate to the school showing the greatest percentage of perfect grades in the following subjects: Rhythm, Tonality (including sight singing), Theory and written work. This work is carried on by the teachers of each grade from outlines prepared by the supervisor who gave the tests covering the work as outlined.

In all subjects the work was done by the individual pupil and while all could not win every pupil did his share in the work, singing alone before the class. This banner is now held in the Riverside school, won by the eighth grade, but judging by the spirit shown by the losing schools they do not intend that it shall remain there. A test will again be made the last of January, and each school is determined that the banner shall be born in triumph to its halls. However, Riverside is equally determined and we shall see.

Weather Probabilities

The cyclo-stormograph at Underwood's pharmacy has registered a slowly falling pressure since Sunday noon.

This indicates a change in weather conditions for the next 24 hours, possibly a little snow. Forecast—"Storm brewing in the northwest."
