

SCHOOLS PLAN MORE TRAINING FOR BUSINESS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Plans for more extensive business training and commercial education in the secondary and higher educational institutions over the country are to be worked out by committees named at 12 regional conferences recently held at strategic points in each of the 12 economic regions into which the country has been divided by the bureau of education.

The conferences were called by Commissioner of Education Claxton and were presided over by Glen Levin Swiggett, specialist in charge of commercial education of the bureau of education. The first was held at Columbia, S. C., and the last at Philadelphia. Other conferences were held at Knoxville, Tenn., San Francisco, New Orleans, Seattle, Denver, Kansas City, Chicago, Pittsburg, Minneapolis and Boston.

The regional committees include in addition to the state superintendent of public instruction of each state, many of the executives of universities and colleges, university deans of commerce and education and superintendents of schools in the larger cities.

Dr. Swiggett says the task of the regional committees will be "to plan and construct, in cooperation with the bureau of education, a better articulated and coordinated course of study in preparation for business and commerce that will not only give the business, as the need presents itself, boys and girls trained for the more elementary types of business service, more or less routine in character, but will early lay the foundation with proper sequence in those subjects upon which the universities must build their courses for further training and education in the major fields of commercial production and distribution, of finance, of foreign, public and social service.

"The immediate task of each state and regional committee," Dr. Swiggett continued, "is to ascertain by investigation and survey those major types in productive and distributive business for which a state and regional may have real economic advantages; to determine and select those which have the greatest need for the largest number of the training product of schools and colleges; to decide upon those business operations for which schools and colleges can best train; and then to construct a course of study for secondary and higher institutions which shall best meet known state and regional business needs as well as be in accord with sound educational practice.

"The volume of and cost in manufacturing depends largely upon economic locations. There is naturally involved, therefore, the most advantageous use of the four following factors, materials, labor, capital and transportation. In order that the business training program is a state or region have the value of permanency, these committees must first determine by investigation and survey whether the selected types of commercial production and distribution for which training courses are to be built, show in their development the largest possible and freest use of these four factors; whether the industrial and commercial development of a region has been due to fortuitous or economic causes."

LAST OASIS DRIED

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The practice of flavoring homemade Christmas plum pudding, mincemeat and brandied cherries and peaches with alcoholic spirits, is violating the prohibition enforcement law and such foods are liable to seizure, the bureau of internal revenue stated today.

READ FROM BOTTOM UP IN JAPANESE "HAMLET"

UNIVERSITY, OR OREGON, Eugene, Dec. 3.—A Japanese edition of "Hamlet" has been received by Miss Mary Watson, professor in the English department, which was sent to her by one of her former students.

The book is the size of an ordinary novel, the cover is blue, and on what would be the back of an English edition, is a picture of Shakespeare in gold. In reading the book one starts at what seems the end of the story, but is the beginning of a Japanese. The story is printed in black and rather heavy type, and reads from the bottom of the page to the top in columns.

An American is able to follow the story by the illustrations on the lower half of each page. These are sketches of various familiar scenes in Hamlet, such as the graveyard scene and the skull of Yorick.

OREGON HAS MANY MARKETS OPEN TO IT

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 3.—After travelling nearly 8,000 miles through Canada and the eastern and central part of the United States A. Q. Clark, manager of the associated industries of the United StatesFA, is home again. He was 64 days on the road visiting commercial organizations and investigating manufacturing plants. After this excursion he is still of the opinion that this state has wonderful opportunities for competition left open to it. In summing up his observations he says he was particularly impressed by the superiority in personnel of western workers. He believes Oregon can crowd even into the markets of New York after a careful study of the needs of public to be served there is made.

Now Germany says she will not abide by her peace contract unless she can come into the league of nations. That has a familiar sound. More scraps of paper?—Troy (N. Y.) Times.

LIBERTY THEATRE

"The Soul of Youth," the new special production via Realart, is a delightful story of boyhood life, different from any picture which has been produced, and proving that real drama exists in the lives of the men of tomorrow as well as in the lives of today's grown-ups.

The principal lead in the picture is played by Lewis Sargent, who after his enviable success in the title role in the picture "Huckleberry Finn," is a real drawing card all by himself. But there are others as noted.

Judge Ben Lindsey, famous judge of the juvenile delinquency court, and his wife, Mrs. Ben Lindsey, also appear in certain scenes of the picture.

"The Soul of Youth" comes to the Liberty theatre in this city today. "The Way of the Strong," a story set amidst the inspiring grandures of the Yukon—a romance of the northlands—is a play of virile and red-blooded manhood, glowing with fires of love and passion. The story breathes the spirit of the great northwest—bright with the glitter of untrodden snow and diffusing the resinous scent of the pines and spruces, larches and hemlocks. It is a story of sublime grandeur—singing of sun-lit heights and climbing the peaks of human emotion. At the Liberty Saturday.

STORM FLAGS FLYING

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3.—A severe storm off Prince Rupert island is expected to bring high winds and rain to the Pacific coast. Storm warnings have been sent out to Washington and Oregon ports.

A hatchery with a capacity of 10,000 eggs will be used by a poultry products company in Montana. The United States army schools are being attended by 190,000 soldiers.

CHURCH LECTURE ON LANDING OF PILGRIMS

A program to celebrate the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers has been planned for Sunday afternoon at the Presbyterian church. There will be an illustrated lecture, which will be read by the Rev. E. P. Lawrence. The lecture is a particularly good one and should interest children and grown-ups alike.

PEACE IN IRELAND?

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Rumors of influences working for a truce in Ireland have been revived by some newspapers here. And a suggestion is made that definite measures of conciliation are being initiated.

ASSAULT CASE DROPPED FOR LACK OF EVIDENCE

The case against James Page, charged with assaulting Oscar Hanan with a pickaxe last Saturday, at the Modoc Lumber company's mill, was dismissed upon the motion of the prosecuting attorney for lack of evidence after a hearing in the justice court yesterday afternoon.
