Society

Thanksgiving with its many charming social events is past and society is now engrossed with thoughts of Christmas, the personal element entering to detract from the longing to entertain extensively. The winter holidays are conducive to dances and several brilliant affairs of the kind are scheduled for the coming week-ends. Another thing of interest is the formation of several new and exclusive dancing clubs.

Invitations are out this week for a dance to be given at the White Pelican hotel, Saturday by the One Hundred club. The club members include the younger set about town and the older high school group. The dances will be regular events during the winter and are arousing a lot of pleasant expectation.

Miss Marjorie Deizell was pleasantly surprised last Saturday by a number of friends who came into her home for an evening at cards. Miss Deizell's birthday was the inspiration for the surprise.

A simple wedding Friday evening was that of Walter T. Eastman and Miss Edith A. Condey, both of this city. The wedding service was read by Rev. C. F. Trimble, pastor of the Christian church.

A short time ago little Miss Elda Houston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Houston, celebrated her ninth birthday by being surprised by a number of school mates. She returned home from school with a question in her mind as to the nature of the gift her parents had in store for her only to find that she had been preceded by ten of her playmates.

A joyous time was enjoyed by those present for a couple of hours and then a wonderful feast was participated in. Present were: Richard Brown, Helen Cofer Ernest Holbrook, Lucile Frances, Albert Lavenick, Nadine Howell, Lorraine Chaney, and Virginia Houston.

The tea given during their bazaar by the ladies of St. Paul's Episcopal Guild was a charming affair and well attended by the social set of the city. The tea was served in the parlors of the Presbyterian church at small tables.

A farewell dinner dance of interest was that given at the White Pelican hotel Tuesday evening, honoring Miss Engel Landcamp. Those present were: Misses Betty Gaddes, Almee Enders, Agnes Driscoll, Nona Rinker, Betty Gray, Alice McCourt, Carol Johnson, Misses Hartley E. Smith, L. S. Sanders, Pat Parker, Roy Sloan, R. E. Paddock, W. J. Moore and James Milne.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church met Thursday afternoon in the parlors of the church and a most interesting program was enjoyed by those who attended the affair. A program was given by various members and tea was served.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Davenport were hosts Sunday at a 5 o'clock dinner and to a number of young people who came in later for the evening. A big turkey was served at dinner to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Murphy, Marie Davenport and the hosts. In the evening the following young people came in: the Misses Faye, Ruby and Pearl Demorest, Midge Patterson, Helen Price, Mrs. Harris, Messrs Patterson, Upton, Patrick and Snyder.

The informal dance given under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary of the American legion Post No. 8, Thursday evening, at the White Pelican hotel was a very enjoyable affair. One hundred and twenty-three couples were present and music was furnished by the Jazzsymphonic four. This was the first of a series of dances to be given during the winter by the auxiliary, the next two being set for December 14 and 29. These dances are for all ex-service men and their ladies whether they are reached by invitations or not, but outside folks are asked to present their invitations at the door.

The "Assembly" has invitations out for their first dance of the winter season to be held December 13 at the White Pelican hotel. The affair will be strictly formal and only members of the club will be in attendance at the dance.

"Elmer C. Andrus, a civil engineer connected with the territorial harbor board, and Miss Myrtle M. Record of Alaska were married at 5 o'clock yesterday evening at Central Union church in the presence of a number of intimate friends. The ceremony was performed by the minister, Rev. Albert W. Palmer. Sergeant and Mrs. W. Penison were the witnesses to the wedding. After a brief honeymoon "somewhere on Ohu," Mr. and Mrs. Andrus will make their home at 2476C Puunui avenue."

The above from a Honolulu paper comes as a surprise to the wide circle of friends of Miss Record—one of the most lovable and popular school teachers this city has ever had. While here she was principal of the Mills school, where she worked wonders with the children who attended that institution. She was one of those rare characters so seldom encountered—a born teacher of children. Her philosophy was that every child was possessed of a door through which his inner consciousness may be reached and his willfulness corrected. And she was ever able to find that door. The same was true with the older people, who loved her for her naive ways, her cheery conversation and her whole-hearted cooperation wherever it could be given. Her decision to go to Hawaii caused keen regret among those fortunate enough to know her and her refusal to reconsider her plans deep disappointment. Out to Hawaii will go the best wishes of her friends, and none more sincere and affectionate than those from the children over whom she exercised such a beneficent influence.

Mrs. J. E. Bratton is going to spend the winter at Pomona, Calif., where she resides at 135 Jefferson street. The two boys are with her and will attend school at Berkeley. Mr. Bratton, who accompanied the family to the southern city, returned home this week.

The committee for the Catholic Ladies bazaar will be at the assembly room Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 2 until 5 o'clock to receive the donations for the bazaar. Those good enough to donate articles to be sold should bring them or telephone their names and address and the donations will be called for. 4-7*
