New Members Will Take Lunch With C. of C. Tomorrow

A rousing meeting of the members forum of the chamber of commerce is the prediction made for tomorrow. Since the meeting a week ago over 150 new members have been taken in and they are all invited to be present. The only one that this matter gives much concern to is Ross Nickerson of the Rex cafe who has to furnish the service. However, their will be some way fixed and all who can are requested to attend promptly at 12:15.

Dance for Invalids.

A dance to raise funds for the purpose of buying a phonograph for the county infirmary has been planned by J. H. Short, superintendent of the infirmary, for next Saturday night. A general invitation has been issued to county people and everyone attending should bring a basket, the management will furnish plenty of hot coffee. The baskets will not be sold, but any contribution from the dancers will be welcome.

WEDDED BY JUSTICE

N. J. Chapman, justice of the peace, officiated at a wedding late yesterday when he married William B. Bradshaw and Miss Lois Jacoby. Only the necessary witnesses were present as the affair was a very quiet one.

YOUNG ITALIAN PANGES

Dino Diippo, 19 years old, succumbed last night to an attack of meningitis. The young Italian, came here about five months ago to be with his parents at Pelican City. Aside from his mother and father he has no relatives here.

The funeral will be held tomorrow from the Whitlock chapel at 3 o'clock, and interment will take place in the city cemetery.

OUT OF HOSPITAL

William Herman was discharged from the Klamath general hospital today, following an operation for removal of the tonsils, performed yesterday by Dr. R. B. Craver. Charles Hassen, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, is slightly better, said Dr. Craver.

FLOWERS THAT GIVE LIGHT

Fact Not Generally Known is That Many Common Plants Have a Distinct Luminosity.

Most people have seen the plant colloquially called the burning bush, and have struck a match and applied it to the feathery flowers and leaves in order to see the delicate flame run over the surface of the plant without affecting or hurting it! But it is not so well known that there are a number of flowers which throw off luminosity all their own, and among such plants are the common marigold, certain sorts of lilies and the oriental poppy, as well as that familiar and popular favorite the nasturtium.

It is related that on a warm summer evening in the year 1762 the clever daughter of the famous Swedish botanist, Linnaeus, noticed that some nasturtiums in her father's garden were emitting tiny but distinct flashes of light; first one flower then another would throw out an evanescent beam. Though at first her assertion was received with doubt, other investigators soon proved it to be true, and it is now known that not only nasturtiums but many other flowers exhibit this luminosity. Camellias have been seen to glow with a moonlike radiance.

At the Theaters

AT THE LIBERTY THEATRE

An attempt at suicide does not ordinarily arouse laughter on the part of the spectator, and usually the police are called out to jail the foolish person, but in "The Heart of Twenty," the Robertson-Cole picture, starring ZaSu Pitts, which shows at the Liberty theatre today not only does the perpetrator of a near-suicide cause laughter but the police have to be called to restrain the audience from splitting their sides. Yes, you guessed it: "The Heart of Twenty" is another ZaSu Pitts picture with gobs of fine, wholesome comedy.

AT THE STAR THEATRE

Local screen admirers who recall the powerful portrayal given by J. M. Dumont as "The Dope" in "The Miracle Man" will see him in an entirely different type of role in "Young Mrs. Winthrop," the latest Ethel Clayton picture, which is coming to the Star theatre tonight. In this photoplay, which is a highly dramatic story of young married life, Mr. Dumont has a light comedy part. He is the divorced husband of a society flirt who is seeking to win back her affection. Another former husband is his rival. But a third party finally carries away the prize. Mr. Dumont is just as effective as a comedian as he was in the semi-heavy role of "The Dope."

The main action of "Young Mrs. Winthrop" concerns the misunderstanding of a jazzy-mad young wife and her equally young husband who is completely absorbed in business. A reconciliation is effected after several intensely interesting episodes. Harrison Ford is the leading man. The picture is a Paramount Aircraft and was directed by Walter Edwards.

There are good women and the "other" kind. In "Blind Youth," a National picture which comes to the Star theatre tomorrow, one of the other kind, has the wife of the hero, Maurice Monnier, at her mercy.

As the situation stood, the other kind of woman was married to the artist in his wild student days. She left him for another, but reappeared when and where she was least expected—in New York just as the hero, having found true love at last, was planning to ask another to be his wife.

It was then that the complications commenced—and they were plentiful. A jealous, selfish brother and a society-loving mother did their best to keep the pot of trouble boiling. In the end—well, virtue has a way of triumphing finally.

From the drawing rooms of Fifth avenue and the studios of Greenwich village to the ateliers of Paris and the garrets of Montmartre—so the characters of the story travel.

"Blind Youth" was adapted from the stage success of the same name, written by Lou Tellegen and Willard Mack. It was directed by Ted Solman, and a highly capable cast, headed by Walter McGrail and Leatrice Joy, portrayed the various roles. The screen version was written by Katherine Reed.

CONSIDER DEVELOPMENT OF FISH AND GAME

Development of Klamath county's attractions for hunters and anglers was considered at a meeting yesterday afternoon of the fish and game committee of the chamber of commerce, Chairman R. W. Tower presiding. The need of fish ladders over the Copco and Keno dams in the Klamath river was referred to the local sportsmen's association. The state fish commission will be asked to provide bass for Klamath county lakes and also for liberation of more trout fry in Sprague river.

Application has been made for the importation of the Bob White quail and Mr. Tower is hopeful of securing some of these birds.

LESSON IN LIFE OF EMPRESS

"Vanity of Vanities; All is Vanity," Never Better Exemplified Than by Unhappy Eugenie.

In the middle 70s I had, for several years, a suite of rooms in a hotel in St. Gall, Switzerland. Returning from one of my periodical trips to England, the proprietor informed me that he had taken the liberty of permitting a lady and her attendant to occupy the rooms for a night, as the hotels were all full. She was a middle-aged woman, of sorrowful aspect, dressed in black, and walked with a cane, and although traveling incognito, was recognized by one of the hotel staff as ex-Empress Eugenie, widow of Napoleon the Little, who owned a chateau near Schaffhausen.

That was about 1874. And only a few weeks ago this unhappy woman, who had long been tired of life, died at the age of ninety-four.

What a sad and checkered career! Born in Spain, of an unassuming aristocratic family, raised to the glittering throne of the second empire, leader of Europe's fashion and frivolity, losing, within a few years, her throne, her husband and her son, then, an exile, visiting from time to time, like a black ghost, the scenes of her former triumphs.

"Vanity of vanities; all is vanity, saith the preacher."—Los Angeles Times.

CANNOT SIGNAL TO MARS

Scientist Shows Impossibility of Earth Having Communication With Our Neighboring Planets.

In attempting to communicate with Mars, there are several factors that must be taken into consideration. Henry Meier of Center college summed these up at a recent meeting of the Kentucky Academy of Science. He said that in the first place the probably low temperature, rarefied atmosphere and absence of water on Mars are against the existence there of beings similar to ourselves. In the next place signaling by light must be given up, for the reason that the earth's atmosphere would absorb 40 per cent of the light sent out, and the distance was so great that an area of light ten miles square on the earth would, if seen from Mars through a telescope magnifying 500 times, appear like an area one inch square viewed at a distance of 500 feet. In considering signals by radio, it has been computed that it would require a current of a million amperes at the sending station to obtain one of one ampere at a receiving station on Mars. "And Mr. Meier remarked that the powerful electric current sent out by the sun would probably overwhelm the weak waves sent from the earth."

Canadian Oil Production.

Over 90 per cent of the production of crude petroleum in Canada is still obtained from the oil fields in southern Ontario, according to the preliminary report of the mineral production of Canada during the calendar year 1919, prepared by John McLeish, B. A., chief division of mineral resources and statistics, Canadian department of mines. These fields have been producing for 58 years, but production has been supplemented during recent years by a small annual production from New Brunswick and Alberta. The total production of crude oil from these fields in 1919 was 240,970 barrels of 35 imperial gallons, having a value of $744,957, as compared with a total production in 1918 of 304,741 barrel, valued at $885,143.

Builder of Soils.

Most of the fame that has come to the humble cowpea has arisen from its extremely practical value as a builder of soils and as a feed crop. It is a legume and, plowed under, its vines give the needed humus to soils lacking this necessary quality.

Its name isn't poetical, either, but it is entitled to a place among the most beautiful flowering plants in this country. Its cousin is our varicolored sweet pea. In blossom a field of cowpeas, with their dark, glossy leaves, looks exactly as if a myriad host of purple butterflies, each with two yellow spots on its wings, had settled upon it for a momentary rest, and when the wind blows the resemblance is even more marked.

Shortening the Twilight.

Although no son of romantic Erin would be expected to deprive the world of twilight, J. G. Sullivan has contributed to the Canadian Engineer strong mathematical arguments that lengthen night at the expense of the lover's hour.

As the result of personal observations Mr. Sullivan would correct the standard statement of encyclopedias that twilight continues until the sun has fallen at least 18 degrees below the horizon. It will be near the truth, he thinks, to say that twilight ends when the sun's decline is about 15 degrees.

Not So Wrong.

"Don't you think, dear, that it would be a good plan to let me select the stocks for you to buy and sell?" his wife suggested.

He withdrew his attention from a vast compilation of calculations long enough to snort disdainfully.

"Why, you don't know anything about the stock market," he said.

"No," she responded sweetly; "but it's a poor rule that won't work both ways—and I've observed that it is those who know all about it that generally lose."
