

Weather Probabilities

The Cyclo Stormograph at Underwood's Pharmacy has registered an almost steady barometric pressure for the past 24 hours. This indicates a continuance of the present condition of the weather.

Forecast for next 24 hours: Cloudy, with unsettled weather, probably continued, warm.

FEISAL HAS CAUSTIC TONGUE

Arabian Potentate's Comments on European Men and Measures Interesting in the Extreme.

The oriental tact and personal charm of Emir Feisal did much to win friends for the Arabian cause in Paris. No one ever came away from him in an angry mood. The emir was very witty and many stories are told of his clever retorts to acquaintances in Paris. On one occasion a correspondent asked him to give his opinion of modern statesmen as a result of his acquaintance with them at the peace conference. He replied, "They are like modern paintings. They should be hung in a gallery and be viewed from a distance."

Mr. Balfour once tried to find out what Emir Feisal thought of the British government. He succeeded. "It reminds me of a caravan in the desert. You see an impressive string of dromedaries in the distance trekking single file across the shifting sands. When you first overtake them, you observe that the last camel is tied to the tail of the next in line. When you reach the head of the column, you find that a little donkey is leading the whole string."—Asia Magazine.

HUGE PYTHON "RAN" SHIP

Little Doubt That Reptile Was in Supreme Command, at Least for a Few Hours.

How a huge python took possession of the British steamship Bolton Castle for a brief period during her recent trip from Singapore to Victoria, B. C., was related by officers and passengers of the vessel on her arrival at the Canadian port.

Three of these monster serpents were being shipped to the Bronx zoo in New York, and in some unaccountable manner one of them managed to make its escape. The whereabouts of the snake was a matter of anxious conjecture among the crew for a couple of days, until in the early hours of the third day out the quartermaster was precipitated driven from his post at the wheel by the appearance of the monster in the pilot house doorway.

The vessel was allowed to drift for a couple of hours, until, armed with every available weapon, some members of the crew undertook a stealthy raid, arriving just in time to see the snake leave the pilot house and glide into the sea. The creature was said to measure 30 feet in length.

Flowers for Graves

In this country the long-lasting little flowers called "immortelles" are comparatively little known. In France, however, they are grown in enormous quantities for the decoration of graves.

Nearly all of the immortelles produced in France are grown in the neighborhood of the village of Ollioules, which is in the South, not far from Toulon. The harvest begins in May and lasts ten days, a period called the "decade of the immortelles."

They have to be picked very early in the morning, when half-open, lest they wither. Usually they are sold by weight. The war has brought prosperity to the village of Ollioules, because of the increased demand for immortelles for the graves of soldiers.

A DEMI-SKIRT

Intriguing demi-skirts instead of dresses, this season, are worn under separate coats. Here is a most attractive suit of this type, of dark gray duvetyne. There is, first, a straight skirt, then a blouse-coat that consists of a cross-over body finishing in two points, front and back, that button down on a high-shaped belt fastening with a buckle covered with the dress material. To the belt is attached a half-length tunic of plaited duvetyne.

FARMER HAD REAL THING

Peculiarly Mean Joke That is Said to Have Been Played on an Indiana Sheriff.

"Say, sheriff," said a voice over the telephone to the sheriff of a nearby Indiana county a few days ago, "this is Ike Stubbs. Well, Jim Stubbs, a neighbor of mine that I been havin' trouble with, is on his way to town right now with a load of 'white mule.' He's goin' by the Cornbread road and if you hurry you and your men will have plenty of time to catch him before he reaches town."

"He's got the 'mule' all covered up with a canvas tarpaulin on the back of his wagon."

The sheriff swore in two deputies and went to the Cornbread road.

The officers saw approaching them in leisurely fashion a big farm wagon drawn by two horses that were driven by a man answering the description of Stubbs.

"Halt, in the name of the law!" ordered the sheriff. "Have you got a load of 'white mule'?"

"I sure have. I gotta admit it," replied the farmer who by this time sensed that somebody was being made the victim of a joke, "look for yourself, sheriff, under the cover there."

The sheriff raised the tarpaulin and gazed on the melancholy form of a real white mule which had passed away following an attack of colic and which even then was on its way to a reduction plant in the nearby city.—Indianapolis News.

Artificial Silk Improved.

A new process has been developed whereby the same raw material (wood cellulose) is converted into an imitation silk which, when woven into cloth, has remarkable brilliancy and durability, with a "feel" like that of real silk. It is waterproof and no more inflammable than natural silk. The new process silk can be drawn into much finer threads than those of ordinary artificial silk, and is said to be particularly remarkable for the quality of the velvets made from it.

Its Nature.

"Isn't it too bad, this dispute they're having with Germany over coal?"

"Yes; it is a burning shame."

MEDALS TO BE AWARDED FARM CONVENTION

Presentation of medals won by Klamath county calf club members and the county judging team at the show he is planning on re-opening stock show at Portland will be a feature of the meeting of Klamath county farmers and their families, scheduled to be held in the local high school December 20-21-22-23.

O. M. Plummer, manager of the Pacific International livestock club, will make the presentation. A big dinner on December 21 is another feature announced today by the committee.

Courses will be given in farm accounting, livestock feeding and other branches of farm work, with interesting demonstrations. There will be a home science course for women.

George Marshfield, president of the state farm bureau, is expected to be among the notable speakers who will address the daily assemblies. As an effort is being made to secure the presence of Mrs. Jessie McComb, state leader of home demonstrations, or in the event of her inability to come a member of the state staff.

The proposed gathering will be a big event from both the educational and social standpoints. It is being promoted jointly by county educators, the chamber of commerce and the farm bureau.

The confectionery store, opposite the postoffice, owned by Allen Holcomb, and the news stand owned by Harry Richardson in conjunction, was sold this week to A. H. Hale, who has taken immediate possession. Mr. Hale has been ranching near Malin and at the same time working for the government for the past ten years and is well known here. Mr. Holcomb denies the report

NAVY MEDICAL HEAD

ADMIRAL E. R. STITT WASHINGTON—Rear Admiral Edward Rhodes Stitt, commanding officer of the U. S. navy medical schools since 1916, has been appointed surgeon-general of the navy to succeed Rear Admiral W. C. Braisted, who has retired after eight years' service in the position. Admiral Stitt is an authority on tropical medicine. He was recently called into consultation by Admiral Grayson during President Wilson's illness.

tha he is planning on re-opening the creamery which was destroyed in the Houston fire. He said, however, that he was looking over several dairy propositions and might at some future date get back into that business. Mr. Richardson has made no statement as to the business he will engage in.

RECEIVE AWARD FOR HANDWRITING EFFICIENCY

Muriel Moore, Eva Anderson, Margaret Cummings, Ruth Lawrence, Evelyn Amicke and Letha Dodge, sixth grade pupils of the Riverside school, have received the efficiency button for successful completion of the first 25 lessons in Palmer method of writing.

They now embark on a one hundred lesson course, completing of which entitles successful pupils to the "progress pin." The Riverside pupils are pioneers in taking the Palmer method, but J. P. Wells, city superintendent, reports that other schools are taking up the first course and papers will be turned by all local schools at the close of the present term, December 17.
