Yuletide Thought

You will fine the clerk less surly if you do your shopping early.

And, as Jimmy Ryan suggests, Mr. Cox may be truly thankful that it was no worse.

It is barely possible that the Chicago man who had $350,000 on him was going to order his winter coal.

Verify, The Path of An Editor Is Paved With Thorns: Versailles (Ind.) Republican.

Isn't This True?

A child is born in the neighborhood; the editor gives the loud-lunged youngster and the "happy parents" a sendoff and gets $90. It is christened and the minister gets $5 and the editor gets $90. The editor publishes a dozen lies about the beautiful and accomplished bride. The minister gets $10 and a piece of cake and the editor gets $90. In the course of time she dies; the doctor gets from $15 to $100, the minister perhaps another $5, the undertaker gets from $75 to $100, the editor publishes a notice of the death and gets $90. No wonder so many country editors get rich. Have you paid your subscription.

Only A Memory

The old man's living in the past. And he recalls with aching heart The good old days forever gone When he had hair enough to part.

Literary Note

Sometime back we sold a hunk of our immortal verse to a popular magazine and received a check in advance. We have bought a copy of that periodical every month since, hoping, in vain, to find it and if it doesn't appear within the next three issues, we're going to be (as Jack Brooks would express it) "aout o' pawket."

And Al Leavitt says that he heard this from a surviving democrat: "Why don't they ask the new amnesia victim—Jim—if his last name is Watson?"

Better let the fellow alone who laughs when he is mad.

Landlubbers, Attention

Any one of a dozen well-known republican landlubbers whom we have seen mentioned for the secretaryship of navy will suit us if they suit Mr. Harding. We insist upon one qualification—namely, that the appointee shall not as Josephus Daniels did, refer to the deck of a battleship as the piazza.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied, with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out of date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.—Adv.

Mr. Murphy On the Court House

"Good mornin' Mr. Murphy," the puple, recognizin' his right of priority have filleted him to office ivr halted briskly across Main street toward Sugarman's store and shook the hand of the old lady with the same vigor and grace that might be employed in manipulating a pump handle, "an' where in the wurld are y' headin' for so airly in the day?" "Headin' for," queried Mr. Murphy, as he backed up against a show window, and planted his brogans just far enough apart to insure his equilibrium during the conversation, "Shure an' oim on me way to th' coorthouse."

"Coorthouse, coorthouse," ruminated Mrs. Clancy. "O! do believe oive heard the minton av such an insti-tootioin before. Is there sooch a thing as that at all in the county?" "Shure an' there is, Mrs. Clancy Wan av thim belongs to Jimmy Dougan, another to th' county joodge, an' the ould disreputable lookin' structure on the corner beyant, wid a couple av haard lookin' accessories flankin' it in the rear, belongs to all the people av the county, an' it's mighty proud we are av the ould relics, for there's nothin' to equill thim in the whole wurruid, Mrs. Clancy."

"An' phat the devil do y' want av all thim coorthouses," queried Mrs. Clancy. "Want!" ejaculated Mr. Murphy, "sure an' it hnt'a question av what we want—it's a simple matter av acceptin' an' makin' the bist av anything the honorable county court wants to poke at us, an' thim the elimination av the extra coorthouses would put a murderin' big crimp in the yearly income av about sixteen lawyers who do be so entirely fed upon coorthouse litigation that they'd have the belly ache the rist av their loives if they had to swally anything else to make an honest livin'."

"Yes, but Mr. Murphy, warn't ye crazy to start a fuss about such a schmall matter as a coorthouse? Phat the devil's got into y' anyway?" "Well, Mrs. Clancy, that's what we're been tryin' to coonderstand ivr since the trouble started, but the oldest citizens don't know any more about it than the day they started to unravel it. Anyway, accordin' to Jimmy Driscoll and a few reliable citizens, the trouble began wid County Assisser Lee. They do say that our prisint county assisser staked out a claim on the ould coorthouse site, an' joodge had toime to duck off game strike."
