The Office Cat

BY JUNIUS

Just Pups
Old Bull and Brindle are scrub pups
Which lounged along the street.
Wiggle, waggle, went their tails
Whenever they chanced to meet.

Old Bull and Brindle were good friends
So everybody thought.
Until they chanced to smell a bone,
Then "Lordy" how they fought.

Now Bull and Brindle are big fools
To fight for one small bone,
For which they would not give a sniff
If they were left alone.

But Bull and Brindle are not dogs
So there is some excuse
To hear them growl and fight and yowl
And wallow in abuse.

For Bull and Brin are only men
With brains just like a louse.
The bone for which they fight, you see.

Is one big nice courthouse.
—Greenleaf Cullen Wadsworth.

Old Fashioned Women

London women have taken to smoking pipes. And they probably enjoy it because they imagine it's fast, whereas it's slow. Pipe smoking was common among their grandmothers.

If the shipping board revelations are anywhere near true, some of those dollar-a-year patriots didn't begin to earn their pay.

Bravo

New York clothes manufacturers are cutting prices from 25 to 40 percent. "That's the way to encourage the backyard buyer!"

Doc. Powell says that his idea of an optimist is the guy who still wears Jimmy Cox's campaign badge.

It is reported that a Klamath Falls woman, who loves to impress the neighbors, tore up a feather duster and scattered it around the backyard after dining on round steak Thanksgiving day.

Bless Her Heart

There was a dame in our town
And she was wondrous wise,
She did her shopping early (Hence she deserves a prize.)
And when she had her shopping done
She chortled in her sleeve
At her neighbors who (as usual)
Pat it off till Christmas Eve.

For conspicuous feature fitting the trophy should be awarded to a Chicago newspaper, which speaks of a seven-passenger Ford.

Still, if the stool pigeon whom Hank Wilson describes hadn't been pistolled, most likely he would have been electric chaired, sooner or latter.

He's A Good Loser

From the Nepszava Amerikai Nay-yar Nepszava
I am looking for my wife, Mrs.
George Schomberger. (nee Agnes Schomberger) who left my bed and board on Oct. 26th, taking with her my $2300. I should like to get in touch with her or those who know her whereabouts so that I may send her a special sum of $100 so that she can get even further away.

Even if a man has ten tons of Pocohontas in his bin, is that any reason why he should be snobbish toward his neighbors?

If you want to know how many touring souvenir hunters from America have visited France, listen: "They have left hardly a trace of the war in that devastated land."

Lucky Polygamist

Solomon may think his stars that when he lived the women wore loose robes with no hooks and eyes in 'em.
Think of buttoning up 400 wives.

It is to be hoped that the promise that there shall be no frills in men's clothing next year includes the prices.

Bless 'em

They dress their feet
And dress their hair.
And let their knees
And backs go bare.

The politician who promised nothing generally makes good.
