THE LIBERTY THEATRE

Shirley Mason, the petite Fox star who is coming to the Liberty theatre tonight in "Girl of My Heart," had a most unusual experience in California while at work making this picture in August.

Most of the scenes in "The Girl of My Heart" are exterior. To film these the entire company spent three weeks between Big Bear mountain and the desert below it. A cabin used for the Hermit doctor in the play was located on the tip of a peak overlooking on one side the Painted Desert, and, on the other, peak after peak of mountain range. One can see "Dry Lake," which is a plateau of sand, and "Bluff Lake," so named by a man traveling through about 40 years ago.

Four Kentucky thoroughbreds, descended from Arabian steeds, are used by the four mounted police officers who figure in "Under Northern Lights," the thrilling tale of a Canadian woods to be seen at the Liberty theatre on Friday. These horses were acquired especially for this production and will remain in the stables at Universal City.

John Bogart, the Ludington Central league team pitcher who has been bought by Detroit, is tagged as a pastimer with a promising future. He made a remarkable showing last season, which was his first in organized baseball. The young player—he is only 19—stands six feet and weighs close to 200 pounds.

THE STAR THEATRE

In only three American cities abides the spirit of true romance, a noted author wrote a few years ago, and mentioned San Francisco as first among them. Other writers have successfully searched for romance in still other towns, but none has gain-said the first, regarding San Francisco, especially in that period represented in "The Penalty," when the underworld of the coast city had no rival in the world.

If for no other reason, "The Penalty" would be remarkable as a definite record of the scenes in the celebrated Barbary Coast before reform and prohibition swept out the vice that lurked in every alley and underground retreat by day, and stalked forth unashamed by night. Here are pictured the very sites of the revelry and moral abandon that once made Frisco notorious wherever men gathered to talk of cities. The dope fiend, the white slave, the thug—all of the unregenerate devotees of vice and crime that imagination can picture, are shown as they nested in other days, and persons who were familiar with "things as they were" helped to stage the scenes.

The sights are real. Only the story is fictitious, and the natives say worse, things happened in the "good old days." See the Penalty at the Star theatre tonight.

FEEDING 1000 HEAD OF SHEEP ON MALIN RANCH

MALIN, Jan. 6.—Luther Holbrook has brought his 1000 head of sheep to his ranch, a quarter of a mile south of here, for winter feeding. He has had them on lake land pasture for a couple of months. Several days have been spent in building grain troughs and feed racks. Blake Holbrook and Lawrence Gober are helping with this work.

Mr. Holbrook states that the daily ration for one sheep will be three fourths of a pound of hay and a pound and a half of grain at the beginning of feeding. As spring approaches the proportion of grain will be increased to three pounds while the amount of hay will be decreased to a half pound.
