WILL WE LOSE SINNOTT?

Eastern Oregon is going to face a crisis in its development during the present session of the state legislature, for ambitious politicians are going to sacrifice it on the altar of their own ambitions. The expectations are that Oregon will have another congressman and to provide a district for him the legislature may undertake to reapportion the state in this reapportionment, Eastern Oregon is going to take what the politicians choose to throw it. Whispers are coming down the line that the Second district is to be carved in a manner to meet the demands of certain politicians and in this carving Congressman Sinnott is to be thrown into a district comprising the northern tier of counties. We do not know what Mr. Sinnott thinks of such an arrangement, but we believe we are voicing the sentiment of every man and woman in Klamath and Lake counties when we say the people are unalterably opposed to any such an arrangement.

Today this county is practically certain of securing nearly one and one-half million dollars mainly through the efforts of Mr. Sinnott. The Deschutes project has been undertaken by reason of his indefatigable efforts. The Umatilla project came in for its share of money for the further extension of work there. Where did this extra money come from and who made it possible to get it? It came as a result of the efforts of Sinnott in driving through his amendment to the oil leasing bill that 70 per cent of the money arising out of past oil production and 52 1/2 per cent arising out of all future production should go into the reclamation fund. Sinnott got this money and nobody else. He fought with his back to the wall, determined that the reclamation fund should receive this money. His bulldog tenacity, as a member of the conference committee, when he deadlocked an agreement that did not carry with his provision, won for us the money we needed to start the Klamath project on its road to completion and opened the way for the settlement of the Tule lake lands.

If Sinnott is gerrymandered out of this district, we lose the biggest western representative. It has taken Oregon twenty years to get back into the position of being the leader of the west in congress, and Sinnott is the man who did it for us. Are we going to stand by and see his influence taken from us and possibly dimmed? Unfortunately we have no representative in the legislature from this county, but we have pens and ink and paper and we can bombard those who do represent the district and tell them they must not legislate Sinnott out of Eastern Oregon, and that Klamath and Lake counties demand that he remain as our representative in congress. This is vital to every farmer in the district; it is vital to every American Legion member; it is vital to every business man, for Sinnott has secured for each that which he has wanted. Give the members of the legislature to understand that Mr. Sinnott must be consulted and if this is done, we are confident that he will ask that he be left with the people he has served so loyally and faithfully.

Same Name, Same Business—Now Same Make of Machine

It isn't often that two men with the same surname, in the same city, engaged in the same business and on the same day, without either knowing what the other is doing, will buy the same make of automobile from the same dealer. But that very thing happened here yesterday, when D. M. Smith, of the real estate firm of Chilcote & Smith, and R. E. Smith, of the Smith Realty company, both purchased Buick automobiles from Louis Hoagland, owner of the Buick Sales and Service company. Mr. Hoagland stated that this is the first time he has had such an experience and that he has never heard of a similar incident.

Marshall May Not Have a Walkover

It was learned this morning that there was a strongly organized effort being made to elect Charles Gray as a director of the Klamath Irrigation district today, to succeed A. L. Marshall, whose term is about to expire and who is a candidate to succeed himself. The general impression prevailed that there would be no opposition to Mr. Marshall and the entrance of his name in the race will come as a surprise. He is a well-known rancher and sheep man and if elected will undoubtedly render valuable service to the district.

CORRECTION IN BARGAIN DAY AD

Due to a typographical error in the Bargain Day advertisement of B. P. Lewis, the price of Standard Tomato Puree, 2 1/2 size, was given as $3.50 per case. The price should have been $3.90 per case and this is the price at which they will be sold.

State Dep't Urges Right to Pass On O'Callaghan Case

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The deportation of Donal O'Callaghan, lord mayor of cork, who arrived at Newport News last week as a stow-away and without a passport, was requested again today of the department of labor by Acting Secretary Davis of the state department.

Davis quoted the proclamation of President Wilson in 1918, designating the secretary of state as the officer who should say whether an alien should be admitted or denied admission under the passport regulations.

Express Office Gains Heavily in 1920; Ranks Fifth

Growth of local express business during 1920 ranged from 50 to 75 per cent over the previous year, according to J. J. Parker, local agent, the greatest percentage of gain in ten years. Klamath ranks fifth in the volume of business among the 25 offices of which Sacramento heads the list.

Body of Another Hero Home; Buried At Ashland, Ore.

A wire has been received from H. S. Parrish, of Ripon, California, which advises The Herald office that the body of his son, Sergeant Leo L. Parrish, who died while in the service overseas, will be buried at Ashland, Oregon, tomorrow.

Leo Parrish enlisted from this city shortly after the outbreak of the war, and was assigned to wagon company No. 304, quartermaster's department. On June 23, 1918, he received his sergeant's rank. On October 11, 1918, he died of pneumonia, and was buried in France.

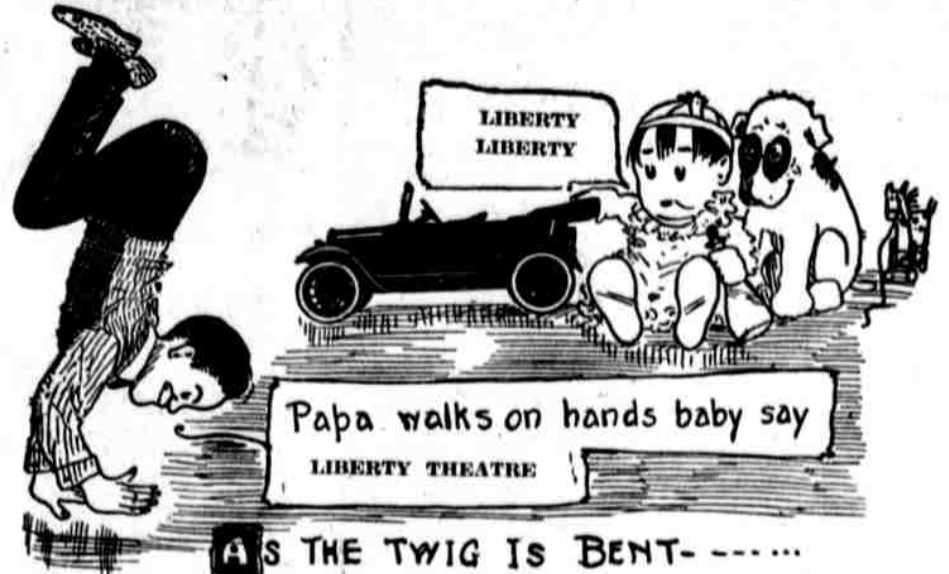

The decedent lived near Spring lake nearly all of his life, and had many acquaintances in this city and in other parts of the county. His mother, Mrs. Arthur Eastman, resides in Portland. R. E. Hunsaker, of this city, was an uncle of the dead youth.

The wire states that the body will be interred beside the remains of his brother Claude.

NEW FIRM STARTS UPHOLSTERING SHOP

A partnership has been formed between J. E. Bratton and G. W. Douglas, and under the firm name of Douglas & Bratton they will engage in the upholstering and furniture repairing business, with headquarters at 127 North Fourth street. Mr. Bratton is well known in this city, having been connected with the sheriff's office for an extended period and later with the People's Market. Mr. Douglas, who is an experienced upholsterer and furniture man, came here recently from Medford.
