

FIRST PICTURE—RESCUE OF LOST BALLOONISTS!

The Evening Herald publishes herewith, exclusively, the first photograph to reach the United States showing the rescue of the three U. S. navy balloonists who were lost for days in the frozen wilderness of northern Canada.

The balloonists left Rockaway, (N. Y.) air station on Dec. 13. A strong gale carried the big gas bag speedily northward. On Dec. 14 the airmen decided to risk a landing and at 2 p. m. they came down in the dense wilderness just south of James Bay (see Map.) For four days they wandered, half frozen and hungry, through this wild, frozen country, eating caribou moss and finally killing two of their three carrier pigeons for food. Then, with death one day off, they chanced upon an Indian trapper, Tom Marks, who took them to his cabin, gave them good and then led them to Moose Factory. Below the map is a view of Moose Factory, showing also the desolate nature of the country.

After a rest, the balloonists set out by dog sleds, such as that shown in the upper right picture, across the frozen trail leading to Mattice and Cochrane, railroad towns shown on the map.

The arrival picture was taken by S. A. Bradbury, a clerk in the Hudson Bay company's post at Moose Factory, who was present when the Indian trapper led the exhausted men in.

Bradbury left Moose Factory, carrying the photograph, with the party of messengers that brought out the happy news of the rescue.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied, with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out of date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after, another application or two it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.—Adv.

Mrs. Betsey Fancher, a 76-year-old woman of Grand Rapids, Mich., secured a decree of divorce and a license to remarry the same day.

Mrs. Laura G. Fraser of New York is the designer of the medal which is to be presented to more than 1600 commissioned chaplains in the American army and navy who saw active service in the world war.
