ECHO OF FORMER CASE BEING HEARD TODAY

As an echo of the conviction of Jesse Eckwald and her sister, Blanche Turner, charged with pilfering $400 from a logger, who claimed he had been relieved of that amount while in the company of the women, the suit of William Marx, attorney, through W. C. Van Emon, against Justice Gahagen for the recovery of $175 which was nominally in the custody of the justice court, will come up this afternoon in the circuit court.

When the women were arrested their rooms were searched, and the officers found $175 secreted in a trunk. This money was turned over to the justice court. The money is claimed as private property by the women, who are both serving a six months' sentence in the penitentiary at Salem, and the suit is a friendly one to determine the legal ownership of the money.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY WILL ELECT TOMORROW

The Women's Auxiliary of the Chamber of Commerce at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon will hold a silver tea, when an executive committee will be elected. Present officers and directors are: Mrs. E. S. Henry, president; Mrs. Paul Bogardus, vice-president; Mrs. Fred Murphy, secretary. Executive committee Mrs. William Ganong, Mrs. D. M. Smith, Mrs. C. W. Eberlein, and Mrs. C. J. Ferguson. All women interested in community work are invited to attend.

CAMPBELL SUIT STARTS IN CIRCUIT COURT

In the circuit court this morning the case suit of W. R. Campbell against Eddie Cookham over the sale of a half stack of hay, was begun before a jury. Campbell claims he purchased the hay from Cookham and paid him $150 on account. The hay, it is claimed was not delivered, but sold to another party by Cookham. The latter brings a counter claim for pasturage in the sum of $225. The attorneys for plaintiff reached just before noon and the case will probably go to the jury sometime this afternoon.

FARM POINTERS

January is a good time to sow sweet clover for pasture on the dry hills of Southern Oregon. Usually 12 to 15 pounds of yellow flowering biennial sweet clover per acre are used for pasture seeding.

Well fed and well-kept calves are less likely to be injured by lice than those that are allowed to run down. The simplest remedy for lice-infested calves is raw linseed oil brushed well into the skin. Keep the calf out of the sun and weather for 24 hours after treating. Repeat the application after ten days, being careful to rub the oil well into the neck, armpits and top of the shoulders. Three applications are usually sufficient.

An hour or two with a shovel will empty the dead furrows and prevent the drowning out of many young crops this winter. Standing surface water is harmful to both the soil and the crop, hence the surface drains should not be neglected.

Any feeding of bees at this time of year should be with soft candy or fondant, rather than syrup, as it is easier to feed, is more economical, and keeps down moisture in the hive. A good formula for bee fondant is: Granulated sugar, 12 pounds; liquid glucose, 1 1/2 pounds; water, 1 1/4 quarts; cream of tartar, 3/4 tablespoonful. Heat the water and stir in sugar slowly until dissolved. Add the glucose, boil, and then add cream of tartar. Remove and stir until thick enough to pour into molds.

Prominent mining men of Oregon will attend the annual meeting of the Oregon chapter of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers at O. A. C., January 21. Faculty and students of the school of mines will entertain the visitors, and a good representation from the 57 members of the chapter in the state is expected. The institute will lunch with the Corvallis chapter of A. A. E., and H. M. Parks, director of the Oregon state bureau of mines, will address the combined meeting on "Geology in Relation to Engineering." Mr. Parks was formerly dean of the O. A. C. school of mines. Business meeting will be held at 2:30 to elect officers. Discussion of the bill to revise federal mining laws will be led by W. B. Dennis, A. M. Swartly and Dean C. E. Newton. An inspection trip of the campus will follow and dinner will be had in the home economics building at 6:30.
