Oregon Publishers Will Buy Print Paper Wholesale

SALEM, Ore., Jan. 28.—Purchasing of supplies for newspapers of Oregon in wholesale quantities is contemplated by the Oregon Publishers' Syndicate, which filed articles of incorporation here recently. The capital stock was given as $10,000.

Fifteen Oregon newspapers are represented in the syndicate. The organization, it is said, is in line with a resolution adopted at a recent Oregon newspaper conference held at the University of Oregon at Eugene.

Incorporators are George Putnam, publisher of The Salem Capital Journal; Carl G. Abrams, The Salem Statesman; G. Lansing Hurd, The Corvallis Gazette-Times; I. M. Ragan, The Albany Herald and I. E. Shelton, The Eugene Guard.

PARTIES TO WATER SUIT NAMED WRONGLY

In the circuit court notes which appeared in yesterday's Herald, it was stated that Joseph Robustillini was given a judgment against Louis Noll in a case involving irrigation rights. The names should have been reversed, as Mr. Noll, through whose land the irrigation ditch in question flows, was given the decision. Robustillini claimed that Noll had given him permanent water rights, but it was conclusively proved that Noll had not done so.

ICE ON LOWER PART OF UPPER LAKE BROKEN UP

The ice for five or six miles back of the foot of Upper Klamath lake has been broken up by the wind and warmer weather of the past few days and gone out. This was learned by George Stephenson, local lumberman this morning, when he set out to view timber on the west shore of the lake, expecting to walk across the ice from Shippington. He had two men with him who crossed from the west shore Tuesday and found the ice perfectly solid. The trio were forced to take an automobile for the roundabout trip by road.

ALL LOCAL SCHOOLS GET FIRST AID CABINETS

The first aid cabinets purchased from the surplus of the Junior Red Cross fund, collected through the efforts of the county school pupils, have been presented to all Klamath Falls schools, announces City Superintendent J. P. Wells, who says that the gift is highly appreciated.
