

WILL INQUIRE INTO LAVA BED PHENOMENA

Evidences of timber fires and volcanic eruptions in the lava beds, seen through a powerful glass from the top of the high school, is the motive for the organization of a party which will set out by auto for the lava beds tomorrow, to learn the extent and nature of the supposed fires and disturbances. F. W. Ritchie, who discovered the fire and evidences of volcanic discharges, with Neil Campbell, Ed Bloomingcamp, and one or two others, will compose the party.

This trip is contingent upon the weather, and also upon further evidence that may be discovered tonight when Mr. Ritchie, equipped with his powerful glass, will go to the hills toward Fort Klamath and make observations from the highest possible point.

About two months ago while Mr. Ritchie was camping at the lava beds with his son, he heard rumblings and felt tremors which convinced him that volcanic discharges were liable to occur. While no information other than that obtained through his field observations is at Mr. Ritchie's disposal, he feels sure that volcanic eruptions have occurred which have communicated what might prove to be serious timber fires.
