I HAVE CONFIDENCE

...It is a great thing to have confidence in your fellow man; in your neighbor; in your country; your city; and the institutions of your own home town. I have that confidence in Klamath Falls. I have confidence in its future, and in the mind's eye I can picture the great Inland City that is springing up here. I have confidence in the institutions of this city, especially in its banks, whether open or closed, for no financial institution can be insolvent in the community surrounded on every hand by the vast wealth and limitless resources of the Great Klamath Country. That is why my confidence in the First State and Savings bank is as strong today as when I left here a short time ago for New York. While in the great metropolis my attention was called to the suspension, and I then stated, as I state now, that it will reopen and in the reopening will be bigger, and stronger than ever. I know that the temporary suspension has embarrassed many of my friends and patrons, and it is this point of which I want to speak. If anyone, who has funds on deposit in the First State and Savings bank, whether regular patrons of LaVogue Store or only an occasional visitor, wishes to take advantage of the present opportunity to procure some of the unusually choice merchandise offered at this remarkable sale I shall be glad to make such arrangements with them as will make it possible for them to do so. I am sure the bank will reopen and I am backing my confidence with the above suggestion that you make use of your credit in this institution to buy merchandise that is being sold at prices that make it a real investment.
