

Malin Milling Co. Elects Officers and Forms 1920 Policy

MALIN, Feb. 2.—An annual meeting of the stockholders of the Malin Milling company at the Kalina store on Jan. 30, resulted in the election of the following officers: A. Kalina, president and manager; John Cacka, vice-president; V. J. Spolek, treasurer; and M. M. Stastny, secretary. The miller is Anton Petrasek. The personnel of the officers remains unchanged except that Kalina succeeds Stastny, as manager.

It was also decided to employ a bookkeeper, having his office in the mill. Among other business transacted and changes decided on was the construction of a warehouse to be used in connection with the mill. It is to be forty feet by sixty feet and is to be built in the near future.

If the Wood Dealer Sold Service
We do not sell current; we sell service. That sounds odd doesn't it?
Well, suppose the wood dealer sold service instead of wood, he would tend to your furnace and your range, take away the ashes and clean the flues. You would buy so much heat.
Now you buy so much light, although you pay according to the current you consume. But the service is performed for you by this company at the substations and power plants.
That is what we want to give you—efficient service. It is the aim of this company to have none but satisfied customers. No matter what it is, if you have a grievance, or are dissatisfied about your bill or do not understand our rates, please come in and see us or write us about it.
If you have any suggestions to make, we will gladly avail ourselves of them as our aim is constantly to improve our service to you as fast as the development of science and human ability permit.

The Office Cat

BY JUNIUS
AN ADVERTISING JINGLE.

Blackfoot (Idaho) Republican

There was an old geezer
And he had a lot of sense,
He started up in business
On a dollar eighty cents.
The dollar was for stock and eighty
for an ad,
Brought him three lovely dollars
In a day, by dad!
Well, he bought more goods
And a little more space
And he played that system
With a smile on his face.

The customers flocked
To his two-by-four
And soon he had to hustle
For a regular store.
Up on the square
Where people pass,
He gobbled up a corner
That was all plate glass.
He fixed up his windows
With the best he had
And told them all about it in

He soon had 'em coming
And he never, never quit,
And he wouldn't cut down his ads
one bit.
And he's kept things humming
In the town ever since
And everybody calls him
The merchant prince.

Some say it's luck—
But that's all bunk.
Why, he was doing business
When the times were punk!
People have to purchase
And the geezer was wise—
For he knew the way to get 'em
Was to advertise.

Profound Secret.
Where does the base drummer do his practicing?

Careful There!
Swords and pens are all right in their way, but the pretty typewriter is more killing. The time was once when we started to write a letter, beginning: "I take my pen in hand." Now "We take our typewriter in our arms."—Masonic Home Journal.

Brother, you can't tell us when you take your typewriter in your arms you are starting to write a letter! No, sir!

A white collar isn't going to stay white if you wear it around for two weeks without changing it. But some men in Klamath Falls seem to be color blind.

In The Wrong Tent
"Ah, this is the place I have been seeking," said the palsied old man as he pushed open the door of what he thought was the specialist's office. He saw a number of supposed patients who he thought were there to undergo a course of treatment for St. Vitus dance.

"No, you're in the wrong place," said the boss, when the old man had stated his case. "This isn't a specialist office—this is a dancing school, and the people you see are not patients—they are beginners trying to master the shimmy-wabble."

Sadly the old man apologized for intruding and turned away.

We are trying to develop speed to point where we can start today and get there yesterday.

Precisely
William Jennings Bryan would never tell this story. It's on a "pussyfoot" lecturer who was talking in a certain hall one evening on the drink question. "Now, supposing I had a pail of water and a pail of beer on this platform and then brought on a donkey; which of the two would he take?" "He'd take the water," came a voice from the gallery. "And why would he take the water?" asked the lecturer. "Because he's an ass," came the reply.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache Is Sign You Have Been Eating too Much Meat.

When you awake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.—Adv.
