How a Fortune Looks

John D.'s annual income is said to be around $80,000,000. You'd think he'd need a warehouse to hold it, but here's that much in one small vault at the U. S. treasury. Why, the little package just under John's picture holds $40,000,000 in gold certificates.

Indians Renew Old Feud In Humboldt; Bloodshed Is Feared

By Associated Press
 EUREKA, Feb. 5.—The superintendent of the Hoopa Indian reservation today appealed to the county authorities to take steps to prevent a widespread Indian war on the Klamath river.
 The Indians, said the superintendent, are divided into two armed camps, apparently ready to renew an ancient feud that started with the killing of a chief of the tribe forty years ago.

ELKS IN YELLOWSTONE FARED WELL LAST YEAR

HELENA, Mont., Feb. 5.—Elk in Yellowstone national park fared better during the hunting season which closed Christmas day than they have in the last ten years, according to a statement given out by the office of the Montana state game warden. Because of lack of snow and severe weather in the park the elk stayed in the protected area and did not come to the lower levels in Gallatin and Park counties. Usually the elk come out of the park to feed and are an easy target for hunters. Last year in Gallatin and Park counties, it is estimated 4900 elk were killed. Deer also it was stated, stayed within the park boundaries and not many of these animals were killed.

The Last Buffalo Hunt Is On

This photograph from Antelope Island, Great Salt Lake, Utah, shows what probably will be the last real buffalo hunt in the history of the United States. The great, wild beasts are being shot down just as they were in the old days when range bison roamed the western plains. There are 230 doomed animals—descendants of a herd taken to the island years ago and left to run wild because they could not escape. They became so savage they began killing off blooded cattle taken to the island by the Buffalo Island Livestock Co. So the company decided to get rid of them by selling permits to hunt them at $200 a head. Efforts of humane societies to halt the plan failed, and the hunt is on. This picture shows some of the early hunters with their first victims.
