THE STAR

Charles Ray is again an amateur inventor in "Homer Comes Home," his latest Ince offering, which will be the feature attraction at the Star theatre tonight.

You remember how in "Greased Lightning" Charlie evolved a home-made automobile that was the joke of the village, but which vindicated its owner in the pinch.

The latest invention has to do with motor cars too. But this time it is a non-skid arrangement that you fasten onto the back of your machine when it rains. Charlie, as a worker, in a small town garage, tries the invention out on his employer's car. The boss, all togged out in his dress clothes and high hat, is on his way to a big party and Charlie is driving. It is raining pitchforks. All goes well until with a few feet of the scene of the festivities—Zowie! The car spins around like a top, the boss's clothes are ruined, and Charlie is fired on the spot.

But that's just the start of the number of exciting and humorous adventures which Mr. Ray fills with his usual charm. "Homer Comes Home" was produced by Thomas H. Ince and directed by Jerome Storm for Paramount Artcraft release. Priscilla Bonner and Otto Hoffman are in the cast.

"There was so much comedy in 'Good Reference' at the Strand that the large auditorium re-echoed with the cheerful sound of spontaneous gales. Constance Talmadge possesses a naive manner and is capable of acting prettily as much comedy as a young woman may ever be expected to supply. The characters were such as to produce humorous complications and they did it. Most vivacious."—The Sun and New York Herald. At the Star Sunday.

SELLS ONE HOME SITE AND BUYS ANOTHER.

George H. Bell has sold his property, 1337 Sargent avenue, to R. E. Smith. His disposition of his home is not because of lack of faith in Klamath Falls, but because of renewed confidence in the future of the city, for he has reinvested in lots 5 and 6, block 33, Hillside addition. This property is located on Crescent avenue, at Souther, and is one of the most slightly building sites in the city. It is Mr. Bell's intention to erect a new home on the property this spring.

THE MONDALE

By popular request the Mondale is holding over the Melody Maids who have certainly won their way into the hearts of music lovers of Klamath Falls. They will positively give the best act they have done here as they have selected a wonderful repertoire of music, songs and dances, also the pictures for Sunday are beautiful. Wm. Desmond in "The Mints of Hell" is a wonderful picture of Alaskan life, each scene taken right in the heart of Alaska. "The Screaming Shadow" and a good comedy will make this the best show ever seen here. It will be a long time before you will see another bill like this one.

Weather Probabilities

The Cyclo-Stormograph, at Underwood's Pharmacy, has had busy time during the last week, as many sudden changes in the pressure have taken place.

Yesterday the barometer fell steadily until about midnight, but has climbed just as rapidly since that hour, and at 2 p. m. today, was well into the "clear weather" zone. Followers of the Cyclo-Stormograph records should remember that the barometric pressure indicates the probabilities from 12 to 24 hours in advance. If weather clears lower temperatures will probably prevail.

Forecast for next 24 hours: Fair weather, with brisk winds, which will diminish.

IRRIGATION DISTRICT WILL MOVE OFFICES

R. E. Bradbury, director, and A. L. Wishard, secretary of the Klamath Irrigation district, were appointed a committee at a special meeting of the directors of the district this afternoon, to find new office quarters for the board.

The reclamation service will require the rooms in the reclamation service building this summer, as the new construction work will bring in a big engineering force for whom it is necessary to provide office room.

It is understood that the department is considering either the remodeling of the present building on Eleventh street or its removal and replacement with a convenient office building. Should the million and a quarter dollar appropriation now pending in congress pass, there will be an immense amount of construction on the local project during the next few years and it is likely that there will be a new building.

The committee on new quarters for the district directors have nothing definite in view but expect to secure a location next week that will answer temporarily. The records of the association will be left in the reclamation service building for the time being.

Should a new building replace the present one, provision will be made for offices for the water users' representatives.

KLAMATH DYE WORKS PLANT IS FINISHED

The addition of the plant of the Klamath Dye Works, which has been under construction for a couple of months under the supervision of Contractor Louis K. Porter, has been finished, and as soon as the new equipment arrives Paul Lambert, proprietor of the dye works, will establish himself in what will be one of the best equipped and safe dyeing and cleaning institutions in this part of the state.

The addition joins the present quarters at the rear, extending back to the alley, and consists of cleaning, dyeing, finishing and drying rooms. Each of these rooms is sufficiently large, and as near fireproof as modern building methods can make them. The drying room, the smallest of the four, will be used to dry ladies clothes and other things of delicate materials.

The cleaning room, 23 x 16 feet, will be equipped with a deodorizer, washer, and a Bowser gas cleaning system, the latter being the last word in equipment of this nature. The finishing room is 30 x 11 feet. Beneath the finishing room is a boiler room, 23 x 12 feet, this room being quite a distance underground, as the finishing room above it is below grade.

As soon as motors and shafting arrive, the wheels of industry will begin to revolve. The old quarters will be used exclusively as the repairing and pressing departments, and office. Mr. Lambert has been the sole proprietor of the Klamath Dye Works for five years, owns both the new and old buildings, and looks forward to an ever-increasing business. The rooms just completed, including the equipment, represent an investment of $10,000.

WEATHER REPORT
 OREGON—Tonight and Sunday, fair.

The pain of parting is experienced by the small boy when his mother attempts to comb his hair.

Looking For Site Of First Dwelling In the Northwest

SPOKANE, Wash. Feb. 5.—Definite location of the spot where David Thompson, trapper and trader of over one hundred years ago, built the first house in the "territory of Oregon," which in early western times comprised the whole northwest, is the object of a movement that has been started at Sandpoint, Idaho. The house is said to have been built about two and one-half miles from Hope, Idaho, and was used as a trading post by Thompson who was in the employ of the Hudson Bay company.

Thompson, according to early western histories, crossed to the United States from Canada in 1809, making his way over the old wild horse trail from British Columbia, along the Pack river, Lake Pend Oreille and mountain side of the Charles Fork river. On September 23 of the same year he embarked on the river and proceeded to Lake Pend Oreille in quest of a trading post site, finally settling near Hope.

According to the history of the "territory of Oregon," which tells of the time, when this territory was made up of the whole northwest, the house which Thompson built near Hope was the first in the entire northwest. At about the same time another trading post was established on Lake Kallispell, and in 1810 one was built at Spokane.

Before coming to the Pend Oreille lake region Thompson is said to have had a long trip with the Hudson Bay crew of map-makers throughout western Canada. At one time after locating in the Pend Oreille country he is said to have made a trip to Winnipeg with two tons of furs, journeying the entire distance by pack horse and boat. He is known to have explored the entire Pend Oreille lake country and every part of what is now the state of Idaho.

Erection of a monument to Thompson when the exact spot upon which his first house was located has been definitely ascertained is being advocated. The old trading post which he founded was burned many years ago.
