

The Office Cat

BY JUNIUS

A statue of Bixwin, the Japanese god of healing, was touched by health seekers until they wore the god's face completely away, says a Tokio dispatch.

So many sick men touched his gills They wore away his phiz— And if he didn't end their ills, They surely ended his.

Not Hard To Satisfy

A New York state farmer has recently written the following letter to the weather bureau:

"Dear Sir": I wish you would let me no what kind of wether we are goin to have for the next three or fore weeks as my wife has a hen who wants to sit and she wants to no wether to sit her or not. Also would like to get the average for this period for the last 50 or 60 years if not too much trouble. And will you lend me a thermometer and a barometer so I can shut the chicken house dore if the barometer looks treatening. And if convenient I would like you to telegraft me the wether forecast every morning until the hen comes off with the chickens, and for a while after as chickens need lots of care when just hatched out.

Yrs. truly,
WM. SPIVNER

"Ps.—Please have the agricultuer dept. send me some books on chickens.

"Ps.—Send the thermometer and barometer by partial post.
(Signed) W. S."

C. I. Reckard says that this will never be a true democracy as long as wealthy ginks make their chauffeurs sit outside in the rain.

Lloyd Brownell says that he has discovered another way to tell a mushroom from a toadstool. It is this: If you see crepe on your neighbor's door next day after he's been out after'em, you may be reasonably sure they were toadstools.

The Old Story

There was a man who fancied By driving good and fast, He could get his car across the track Before the train came past; He would miss the engine by an inch, And make the train men sore— There was a man who fancied this, But—there isn't any more.

They had better build that French cabinet out of cedar and keep the bugs out of it.

American ship owners tell Congress that they cannot send dry ships abroad on an otherwise wet ocean. Water wagons can only be operated on land.

The blue laws and the blue sky laws seem to be going blooey.

There is absolutely nothing wrong with the government of Cuba, says Major General Crowder, because Cuba has no government. If a thing isn't it manifestly can't.

"Six dinky chorus girls" threaten to ruin the theatrical profession. These will not be the only professional men chorus girls have ruined.

PRINEVILLE.—John A. Moore, one of the organizers and a director of the Cumberland Wyoming Oil & Gas Co., which has drilled a well on the Ziller ranch to the depth slightly over 1000 feet, returned from Portland and made the important announcement that at a recent meeting of the company it was decided to perform extensive development work on its land near Cumberland; that two oil rigs, one of them a standard, had been procured and were being shipped at once, so that work will start on a large scale early in the spring.

REDMOND.—W. T. Mullarky, assessor of Deschutes county, passed away in Bend, February 1. A nervous breakdown, the result of overwork is attributed to be the cause of his death. He was 55 years old.

The body was taken to Floravista, New Mexico, where Mrs. Mullarky is buried. He is survived by a son, Douglas Mullarky, editor of the Redmond Spokesman.

Spring ARRIVALS

Announcing the arrival of our first shipment of the newest things from the fashion centers. Included in this shipment are suits, dresses, skirts, blouses and millinery, both of American make and design and of French importation. Most of these garments are designs of two of the world's best known fashion artists: Michaels, the famous Italian delineator, and La Vine, of France. We employ a resident buyer in New York whose duty it is to purchase for La Vogue stores the very finest and latest in ladies' wearing apparel that the market affords and who takes every advantage of the lower market conditions and the tremendous buying power of the eight La Vogue stores. This, together with four trips each year, which are made personally by Mr. M. I. Blotcky to the eastern markets make our buying facilities perfect. It is going to be our plan this year to make QUICK TURNOVERS of our stock and we are going to be satisfied with a smaller margin of profit by increasing our volume.

We still have on hand some of the latest winter fashions in coats, dresses and fur coats, to dispose of which we will sell at half price. These are from the best makers and designers.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.—Adv.
