

ENGLAND ALSO HAS PROBLEM IN HOUSING

LONDON, Jan. 15. (By Mail).—It is estimated that London is short of 150,000 houses and Premier Lloyd George, speaking in the House of Commons, has placed the total house shortage for the whole of the United Kingdom at roughly 1,000,000. A house for rent notice board in London quickly attracts a crowd.

Housing is a department of the Ministry of Health, and by legislative act, local authorities are required to submit housing schemes. Thousands of schemes have been submitted, but progress has been very slow.

Perhaps the chief reason for this has been the economic factor. Houses which cost three or four times as much to build as before the war, cannot obviously let or sell at pre-war figures.

Nevertheless, according to government statistics some 60,000 new houses were started in 1920 and the number contracted for his risen during the year from 10,408 to 133,391.

One striking feature of the effort to provide houses is a housing scheme conducted by the Office of Works, which was empowered to spend 6,000,000 pounds spread over 18 months. Its operations started in Camberwell a south London borough. An arrangement was made by which the Office of Works supplied the plans, material and supervision while the local federation of trades unions supplied the labor and the Borough Council assumed responsibility for the finances. The plan worked smoothly and houses were built for 750 pounds apiece, a saving of at least 200 pounds, making a total saving to taxpayers of 400,000 pounds. This scheme may become the embryo of a State Building department.

The financial difficulties connected with the housing problem have been responsible for the creation by local authorities of interest bearing "housing bonds" which are in some localities a fairly popular investment.

In the north of England, concrete houses have become popular, as machinery largely replaces man-power in their erection. In some parts of London, too, such houses have been built recently owing to the shortage of bricks, the high rate of wages and other difficulties.

THOUSAND APIARISTS TO ATTEND CONFERENCE
OAKLAND, Cal., Feb. 19.—Approximately 1000 delegates are expected to attend the 32nd annual convention of the California State Beekeepers' association to be held here March 2-5.

Among speakers on the convention program are Florence B. Richardson of the federal bee culture department; George W. York, first editor of The American Bee Journal; Professor C. H. McCharles, chemist for the state food and drug laboratory of the University of California and Willis Lynch, president of the California Honey Producers' association.

Too Many Breakdowns
The breakdown of the shipping board
Has surely smirched our country's name.
Now dry enforcement's breaking down—
The chief got blue and quit the game.

We used to dance a breakdown dance
When hearts were light and men could clown,
But in these shlimmie days—no chance,
The breakdown dance has broken down.

A Good Offer
"Yes," said the eminent specialist to the poor man who had called upon him, "I will examine you carefully for $5."
"All right doctor," said the man, resignedly. "If you find it I'll give you half."

The film title "Man's plaything" might also mean the mechanical toy daddy bought for the kid's Christmas present.

Over in Japan the plot of photoplays comes to the audience so thick that the theatre manager hires a man to stand beside the screen and explain the story as the plot unfolds.

Here in America we do things differently. The audience reads the subtitles aloud.

Incidentally Conway Tearle has dedicated a film to the movie mutterers.

"Whispering Devils" is the title.

TEACHER TALKS ON BENEFITS OF EDUCATION

(Special to The Evening Herald)
MALIN, Feb. 19.—One may become whatever he wants to, providing he is determined, declared A. W. McComb in his talk to the Union high school here last week, on "Why Go to College."

Mr. McComb said that college gives one self reliance, as one is not always looking to dad for some money—except periodically—nor to mother to sew on some buttons, but is thrown upon his own resources and responsibility, particularly if he is working most of his way through. College also gives training in good citizenship by the student's organizations which are similar to those found in towns and in systems of government. By attending college one's earning capacity is increased tenfold over what it would be if the man stopped school after grammar school and four times as great as if he stopped after finishing high school.

That is very easy to work one's way through college, was also stated by Mr. McComb, who gave examples of boys and girls who had done this. He also gave some of his own experiences while in college and some of the different ways he earned money there. He graduated from the Oregon Agricultural college in 1920 and is principal of the Union high school here.

HENLEY NEWS

Henley school club girls are diligently working on their sewing and home making lessons. A few have already completed all their lessons and all are hoping to complete them before school is out.

R. C. Short and Bill Green were visitors in Klamath Falls Thursday.

Dan Murphy brought his sheep from the lava beds a few days ago.

Louise Trink is back at school after a few week's absence on account of whooping cough.

Jim Dixon was in town Saturday, all prepared for wading. Miss Ruth Dixon lacked the necessary articles for such an undertaking, so she called on the neighbors to take her to the city.

There will be a meeting of the Henley Parent-Teacher's Association next Friday afternoon. Special use of the school Victrola will be made on that day. The children are to prepare themes on the various selections played. Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

Henley school teachers are very adept with the ax. Anyone desiring wood chopped may call on them.

Harry Telford doesn't mind the condition of the roads. With the assistance of the two Latta boys he get along nicely.

A. W. McComb was seen sedately marching through the mud on his way to town. Better luck next time, Allan.

Mr. O'Keefe is a visitor at the Murphy ranch. After a few delays his Chandler finally managed to reach the ranch from Merrill. The worst is yet to come, Mr. O'Keefe.

The Jackson and Latta children are again at school after an absence on account of illness. We're glad to see their happy faces again.

Mr. Hanley and Mr. O'Sullivan welcomed the snow this morning. They are back at the ranch, after tending to sheep on the hills.

SACRAMENTO VALLEY TO UNITE CIVIC CLUBS

WILLOWS, Cal., Feb. 19.—Organization of a United Chamber of Commerce of the Sacramento Valley was urged in letters sent recently to 25 commercial organizations of this section by Secretary Leavitt of the Willows organization. A meeting to form the organization will be held here February 16.

Arguments used in advocating organization of the body included statements that the Sacramento Valley has not been receiving the attention it deserves from the state legislature, the highway commission and other organizations. The valley body would meet every three months, it is proposed.

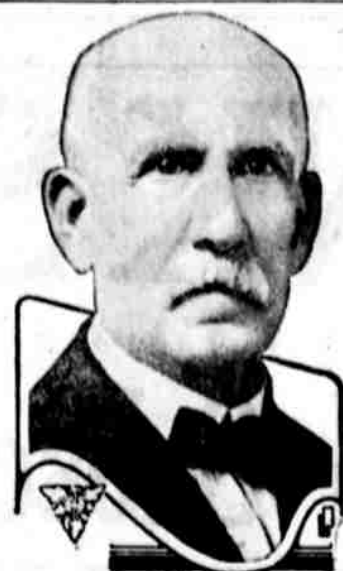

THE SHORTEST WILL

WILLOWS, Cal., Feb. 19.—Charles A. Lucas, Elk Creek pioneer, who died in Oakland recently left what is said to be the smallest will ever filed in Glenn county.

The will, written with pencil on a piece of paper about 4 1/2 by 2 inches, read: "I bequeath all my real and personal property to my wife, Ellen Lucas." The estate is valued at $10,000.

PROMINENT NEW YORK MAN PRAISES TANLAC

John F. Hyatt, of Albany, N. Y., is Relieved of Severe Attack of Rheumatism of Many Years' Standing.

JOHN F. HYATT
227 Pearl St., Albany, N. Y.

"I am now seventy-two years old and am just getting rid of fifteen-year case of rheumatism that had me so crippled up I could not walk," said John F. Hyatt, 227 Pearl St., Albany, N. Y., in relating his remarkable experience with Tanlac, recently. Mr. Hyatt was chairman of the committee in charge of building the Albany County Courthouse and was four times elected a member of the County Board of Supervisors. At present Mr. Hyatt is Assistant Superintendent of the Albany County Courthouse with offices in the building.

"I don't believe," he continued, "anybody could have rheumatism any worse than I did, and my case was of such long standing I didn't expect to ever get over it. I was unable to walk except for a short distance, supported with a cane, and even then the pains struck me every time I took a step. My legs, hips and ankles hurt something awful and my joints were stiff and aching. I couldn't cross my legs without having to lift it up with my hands, and to turn over in bed, why, the pains nearly killed me."

"My appetite was gone and the sight of food nauseated me. My stomach was out of order, and I had a sluggish, heavy feeling all the time. I was weak, off in weight and discouraged so that it looked like I might as well quit trying to ever get well."

"I had no idea Tanlac would relieve my rheumatism when I began taking it last Spring. I took it because I saw where it would give a fellow an appetite. Well, sir, I was the most surprised I ever was in my life when the rheumatic pains began to ease up. I took seven bottles in all and, it's a fact, I didn't have an ache about me, was eating fine and simply felt like I had been made over again."

"I have been in the best of health ever since, with only a slight twinge of rheumatism at intervals. I do not need my cane now, but as I had been unable to walk without it for several years, I got into the habit of carrying it and so still take it along. I am enjoying life and health once more and can conscientiously recommend Tanlac as the greatest medicine I have ever run across in all my experience."

Tanlac is sold in Klamath Falls by Star Drug Co., in Lorella by James Merc. Co., and in Merrill by Southern Oregon Drug Co.—Adv.

OLIVE PACKERS ACCEPT CUT IN TARIFF RATE

OROVILLE, Cal., Feb. 19.—California olive men, in Washington fighting for a protective tariff, were forced to reduce their request from 70 to 60 cents on olive oil and from six to five cents a pound on Greek olives, according to B. B. Meek, a member of the California delegation who returned recently from the capital. Members of congress wanted to cut the schedule to 50 cents when one packing concern declared 50 cents would give adequate protection.

Eight-Year-Old Is "First Lady" of N. C.

RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 19.—Eight-year old Angella Morrison, daughter of Governor Cameron Morrison, of North Carolina, is believed to hold the distinction of being the youngest "first lady" of any state in the union. Mr. Morrison is a widower, his wife having died early last year.

When Governor Morrison was inaugurated a few weeks ago, little Angella was at his side during all the festivities of the occasion. Angella was accorded a great ovation when she entered the City Auditorium, where Mr. Morrison took the oath of office, waking between and holding the arms of her father and the retiring Governor, Thomas Walter Bickett.

After Governor Morrison had taken the oath of office, Angella accompanied him to the executive offices in the capital and thence to the Governor's Mansion, where she stood with her father in the receiving line and shook hands with thousands of visitors.
