

BUSINESS MEN OPPOSE EXCESS PROFITS TAXES

An overwhelming demand for repeal of the excess profits tax is made by American business as shown in a referendum vote of the organizations within the membership of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The results of the referendum were made public today through the Klamath county Chamber of Commerce.

The ballot was taken on a report of the National Chamber's committee on Taxation, which advanced 15 proposals for changes in present methods of federal tax levy.

Although the committee recommended substitutes for the excess-profits tax the vote on these proposals was not conclusive. A considerable majority voted against an increase in income taxes, and at the same time there was a majority vote against any form of sales tax, which had been suggested both as a substitute for and as an addition to other forms of tax.

A proposal that excise taxes be levied partly to take the place of the excess profits tax was carried.

In the chamber's referendum system a two thirds vote is necessary to carry. The propositions submitted and the vote on each follow:

The excess-profits tax should be repealed—for, 1718; against, 44. Carried.

Revenues now derived from the excess-profits tax should be obtained mainly from taxes on incomes—for 571; against, 1004. Not carried.

There should be excise taxes upon some articles of wide use but not of first necessity—for, 1217; against 504. Carried.

Should a sales tax be levied instead of the taxes mentioned in proposition 2 and 3—for, 704; against, 855. Not carried.

Should a sales tax be levied in addition to such taxes as are mentioned in propositions 2 and 3—for, 763; against, 894. Not carried.

Members voting in favor of question 4 or question 5 are requested to indicate the type of sales tax they advocate: (a) A general turnover tax—for, 511; (b) A limited turnover tax—for, 480; (c) A retail sales tax—for, 541.

There should be a moderate and graduated undistributed earnings tax on corporations—for, 540; against 1062. Not carried.

Each individual stockholder of a corporation should pay his own normal tax—for, 693; against, 975. Not carried.

Income from any new issues of securities which may lawfully be made subject to federal tax should be taxable—for, 136; against, 275. Carried.

American citizens resident abroad should be exempt from the American tax upon incomes derived abroad and not remitted to the United States—for, 1252; against, 456. Carried.

Profits arising from sales of capital assets should be allocated over the period in which earned and taxed at the rates for the several years in the period—for, 1411; against, 243. Carried.

An exchange of property of a like or similar nature should be considered merely as a replacement—for, 1547; against, 142. Carried.

Net losses and inventory losses in any taxable year should cause re-determination of taxes on income of the preceding year—for, 1350; against, 323.

Ascertainment by the government of any tax based on income should precede payment—for, 1215; against, 479. Carried.

Administration of income taxation should be decentralized—for, 1321; against, 390. Carried.

The vote makes it clear that business men are united in their view that the excess-profits tax hampers business operations and retards the progress of readjustment. Among the objections to the tax as pointed out by the committee are that it produces inequities; that it is difficult of administration; that price reductions will decrease revenues from this source, and that the tax encourages extravagance.

A striking reaction was shown in the vote against increasing income taxes. It was obvious to the voters that such increases would fall on the middle class of incomes, since little more can be derived from smaller incomes and because taxes already are so high on the larger incomes that those receiving large incomes are investing in tax free securities and thus defeating the purpose of the tax.

LAKE EWAUNA

Oh! Beautiful lake Ewauna, Oh! Wonderful inland sea, Held in the arms of nature, As a child on its mother's knee.

It is surrounded by hills and valleys, This beautiful lake of ours, And it lays like a sparkling jewel, In the morning's golden hours.

Oh beautiful body of water, Placed here by nature's own hand, Its surface reflects like a mirror, Each object as near it they stand.

Its beauty no one can fathom, As they rush through this world of strife,

They must float idly on its bosom, And forget all, but the beauties of life.

In the evening's beautiful twilight, When the shadows begin to fall, It is then we see that Ewauna, Is the most wonderful lake of all.

—DAVID ELSWORTH

THE STAR

When David Cree swore to his dying father that he would some day have the life of his murderer he did not know that in the veil which separates the living from the dead, his father repeated the rash request.

Here is the theme of "Seeds of Vengeance," the Select picture coming to the Star theatre today. Back of it all is a rugged romance of the Virginia hills, the love of a girl for a man, the revengeful spirit of a widowed mother, and all the little joys and sorrows which make up the lives of the plain folk of the hills.

"Seeds of Vengeance" is a picture teeming with action, rugged mountain pictures, beautiful loves and scolded hates, a picture that will attract and maintain the interest from the first scene until the final smashing climax.

Under the title of "Cabaret de Luxe," Ramsby and Stone, clever musical artists, will stage an attractive act at the Mondale tomorrow night. Piano and violin music and a wide vocal repertoire are offered by the duo, whose style of performance ranks them among leaders of this class of entertainment.

TORNADO MAKES OLYMPIC FOREST VAST FIRE TRAP

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 1.—The greatest fire trap known in the history of the United States resulted from the cyclone which swept the forests of the Olympic Peninsula in the state of Washington on January 29, according to telegraphic reports received by the United States forest service.

"A tremendous tornado," states Acting Forester E. A. Sherman, "blew down timber estimated at five to eight billion board feet, in a strip 75 miles long and 30 miles wide, one billion board feet of which is within the Olympic national forest."

Chance For Salvage Small "The wind-thrown timber," said Mr. Sherman, "which, reports state, lies in a tangled mass over an area of 2250 square miles, is largely western hemlock and spruce, both of which are subject to rapid decay. Transportation is lacking for much of this region, and it is doubtful whether any considerable proportion of the timber can be salvaged unless prompt action is taken."

Fire Danger Is Enormous

"If fire should ever gain headway in this devastated area, the most stupendous conflagration ever known in this country would result. The topography is very broken and the blow-downs are in part at least known to be 'spotty,' with much fine timber uninjured. Fire would not only destroy all these islands of timber but would seriously endanger a vast surrounding stand. Fifteen billion feet is exposed in the adjoining part of the Olympic national forest, besides large amounts on state and private lands."

An Air Survey Planned

To meet this emergency situation, Secretary of Agriculture Meredith has requested the secretary of the navy to detail hydroplanes for an air survey of the storm-swept region in order that the amount of damage may be determined, since it is impossible to traverse the uprooted forests on the ground. A request has also been made to the secretary of war that the railroad constructed by the Spruce Production corporation, extending from Port Angeles to Lake Pleasant on the Olympic Peninsula, be equipped with rolling stock and operated at its maximum capacity. This railroad is the one important line of communication into the devastated area, and will afford a means of salvaging a considerable amount of the down timber.

The secretary of agriculture has transmitted to the secretary of the treasury an estimate to be submitted to congress for an emergency appropriation of $100,000 to enable the department to employ patrolmen to guard the storm area against fire, to repair and construct roads, trails, telephone lines and other means of communication, and to salvage government timber.

"DANGEROUS" SPORT

VICTORIA, B. C., March 1.—Golfing is a dangerous pastime here when high winds blow. During a storm which recently uprooted trees and played havoc with the telephone and telegraph wires, a golfer at Colwood Country club drove off and the wind was so strong that it blew the ball back and it struck him on the nose. He holed out in one. In proof of his story the golfer exhibited a broken nose.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.—Adv.
