

DOINGS OF THE DUFFS

Wilbur Is A Deep Thinker

BY ALLMAN

KLAMATH RIVER

Oh! Wonderful, wonderful river,
Winding through a land so fair;
Drifting lazily on to the ocean
With never a thought or a care.

Why do you never rush onward?
Why do you tarry so long?
Your waters are laden with fishes,
And the angler goeth not home in

The sea gulls float slowly o'er you,
The ducks find a resting place near-
Your waters are laden with fish,
And the angler goes not home in despair.

It may be you fear old Mt. Shasta,
If you hurry to pass by her side,
So you linger up here in the valley
Where we on your surface may glide.

When the crescent moon hangs on the evening,
And bright twinkling stars shine
above,

It is then Oh! beautiful river
We can truthfully say, God is Love.

When the full moon peeps over the mountains,
And nature is hushed for the day,
Then your bosom is covered with diamonds

As slowly you pass on your way.

We know 'tis God's hand that feeds you,

From the snow laden hills so white;
And the path of nature directs you,
As softly you whisper, good night.

—David Elsworth.

Purebred Sires Increasing Rapidly on Forest Ranges

Purebred bulls have proved their value for improving range herds, and the number being bought in the cow country of the west is rapidly increasing each year, according to reports to the United States department of agriculture. The scrub bull is now blacklisted on the big national forest pastures.

During the season of 1919 three local live-stock associations, the members of which use the ranges of the Sierra national forest in California, adopted rules for the purchase of purebred bulls. Under a special rule each association was required to place on the range a sufficient number of purebred Hereford, Shorthorn, or Aberdeen-Angus bulls. A committee to purchase and pass upon the credentials of each animal to be turned loose on the ranges was appointed.

Under this plan, during the grazing season of 1920, 105 Herefords, 97 Shorthorns, and 6 Aberdeen-Angus bulls were purchased by the stockman through their associations and placed upon the range. It is estimated that at the end of the season of 1920 the stockmen had not less than 200 registered bulls on their ranges, resulting in a great improvement in the grade of steers turned out.
