KLAMATH FALLS, OREGON, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 16, 1921.

PRICE FIVE CENTS

PLANS OF AUTO SHOW WORKING OUT SMOOTHLY

Banners announcing the Klamath auto show, March 20, 21 and 22, were strung across Main street at Sixth this morning and across Sixth street in front of the Acme Motor company's garage, where the big show will be staged.

CITY PLANNING IS FORUM TOPIC

Arthur L. Peck, head of the landscape bureau of the agricultural college at Corvallis, was the principal speaker at the Chamber of Commerce forum luncheon this noon.

This city, said Mr. Peck, is really a city on a hillside, and he suggested that the gridiron system of city planning be set aside, and that future building be done to conform to local topography.

A road running from the river diagonally across the hillside, was another prediction. This would make travel in that section of the city easier, and would also provide a splendid motor drive, provided intersection could be made with a driveway on the other side of the lake, which would branch off toward the city at the headgates.

Streets, or rather, lanes, about 16 feet wide, paved, Mr. Peck said should eventually be built upon the hillside, the city to take over unused streets, and parts of the now wide streets, and given to property owners to be used as boulevards and parkways.

B. S. Veatch reminded the luncheon guests that the big membership drive would begin on the 28th of this month, and would be in progress four weeks.

In making his announcements, Secretary Stanley mentioned that the woman's auxiliary of the chamber now boasted 513 members.

Fred Fleet presided in his entertaining way, and introduced a number of visitors, among whom were Charles Hall, president of the First National bank, and Marshall Hooper, vice president of the First State & Savings bank.

Russia and England Sign Trade Treaty

LONDON, March 15.—A trade agreement under which commercial relations will be resumed between Great Britain and Russia was signed today by representatives of both countries.

Wool Growers Fear Side-Tracking of Emergency Tariff

Telegram Washington Bureau WASHINGTON, March 15.—Oregon wool growers are alarmed about the possibility of an emergency tariff being sidetracked in the new congress, which will meet early in April.

This message was communicated to Chairman Fordney by the house members from Oregon, and Senator McNary took the matter up with Senator Penrose again, with the idea of emphasizing the absolute necessity for emergency protection at once, pending the revision of internal taxes and the formation of a permanent tariff.

COAL MINERS IN WASHINGTON OUT

SEATTLE, March 15.—Between 2,000 and 3,000 soft coal miners of the state are idle today as the re-employed in the commercial mines suit of their refusal to accept wage cuts, averaging 23 per cent.

Sixteen companies are shut down, including all but one of the larger commercial companies on the west side on the state and one on the east side.

HELENA, Mont. March 15.—Dedication of the new Shrine temple here has been set for April 8. Shriners from many states are expected to attend the ceremonies. The temple cost $250,000.

MULLET ARE POPULAR FISH

This season of the year, as the other seasons, finds the Lost river dam alive with fishermen, both Indians and white men, who are attracted there by the thousands and thousands of mullets which ascend the river to spawn, and which become virtually trapped by the semi-circular enclosure formed by the dam and its backwater.

These splendid fish, over which no protective game law exist, can be pulled out of the water without bait, and with the crudest kind of hooks, with harpoon-like contrivances, and things like that.

The Indians, figuratively speaking, are making hay while the sun shines, sun-drying and curing these fish for their winter larder, but many people find them delicacies in the truest sense, and prefer them to salmon and trout.

The life history of these fish seems to lie between Tule lake and the dam. Where they originated, or when they originated, no one knows, as the earliest history of the Tule lake and Lost River country contains references to them which can be found in histories of no other parts of the country.

Noneless, except for the big bone with the smaller ones attached which runs along the back, this fish is for this reason a great favorite. It is not necessary to scale them either, as the best way to prepare them for the table is to remove the skin in one operation.

WONDERFULLY IMPRESSED WITH THIS SECTION

R. S. Howard, vice president of the Ladd & Tilton bank of Portland, took the train for home this morning, carrying with him impressions of Klamath Falls and Klamath county which, when disseminated among his friends and business acquaintances in Portland, will boost the stock of this part of the state at least 100 per cent.

The circumstances attending the reopening of the First State & Savings bank, said Mr. Howard, are unique in the history of the banking institutions of this state. In all his experience he has seen nothing to equal it.

The people of the state, said Mr. Howard, know too little about the Klamath Falls country, and this bank reopening, which even now has been noised all over, will serve to advertise it in a way it deserves.

ALL SET FOR STOCK SALE

County Agent E. H. Thomas announces that Clyde N. Moore of San Francisco, a man who has had wide experience as auctioneer for stock sales, will be the auctioneer at the second annual Klamath county Shorthorn sale, which will be held in the O. K. barn here tomorrow.

All of the entries are here, and the general verdict of those who have inspected them is that they are a remarkably fine looking bunch of cows, bulls and calves. Their appearance has been improved by careful grooming since their arrival, some of the animals presenting completely changed appearances.

GOOD SCHOOLS KEEP CHILDREN HOME, HE SAYS

MALIN, March 15.—"Let's keep our talent at home," urged M. M. Stastny in an interview regarding the plans for the Union high school and the bond election to be held here Saturday.

"Why let our boys and girls win honors for other towns and schools, and keep our own town dark and lifeless? Why can't we make a beautiful home for our wanderers, a home of which we as well as they may be proud, and be up to date?"

"A poor school is like a poorly kept home; we don't feel at ease when visitors call, we are dissatisfied, and care for no company. Many girls and boys going away from home to work their way through high school become discouraged before their four years are up and give up their ambition for higher education."

CLEARED OF SLAYING PORTLAND, March 15.—John Tevis, charged with involuntary manslaughter, following the death of his wife after an argument in their rooms December 12th last, was acquitted today.

BANK OPENING AIDS ALL STATE

The opening of the First State and Savings bank is heralded not alone in Klamath Falls but throughout the state, as a sign that the financial tide has turned and all will be helped by the lesson of co-operation and confidence.

BRICKLAYERS OUT PAY TACOMA, Wash., March 15.—Union bricklayers have announced a voluntary wage reduction of $1 a day. The new wage will be $9 a day.

Death Calls Young Woman Well Known in Klamath Falls

Word was received today of the death at Red Bluff, California, yesterday of Miss Alice Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Duncan. The family lived in Klamath Falls for several years.

The funeral will be held tomorrow at Red Bluff.

TESTIMONY ENDS IN HAMON CASE

ARDMORE, Okla., March 15.—Introduction of testimony in the Clara Hamon murder trial ended at 10:30 this morning and the court recessed until 3 o'clock this afternoon to permit the judge to prepare instructions.

There were numerous reports of threats against state counsel and members of the jury if a verdict of guilty is returned.

TWO CASES SET FOR TRIAL TODAY IN JUSTICE COURT

George Nolta and R. J. Allen, accused of larceny of the contents of a trunk, are scheduled to be tried in the justice court this afternoon.

C. OF C. FILM SHOWS TODAY

Matinee crowds for "The Land of Burnt Out Fires," the Chamber of Commerce film of scenic and industrial features of Klamath county, were large, and theatres exhibiting the pictures expect a large evening attendance.

An attractive legend of the origin of Crater Lake is interpreted by the film. Industrial scenes in the woods and sawmills, taken during the height of industry last summer, are shown abundantly.

Bank Employee Is Critically Ill

R. S. Mills, employed by the First State and Savings bank for the past year, is critically ill in the Klamath general hospital. Rheumatism, affecting the heart, gives physicians ground for serious fears.

State Club Leader Here to Examine Progress of Work

H. C. Seymour, state club leader, arrived last night from Corvallis to confer with Frank Sexton, county club leader, and inspect the progress of Klamath county boys and girls clubs.

This morning Mr. Seymour spoke to poultry and rabbit club members at the Central school and planned to visit all the schools of the city before the day was over.

URGE PLACE ON I. C. C. FOR NORTHWEST

WASHINGTON, March 15.—A request that a man from the northwest be appointed a member of the interstate commerce commission was presented to President Harding today by a delegation of northwest senators and representatives.

It was suggested that an embargo on wool tops and wastes would aid the wool growers until the emergency tariff bill is passed.

FOUR INDICTED IN COLLAPSE OF MORRIS BROS.

PORTLAND, March 15.—Four sets of indictments, charging the misappropriation of a total of $25,000 were served on persons figuring in the collapse of Morris Bros. Inc. today.

Indictments charging larceny by embezzlement were returned against L. Etheridge, former president, and Mrs. Stella Etheridge, his wife, Fred S. Morris, founder of the concern, and Forbes B. Pratt, secretary.

Oliver Applegate, Jr., Weds in Sacramento

Miss May Carpenter, secretary to Mrs. Margaret S. McNaught, state commissioner of elementary schools, and Oliver C. Applegate Jr., an office employe of the Standard Oil company in this city, surprised a large circle of friends when they slipped away to San Francisco and were married Saturday.

Bank Employee Is Critically Ill

The bridegroom is the son of Captain O. C. Applegate of Klamath Falls, and is widely known.
