

STEPHENS HAS APPEAL FOR FAIR FOLK

"In the rare charm of the quiet, sturdy Stephens Salient Six which will attract such a dominating interest among the show visitors, women motorists will find those touches of refinement so dear to the heart of Milady," says O. L. Williams, associated with W. T. Lee of the Metropolitan garage, Stephens dealers.

"As striking as are the important units of these cars, such as the motor, the chassis, the body, it is in that careful attention to the little details which mean so much to the discriminating woman motorist that the Stephens will score heavily with feminine show visitors."

"Stephens engineers have bowed to Dame Fashion, even in the matter of tight skirts. The design of the frame and the position of the rear springs are such that running boards are nearer to the ground, making egress and ingress easier for tight-skirted femininity."

"In the right front pocket of Stephens cars is a complete touring kit that is proving a delight to discriminating women motorists, as well as to the men. In this kit, in compartments designed for them are, whisk broom, mirror, brush, collapsible cup and soap box. The convenience of these articles is much appreciated for short city driving, as well as for touring. This compartment is protected by lock and key."

"Large pockets, also, have been arranged in the rear doors to permit the carrying of casual extras, such as gloves, veils, etc. These compartments are especially convenient on shopping trips or for trips into the country."

"Probably never before in the history of the automobile industry have women attained such a knowledge of motor cars as at present. As a result they are keen in their appreciation of the handy tool kit in the left front door. There, tools for ordinary repairs can be reached conveniently, without disturbing other passengers in the car and without the tugging

America Means Salvation to These Little Ones

The European Relief Council, which seeks to raise $33,000,000 at the Christmas season, has been formed for the purpose of throwing the entire charitable energy of the United States into the vital task of providing food and medical assistance to 3,500,000 children in eastern and central Europe this winter. Representatives of eight great relief organizations, working independently, gathered overwhelming evidence that the plight of these unfortunate should take precedence in world charity until they are saved. The co-operating agencies which form the Council are the American Relief Administration, the American Red Cross, the American Friends' Service Committee (Quakers), the Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, the Knights of Columbus, the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A.

and hauling necessary where tools are carried under seats.

"Refinement and comfort, especially for Milady, are built into the Stephens models. Seat cushions are deep and luxurious, of genuine leather, French plaited, over heavy, resilient springs. The arrangement of the instruments on the instrument board, the tonneau light, the extremely long flexible springs, underslung in the rear, the perfect ventilating windshield, the bullet side lights are features that give to the Stephens that finished expression and that impressive individuality that so appeals to the woman car buyer and user."

"And topping these advantages, are a striking beauty of body and chassis lines, crowned fenders, which, coupled with Stephens' remarkable mechanical plant, blend into an impressive picture of motor car refinement and beauty."

Trees Hard to Kill.

When a tree is cut to the ground and the root is left to rot, all the forces seem to rally round the dormant leafbuds contained in the old roots. Subsequently, strong new shoots grow, in much the same manner as from pollard willows.

With the saplings and peasticks, the case is the same as with shrubs, because, purposely or inadvertently, some leafbuds on the stem have been buried under the earth.

Although oak stakes are rarely found among those which flourish under such conditions, yet there is a case now in a Welsh colliery, where a piece of oak timber, supporting the roof, has developed branches like miniature trees, which have grown to a length of three or four feet.

These are thickly covered with fully opened leaves of pale green, tipped with pink.

They live in utter darkness, and present a most peculiar sight when revealed by the light of a passing safety lamp.

Basic Elements of Progress Industry, Confidence

WHAT IS the value of an individual in a community? If you have not done so, look about you and estimate the value of everyone you know in your neighborhood. Not necessarily in dollars and cents, but financial independence is a large factor in the making of desirable citizenship.

Ask yourself what your neighbor is worth to the community—including yourself—and you will find that besides his moral and religious qualities the well-rounded desirable citizen has a substantial bank account or its equivalent. He stands on his own feet, and knows it.

He radiates Confidence, Industry, Progress. He stands for constructive principles, not destructive. He is not jealous of his neighbor's success, but is enthused with an honest effort to excel. His public spirit is of the highest order, and he gives valuable, efficient service for the public good.
