KLAMATH FALLS, OREGON, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 30, 1921

PRICE FIVE CENTS

KLAMATH FALLS ACTS TOO LATE ON RATE CUT

Reduction of freight rates to Klamath Falls is up to the interstate commerce commission, reports M. A. Callaghan, manager of the Chamber of Commerce traffic department, who returned last night from San Francisco where he interviewed a number of Southern Pacific officials.

He discovered that the commission on March 12 filed a brief, based on evidence before the Portland rate hearing, January 18, last, at which Klamath Falls was not represented, with the interstate commerce commission, setting forth proposals for rate reductions.

The reductions proposed by the railroad vary according to class but the average, says Mr. Callaghan, is about 13 per cent. On third and fourth class rates, which applies to the bulk of freight, the average cut is about 23 cents on the hundred pounds.

A ruling of the commission, establishing the new rates, may be expected in 90 days, said the traffic manager.

Proposals of the Portland traffic association are considerably greater than the railway proposals. Considerable educational work will be necessary, it appears, to establish an understanding that Klamath Falls, as the second largest shipping point in Oregon, is entitled to consideration in any general rate reductions.

Because Klamath Falls was not represented at the Portland hearing, Mr. Callaghan says, the local complaint against the Southern Pacific was dismissed, and whatever rate reduction Klamath Falls gets is not the result of its own efforts but is brought about by the war for rate preference between Portland and San Francisco. In the big game Klamath Falls is simply a pawn.

Local shippers will have opportunity to make their complaints to headquarters next week when G. W. Luce, general traffic manager of the Southern Pacific, has promised to be in Klamath Falls to investigate the local conditions.

Taxes Pouring In; Three Weeks Grace Allowed This Year

Deputy Sheriff Bert Hawkins with three assistants have been extremely busy making out tax statements and receiving tax money, since Monday morning, and Mr. Hawkins estimates that there will be no cessation until after the fifth of April. Every mail from outlying towns in the county brings its share of checks in payment of taxes. As usual, people who have comparatively large amounts to pay, prefer to pay one-half at this time, taking advantage of the provision in the law which gives them a chance to use the other half of the tax money until the 5th of October.

Ordinary taxes would become delinquent on April 5th, but due to the inability of the sheriff to secure the tax rolls from the assessor on time this year, Mr. Hawkins said that at least three weeks grace would be given.

OLD ADAGE DISPROVED

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The hen that did the cackling may not have laid the egg, government farm experts assert. They advise farmers to use trap nests in order to pin the cackler down to facts in the way of eggs.

By holding a hen on the nest until released, the announcement said, it was possible to keep tab on the good layers, regardless of the fuss raised by some hens on false pretenses.

Weather Probabilities

The barometric pressure, as indicated by the Cyclo-Stormograph at Underwood's Pharmacy, has remained almost stationary since yesterday noon. This probably indicates a continuance of the present clear, pleasant weather, for another 24 hours at least. Forecast for next 24 hours: No change, in present weather conditions.

M'Arthur Invites Harding to Legion Meeting In Eugene

Herald Washington Bureau WASHINGTON, March 30.—Congressman McArthur today conferred with President Harding and invited him to attend the annual convention of the state of Oregon American Legion convention to be held at Eugene July 1 and 2.

The president assured him that he would be delighted to accept if conditions would permit, but both the president and the congressman believe that congress still will be in session at that time and that it would be impossible for the president to reach Oregon on that date.

The president said he was looking forward to his Pacific coast trip with much eagerness and pleasure and hoped to start immediately after adjournment of congress.

Mrs. McArthur accompanied her husband and was presented to the president just as he was leaving. Congressman McArthur suggested to the president that he arrange the trip so that he could get three or four days of salmon fishing in some of the Oregon streams, and the president said nothing would please him better.

This accident happened at the same corner where Lynn Skillington, another Western Union messenger, was so badly hurt a couple of weeks ago.

According to witnesses Bateman was on the right side of the street and driving slowly.

At Mannheim the police were attacked and returned the fire. At Dresden the attempted rioting was suppressed. Ninety-two communists including women, were arrested there.

Communist activity in the Rhine region is increasing says a report from Dusseldorf. Some mines have been seized by workers.

In the Jena glass manufacturing district some success has attended the efforts of the communists to start a general strike.

COLOGNE, March 30.—Efforts by communists to cause a general strike at Solingen have failed, says a telegram from that city, which is occupied by British troops.

Rioters broke into public buildings in some of the rural districts and robbed some banks, but were routed by the police.

Get Your Dog Licenses At Once

Chief of Police H. S. Wilson announces that dog licenses are now due, and advises all dog owners who wish to keep their dogs to call at the police department and secure licenses for them. This applies to all dogs over two months old. Furthermore, said the chief, license tags must be attached to collars and placed upon the dogs, as all tagless dogs will be picked up and disposed of unless their owners come to their rescue. The town, said the chief, is overrun with dogs, and if any person has a dog which he or she would like to dispose of, quick disposition will be made of it if the owner will bring it to the dog pound on South Second street. Or, if unable to bring such dogs to the pound personally, a telephone call sent in to the police department will bring an officer to any part of the city, and the dog will be taken care of. The chief insists that licenses be secured at once.

LOCAL CITIZENS STUNG; $2000 TAKEN BY SHARK

One hundred or more male residents of this city are looking longingly toward San Francisco and waiting anxiously for news of one S. Fox, who came here about the 10th of February, took orders for clothing at prices which certainly did "seem wondrous cheap," and decamped leaving behind him the assurance that the clothing ordered would arrive here by mail or express within ten days. When Mr. Fox left the city, he took with him something more than a bunch of orders, for with each order his victims deposited from 15 to $30, and in a few instances, according to stories now told, he secured even more than that amount from several of his dupes.

With each order and deposit Mr. Fox issued a receipt in the name of the Western Co-Operative Tailors of San Francisco. No street address appeared upon the receipts, but apparently this discrepancy was overlooked until after the time the clothing should have arrived, and the victims began to look over the receipts for the purpose of learning the quickest way to get into communication with the company. A Radder and Al Blumenshain, who reside at the Hot Springs hotel, sent special delivery letters to the Western Co-Operative company at San Francisco, and in due time the postoffice sent them word that no clothing company of that name existed in San Francisco. Mr. Blumenshain frankly states that he believes he is "hooked," and that there are at least 100 more men in this city in the same predicament.

Mr. Fox is described as a man about 35 years old, of evident Jewish extraction, one hand incapacitated, and of a sly, oily, demagogue. That he is sly is probably indicated by his signature, "S. Fox," which some people say describes him with exactitude, the initial standing for the word sly, and his chief characteristic of that foxy little animal, the fox. At least, $2000, it is said, were garnered by Mr. Fox.

Oregon to Get Same Air Forest Patrol As Given Last Year

Herald Washington Bureau WASHINGTON, March 30.—Senator McNary today advised States Forester Elliot that Oregon would have the same air patrol service and protection from the federal government that it had last year, but that the personnel and appropriations would not permit any extension of the service.

This information was in response to a letter from the state forester, wherein he said he feared there would be no air protection. The war department informed Senator McNary of the above facts and said that the details were in the hands of the general commanding the 9th army area at San Francisco.

Senator McNary telegraphed him asking that the full amount of protection enjoyed by Oregon forests last year be extended this year.

POWER COMPANY DEFENDANT IN $98,000 SUIT

Alleging negligence on the part of the California-Oregon Power company, the London & Scottish Insurance corporation has filed suit against the power company to collect $98,085.72 this amount of insurance having been paid to the German company, of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania said to be the owner of at least $105,000 worth of lumber consumed by fire when the Kesterson mill at Worden, burned on the 17th of last September.

The complaint states that on the 25th of May, 1920, the German company owned a large quantity of lumber in the yard and plant of the I. E. Kesterson Lumber company at Ivan Spur, near Worden, about 20 miles south of this city, and that the lumber was insured for its approximate value; also that the California-Oregon Power company maintained and operated over and across the plant and yards three electric wires with a capacity of 37,000 volts, the wires being strung about 40 feet from the ground and immediately over the lumber. Being carelessly and unskillfully hung, so the complaint says, one or more wires broke and fell on the lumber, setting fire to it. Holding that the power company is entirely responsible, the London & Scottish Insurance company, asks that it be reimbursed in full for the insurance paid.

The legal battle promises to be sensational, as the California-Oregon Power company is known to have been at work since the fire gathering evidence to defend the suit. One of the main contentions of defense, it is understood, will be that the power company owned a right of way for its lines before the sawmill and yard was established and that the mill piled its lumber on the company's land without permission and against the expressed warning of the division managers of the power company, both at Klamath Falls and Yreka.

There Are Several Ways of Spelling Hotel Clerk Learns

"What's in a name?" Well, it all depends. E. E. Magee thinks there's a great deal in the spelling. Mr. Magee spent a couple of weeks in San Francisco recently and hob-nobbed with old friends.

He met Frank Williams, a former resident of Klamath Falls, and they planned an excursion to Sacramento. Williams was to call at Magee's hotel next morning and the start would be made from the hostelry.

Williams was there on the dot and asked the clerk if Magee was in. The clerk ran his finger down the register and reported no one of that name was registered.

"If he's here," he said, "He's registered under an assumed name." The puzzled Williams went away. Later he met Magee down town and upbraided him for registering under an alias.

The local druggist explained that he was not a fugitive from justice and hunted the hotel clerk.

"My name's Magee," he declaimed, "M-a-g-e-e. How do you mean I'm not registered here?"

A glance at the register and the clerk was profusely apologizing. "I always figured that the only way to spell that name," he said, "was by starting M-a-c."

Lumbermen Discuss General Problems

A meeting of lumbermen interested in local and nearby mills and factories was held in the White Pelican hotel last night, the discussions centering around the general condition of the lumber industry. According to several lumbermen present, no definite action was taken on any phase of the business affecting the general public, except the proposed reduction of wages from $4.50 per day for common labor, to $3.20. This reduction will be made if developments warrant it.
