WORKING MAN SAYS COSTS MUST DROP WITH WAGES

(Ed Note: The Herald article referred to did not state wages had been fixed at $3.20 a day, but that a reduction had been discussed.)

Klamath Falls, Mar. 31, 1921. Editor Evening Herald, Dear Sir:

In the Herald of yesterday I read with interest the statement that wages this season were to be $3.20 for an eight hour day.

This makes me ask the question—and I would like an answer from someone through the columns of this paper—How can a man support his family, and pay the prices asked in the local stores and by professional men?

The merchants here want to keep the trade at home. Patronizing a mail order house is taboo, yet we see men's ordinary shoes in the show windows priced from $10 to $15, while in the March issue of the Saturday Evening Post, the Seiz, a splendid shoe, is advertised for only $6. This is only one of many similar cases in all lines of merchandise.

Labor at $3.20 per day will have stood a cut varying from 36 to 40 per cent and unless merchants and professional men get wise and do likewise I do not think houses or any kind of real estate will be in great demand this year, as men will have to move to some other city where it costs less to live.

Please publish this and help all working men.

One of them, GEO. C. STULL.

THE STAR

Lovely woman, charming enough when a creature of the boudoir and drawing room, can be still more interesting when she invades the precincts of man and battles with him on his own ground.

This is shown conclusively in the new Selznick special, "The Woman God Sent," featuring Zena Keefe and Joe King, which is to be shown at the Star Theatre Tuesday.

The story is by Sophie Irene Loeb, and was adapted and directed by Larry Trimble. It is a deep drama, with a touching love current running through a picture of industrial struggle and political manipulation.

Love, politics, strife, intrigue, mystery and a thrilling denouement—all these contribute to make a situation in which every emotion of the audience is played upon—and responds.

She is a wonder woman, this Margaret Manning, portrayed by Zena Keefe. Born under a cloud, losing her mother in her infancy, not knowing even the name of her father, she overcomes all the obstacles of poverty, prejudice and ignorance. She triumphs over cunning rapacity, bests intriguing lobbyists at Washington, and wins the man she loves.

THE MONDALE

Tonight the Metropolitan Merry-makers, who have been crowding the Mondale theatre since their arrival here a week ago, will appear for the last time, and they promise a climax to their engagement that will be equal to anything they have presented so far.

HOW IT HAPPENED

(Personal Column, Sacramento Bee) To Whom It May Concern—At the Tetrizini Concert, I, by mistake, tried to get a newspaper which I thought got wedged in between our seats. I pulled and even lifted my chair to get the paper and then, I, to my horror, found out that the paper was in the gentleman's coat pocket, and I tried no longer to get the same and he just then was speaking to a lady and the concert intermission coming to end, I forgot to beg pardon as I ought to have done.

My, it seems like an age since we encountered William Jennings Bryan's name in the news.

Tomorrow night there will be a two act Pantages vaudeville offering, and Roy Stewart will be seen in "Paying His Debt." It is superfluous to say that Manager White assures the public that this show will be on a par with the best of them.

MRS. REIFENSTEIN, AGED 67, GAINS 25 POUNDS

Declares She Would Like to Put a Bottle of Tanlac In The Hands of Every Sick Man, Woman and Child In This Country—Never Saw Its Equal.

"I am sixty-seven years of age, but in all my experience I have never known a medicine like Tanlac. Think of it! At my age to gain twenty-five pounds in weight, but that is just what I have done," said Mrs. Emma Reifenstein, of No. 237 Webster avenue, Syracuse, N. Y.

"If I had it in my power," she continued, "I would put a bottle of Tanlac in the home of every sick man, woman and child in this country, for I know what this wonderful medicine would do for them. For almost two years I was almost a nervous wreck. I did not dare to leave the house or even go up town unless my husband went with me. I was afraid to even cross the street and had a feeling of dread all of the time.

"My stomach was weak and easily upset. For days at a time I would go without solid food. I could not rest at night to do any good and felt tired and worn out all of the time. Some days I could hardly drag myself across the room and was so weak and miserable I was ready to give up. "My health is fine now and I eat anything I want and never have a touch of indigestion. I have never slept better than I do now. My recovery is the talk of our neighborhood as I was generally believed I could not last but a few weeks longer. This grand medicine has brought me health and happiness and I just can't say enough in its praise."

Mr. J. Reifenstein, in commenting on his wife's statement, said: "Yes, her recovery has been a happy surprise to us all. A few weeks ago I had no idea she would be able to pull through, but now she is in better health than I have ever seen her and the credit is due to Tanlac. We have been married fifty-two years today and I don't believe I have ever seen her looking any better."

BIG OUTDOORS TO BE KANSAS SCHOOL ROOM

EMPORIA, Kan., April 4.—The vacant lot, the hay mow and the old swimming hole will find real competition next summer in the curriculum of the summer school of the Kansas State Normal school here.

"To go to school in the woods; to assign one's own lessons; to gain first hand information in local mills, backyards and stores; to be instructed in wood craft, and to swim in a modern pool twice a week" is the way the prospectus of this newly devised course of study reads. Classes for both boys and girls are to be formed.

The plan adopted by Dr. H. G. Lull, director of teachers training, is to have the pupils take trips to various industries in the city and out into the country to gather material and make observations. The information thus gained will furnish largely the basis of investigation and study in the class room on the other days of the week.

On each trip the students will be under the direction of a supervising teacher, accompanied by one or two competent scout leaders and student teachers. Returning from a hike the children will enjoy a plunge in the school natatorium.

The observations and questions raised on each trip will be correlated on the following day and arranged under the proper subjects for study. These propositions may require geography, arithmetic, zoology, at or any other combination of common branches for their solution, it was explained.

The scout leaders will be obtained from the physical training department of the normal, and must be competent to give instruction in scout craft or girl camp fire lore.

The novel curriculum was designed by Miss Jennie Williams, a normal instructor, in response to the request of many parents that a course be formed to interest children from six to thirteen years old during the summer vacation months.

Says Cheap Labor May Doom Whites

LONDON, March 15 (By Mail).—Dean Ingo, a well-known cleric known as the gloomy Dean, predicts that cheap labor may seal the doom of the white race. He declared in an address that the Japanese had tolerated a labor system no better than that of England 100 years ago. Under a regime of peace, free trade and unrestricted emigration the colored race would outwork, underlive, and eventually exterminate the whites.

The abolition of war and the establishment of a league to secure justice and equality of treatment for all nations, would seal the doom of the white laborer, he prophesied.

The Dean was of the opinion that the British social order was on the verge of bankruptcy and as conditions became more favorable to enterprise capital and business ability would be transferred to the economically strong countries.
