The Office Cat

BY JUNICS

He Got the Spirit.

There's a suburban home whose owner's principal delight is in keeping it epic and span. After dinner he and a guest were smoking on the front porch. The guest, after lighting his cigar, threw the burned match to the ground.

"Oh, I wouldn't do that, George," said the host.

"Why not?" asked the guest, surprised.

"It spoils the appearance of a place," was the answer. "It's just those little things that make a place look bad."

The guest smoked his cigar in silence for a minute. Then, without a word, he got up from his chair, walked down to the road and disappeared. He returned in a short while and his host asked:

"Why, where have you been, George?"

"Oh, I just went down to spit in the river," said George.—Everybody's.

A Week's Experience.

The year had gloomily begun For Willie Weeks, a poor man's Sun. He was beset with bill and dun. And he had very little Mon.

"This cash," he said, "it won't pay Tues."

A bright thought struck him, and he said:

"The Rich Miss Goldrocks I will wed."

But when he paid his court to her, She lisped but firmly said, "No Thur."

"Alas," said he, "then I must die!" His soul went where they say souls fly.

They found his gloves and coat and hat.

And the coroner then upon him sat.—Southern Bulletin

Not Disconcerted

One evening she said to him: "I've got something on my mind, Joe, that I hardly know how to tell you." "Is that so?" said Joe, his eyes widening. "I'm afraid you won't marry me if I tell you." "Is that so?" repeated Joe, his eyes still bigger. "I am a somnambulist, Joe" Whereupon Joe in silence, reflected for a space. "That's all right. If there ain't no church of that kind here we can get married by a Justice of the Peace."

The missing link between the sublime and the ridiculous is found in the fellow who tries to get thrills by building a home made racing body for a flivver.

Hard On Blouses.

The lady of the house had occasion to object to the number of blouses her maid servant sent to the wash.

We often wonder if esthetic dancing would still be as popular if the danseuse wore a mackintosh and arctics.

Years ago film entertainments comprised one reel of about a thousand feet. There is more than that much footage in kisses nowadays.

"Why, Mary," she said, "my own daughter doesn't send six blouses a week to the laundry."

"Perhaps she don't," replied the servant with great indignation. "And perhaps she don't go walking with a coal man."

Cynical

(The Stamford Advocate) "His friends could give no reason why he should have committed suicide. He was single."

Fondly Did He Hope; Fervently Did He Pray.

(Lake County (Ind) News) You may have heard it before, but a Green Line passenger with a bulging hip pocket lost his balance and sat down hard when the car hit one of the bumps on Hohman street last night. As he recovered himself a look of horror spread over his face. Something wet was trickling down his leg. As he feverishly started an examination, he murmured prayerfully: "My God, I hope that's blood."

LUCE EXTENDS SMALL HOPE OF FURTHER CUTS

About 25 local business men attended a conference with G. W. Luce, traffic manager of the Southern Pacific in the parlor of the White Pelican hotel yesterday afternoon and frankly presented their reasons for belief that the freight rates on practically all commodities coming into this city were too high. Mr. Luce, who was induced to come here by M. A. Callaghan, manager of the traffic department of the Chamber of Commerce, presented the railroad's side of the argument, and while he said he believed there would be a downward revision of rates after the hearing by the interstate commerce commission, about two months hence, he advanced very little hope for reductions to the extent asked.

M. S. West, of the Big Lakes Box company, stated that the increasing rates worked the biggest hardship, and was chiefly instrumental in placing the cost of living here on its present high scale. Harry Telford, of the county farm bureau, spoke about the high freight rates, which prevented the disposition of about 20,000 tons of hay in this county, and also mentioned the high cattle rate, which prevented the importation of cattle.

G. C. Lorenz, of G. G. Lorenz & company, Will Baldwin, of the Baldwin Hardware company, Al Graham, local contractor, and J. T. Perkins, of the Perkins Furniture company, and several others cited specific rates which they believed were inequitable.

Strong criticism was directed against the high rate from Dorris here, but Mr. Luce asserted that the lower rate between San Francisco Sacramento and Dorris was made by the California public service commission over the protest of the Southern Pacific, which took the position that the California rate was too low. He stated, further, that application for a raise in the rates to Dorris was now before the interstate commerce commission.

Main line rates on the Klamath Falls-Weed branch could not be obtained said Mr. Luce, but some relief was now practically assured, particularly on freight of the third, fourth, and fifth classes.

All industries are having a difficult time, said Mr. Luce. If merchants and others who were complaining about rates were as busy now as they were last year and the year before they would pay no attention to rates, as it is he who has not much to do who finds time to criticize. Another thing that militates against the lowering of rates on this branch, according to Mr. Luce, was the absence of business between here and Weed, the Klamath Falls station being the only one that produce any worth while business.

San Francisco, Sacramento, and Portland, are all fighting for Klamath Falls business, and the hear-

Auxiliary Party Enjoyable Affair

The party given by the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion in the Odd Fellows' hall last night, during which a number of 'surprises' materialized, was a tremendous success according to several of the ladies who were present. None but ladies were present, and therefore the surprises mentioned will forever remain a secret with them, but they constituted, perhaps, the most enjoyable part of a wonderful evening.

Mrs. A. M. Melby and Miss Clara Calkins sang, and Mrs. Fred Cofer contributed two piano selections. Mrs. Estella Carrier gave two recitations, pronounced by the ladies, "the cutest ever heard." Mrs. Florence Brandenburg read the futures, and told the pasts of several of the ladies present, making them happy, of course. A luncheon was served just before the close of the party hours, several American Legion members inveigling their way into the hall in time to share in it.

The entertainment and refreshment committee, which included Mrs. Bogue Dale, Mrs. Anna Holden, Mrs. Percy Burke, Mrs. Florence Rae, Miss Pauline Bond, and Mrs. Florence Brandenburg, wish to thank all the ladies for the interest displayed through their attendance, and promise a repetition of the good time before many days have passed. WEATHER REPORT.

OREGON—Tonight, fair; Thursday, warmer; heavy frost mornings. Forecast for the next 24 hours: Clearing before the interstate commerce commission will undoubtedly develop interesting phases. The Southern Pacific, Mr. Luce, assured his bearers, for business reasons, was interested in the progress of the Klamath Falls section, and wants it to go ahead, but freight rates that would not permit the railroad to operate at a reasonable profit would not help this section any more than it would the railroad.

Head Colds Started It We all know persons now suffering from a constitutional disorder which had its start from a cold in the head. It is not wise to let a cold continue in the hopes that it will wear itself out. A little simple medication taken at the proper time is better. The simplest form of such medication is a small tablet which may be easily swallowed without inconveniencing anyone. We recommend Rexall Laxative Aspirin (U. D. Co.) Cold Tablets; they contain Aspirin (U. D. Co.) Acetanilide, Atoin and Capsicum. These ingredients are most valuable in allaying pain, reducing fever, drying up coryza, lessening inflammation, eliminating poisonous secretions, warming up the stomach and shortening the duration of the disease. If a cold is not treated when the first symptoms show themselves, it will frequently develop into more serious complications. Get of us a box of these Cold Tablets today. Take them according to directions the moment the first symptoms appear and you will obtain real relief. We guarantee them. STAR DRUG CO. Klamath Falls Oregon.
