NEW PAVILION HAS APPROVAL OF MORALISTS

Sanction of two members of the city council, who by their own admission are ultra zealous for the city's moral welfare, apparently indicates that the new open air dancing pavilion on Klamath avenue, between Seventh and Eighth streets, has been passed by the board of censorship.

It is obvious that Councilman Vollmer approves for he took the contract to build the pavilion, which will be ready in a few days. He is doing the carpenter work, assisted by C. E. Solomon, who created a sensation last fall by his denunciation before the city council of certain public dances.

Negotiations are under way, it is understood on good authority, for the insurance of the pavilion in one of the companies for which Councilman Bogardus has the agency. The premium has not yet been paid but it seems that the Bogardus agency is favored.

It appears that the councilman from the fifth ward has broadened his views since last October, when he stated before a meeting of the central labor council that two of the strongest planks of his candidacy was the prohibition of prize fights and public dancing.

The history of the dance pavilion, readers will recall, is one of opposition at its inception, which in the end changed to advocacy. The site first chosen was between Fifth and Sixth streets on Klamath. Neighboring owners protested the fire risk and the application for a construction permit was laid over.

A new site was chosen, the protestants presented recommendations that the new application be granted, and the permit passed unanimously, with Bogardus, and Vollmer voting "aye."

Regardless of the hows and wheresofores, Bert McDonald, promoter of the enterprise, is credited in city hall circles with the practical ability to smooth out apparently insurmountable opposition and put his plan over and no promises to conduct a clean amusement that will appeal to all the Terpsichorean devotees and have no objectionable features.

The pavilion is large and well lighted, well equipped with seats, and promises to be immensely popular this summer.

New Power Line to Algoma In Use

Current was carried today for the first time on the California Oregon Power company's new line to Algoma. Everything worked perfectly it was reported.

Monday, the Huber rock crusher near Algoma will start work, electric power replacing steam in the operation. The Algoma Lumber company also starts using power at once and will use more as the milling operations are increased during the summer.

Mills Addition Woman Is Dead

Mrs. Lillie May Clark, wife of F. R. Clark, died this morning of pneumonia at her home on Orchard street, Mills addition. She was 40 years old.

Besides her husband she is survived by four children, the oldest aged 11 years and the youngest a week old baby son. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wilhite live at Fairbanks, Cal., and a sister, Mrs. E. L. Biggs lives in Mills addition. Funeral arrangements await word from the parents.

SHINE PARLOR MOVES

The Exclusive Shine Parlor has moved from its old location to the Central Hotel building to 711 Main street in the room occupied by the Yawman Shoe and Repair shop.

Northwest Growers Will Not Abandon Own Selling System

CHICAGO, April 8.—The northwest group of grain growers should maintain their present organization which provides for a 100 per cent pooling of contracts, while affiliating with the new national co-operative grain marketing corporation which has adopted the plan of optional pooling.

This was the view expressed by George C. Jewett of Spokane, general manager of the northern wheat growers association, today.

DERRICKS UP IN THREE WEEKS

Construction of the Crater Lake Oil & Gas company's derrick on its holdings about a half mile north of Merrill, began this morning. With all the derrick timber and other material on the ground, the company expects to complete the derrick within ten days. Following the completion of this derrick, the crew will transfer its activities to the Northern California holdings about six miles south of Merrill, and another derrick, a duplicate of the one now under construction for the Crater Lake Oil & Gas company will be begun.

The derrick timbers and other material have already been shipped for the Northern California rig and will be on the site before the construction crew is ready for them. These derricks will be standard 82-foot rigs. Both will be completed in about three weeks.

B. L. Stitzinger, L. R. Buchanan, E. C. Lemert and Charles Bly, experienced rig builders from the Midway field in California have charge of the work.

Turks are Again Advancing; Greek Reverse Growing

PARIS, April 8.—Turkish nationalists have resumed their advance in the Brusa sector of Asia Minor, according to official dispatches. Fears are entertained for the safety of the entire Greek expeditionary forces. The magnitude of the Greek reverse is greater than at first supposed.

Personal Mention

E. E. Sherwood of Chiloquin is a visitor here today.

J. S. Bailey, Macdoel resident, is here on business.

Roy Hickman, of Fort Klamath, is among the many out of town people who are here on business today.

R. C. Zuckerman, director of the Klamath drainage district, came in last night to look over his interests here. Mr. Zuckerman lives near Stockton, and is now numbered among the biggest potato and onion growers in the Stockton vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Gage, who have been visiting at the home of their daughter, Mrs. E. L. Paddock, left for San Francisco this morning. From there they will go to Fort Wayne, Indiana.

O. T. Anderson, of Beatty, is on his way to Orland, California, having left this morning in response to a message which stated that his mother was very ill.

W. T. Murphy, timberman of Portland, left for home this morning after spending several days here on business.

Mint loads attracted C. C. Low, of Portland, to this city. He left for home this morning after satisfying himself that Klamath county mint lands are all that is claimed for them.

Harry Holgate, district counsel for the U. S. reclamation service, is here from Portland on business.

LARGE CROWD AT ELKS INSTALLATION.

Following the installation of new officers in the Elks' Temple last night, the large crowd present enjoyed a social evening, with refreshments. An unusually large number were present.

LEADERSHIP IS ESSENTIAL SAYS C. OF C. SPEAKER

A large crowd last night heard Thomas H. Reed, professor of political science at the University of California, and former city manager of San Jose, California, in a lecture on "The Modern Chamber of Commerce," in support of the membership campaign of the Klamath county chamber of commerce.

As city manager of San Jose Dr. Reed undertook to conduct an experiment in municipal government, new at the time in the west, but in the decade that has since elapsed becoming more popular. He had a rather stormy administration, due to the strong adverse political elements that would not accept the new theory of government. When he finally retired the University of California secured his services.

Dr. Reed is nationally recognized as an authority on governmental subjects. He marshaled his arguments in scholarly fashion and delivered them with considerable oratorical effect, though he disclaimed the gift of oratory.

Efficient leadership is essential to success in democratic government, said the speaker, and the aim of the modern chamber of commerce is to provide trained leadership for the united community effort to build a better city.

He pleaded for harmony and organization in the community, the forgetting of past differences and submergence of personal interests to the campaign for the development of the whole community.

Klamath Falls is a city with a future, Dr. Reed declared. "God and the reclamation service did much for your valley, and with ample water and fertile soil you have great advantages, but you also have a corresponding responsibility," he said.

The day is coming, he foretold, when this city will be on the main line of the Southern Pacific and linked as closely to Portland and Seattle as it now is to San Francisco and Sacramento.

With all its natural advantages, its present development, and an undoubted destiny to be realized, the community is fortunate and its citizens should unite and work constantly for the hastening of development was the burden of Dr. Reed's advice.

The modern chamber of commerce, he said, established the machinery for co-operation in development and the citizens of Klamath Falls should do all in their power to aid in maintaining an active, efficient chamber of commerce.

Speakers who preceded Dr. Reed were E. B. Hall, president of the chamber of commerce, Mayor Wilson S. Wiley, L. W. Depuy, manager of the campaign for membership, and the Rev. C. F. Trimble.

Mayor Wiley said that when he came here fourteen years ago the town had a population of 600 or 700. In his comparatively brief residence he had seen it grow ten times as large and expected to witness greater growth in the future. During his residence the lumber manufacturing industry had progressed from a small beginning to a point where Klamath Falls is the recognized leader of box shock manufacture on the coast, with a payroll of a million dollars monthly in the timber industry during the working season.

Mr. Depuy expressed satisfaction with the interest shown in the membership campaign, and discussed the working plans of a modern chamber of commerce.

The Rev. C. F. Trimble, an honorary member of the central labor council, spoke from the working man's standpoint. The workingman has the same ideals, the same patriotism and the same love of home and family as any other man, he said, and anything that helps create a better home environment in the community and better conditions would receive his support.

ADJUST MILK PRICE

PORLTAND, April 8.—The distributors today met the producers' price of milk to grocers, but did not reduce the price to residents, which remained 13 to 15 cents a quart.

ENGLAND MAKES READY TO MEET TRIPLE STRIKE

LONDON, April 8.—All efforts of Premier Lloyd George to bring the miners and mine owners together in an attempt to settle the coal strike having failed, the miners' executives went into conference this afternoon with the transport workers and railway men, their partners in a triple alliance of workers, to decide when the sympathetic strike should begin.

The announcement of the decision for the sympathetic strike was made by J. T. Thomas, leader of the railroaders.

Premier Lloyd George announced today that the government would call for volunteers for the transport and other essential services as a method of meeting the prospective triple alliance strike.

A royal proclamation, it was announced, will call up the army and navy reserves.

LONDON, April 8.—Railway men and transport workers decided tonight to strike Tuesday morning in sympathy with miners.

Suffering Seriously From Blood Poison

William Sparrow, a familiar figure about town, especially since the time he met with an accident to his back causing him partial loss of locomotive control, was taken to the local detention hospital yesterday suffering from blood poison. Several days ago Sparrow's condition became so bad that he was taken to the county hospital. He objected to staying there, and left during the night returning to this city. He was picked up on the street a short time after his return, in a helpless condition, and an examination showed that he had injured his arm, blood poison having set in. The report this morning is that the poison has worked its way up into his shoulder, and the chance for his recovery is slight.

CRUISER CONVOYING MUTINEERS INTO PORT

SAN FRANCISCO, April 8.—The steamer Willhilo, accompanied by the cruiser, Tacoma, is steaming up the coast to San Pedro, California, with her crew in mutiny, according to a message received here. The Willhilo has a crew of about 50 men and sailed from New York for San Francisco, March 5, via the Panama canal.

The mutiny was so serious that the cruiser Tacoma sent a boarding party to take possession of the Willhilo. The mutiny occurred while the vessel was off La Union, Salvador.

Commission Would Reopen Phone Case

SALEM, April 8.—Fred H. Williams, chairman of the Public Service Commission today went on record as saying he favored a rehearing in the telephone rate case after having read Portland's petition. He favored the fullest investigation, he said. Commissioner Buchtel, now in Washington, was reported also to be favorable to a rehearing.

MARKET REPORT

PORLTAND, April 8.—Cattle, weak; hogs, sheep, eggs and butter steady.

WEATHER REPORT

OREGON—Tonight and Saturday, fair; warmer in east portion Saturday; light to heavy frost in morning.

Weather Probabilities

The Cyclo-Stormograph at Underwood's Pharmacy registered a rising barometric pressure this morning but about noon it began to fall slowly. As the pressure has been fairly steady since last report, no great change in weather conditions is expected. Forecast for next 24 hours:

Cloudy, probably continued warm, followed by unsettled weather.

State Fund Ready To Match Lake Co. Highway Program

PORLTAND, April 8.—The state highway commission has offered $150,000 to match the $100,000 in Lake county to be spread over a two year period of road construction.

Work to be done includes the stretch from Crooked Creek to Paisley on the north and south road and approximately ten miles on the Lakeview to Klamath Falls highway in the Drews valley section.

The work will be advertised next month.

DAMAGE SUIT WILL BE TRIED

Assistant United States Attorney Austin S. Fleig, Jr., arrived here from Portland last night, and will defend H. D. Newell, project manager of the U. S. reclamation service, in a suit for damages, brought by A. Courtwright, which will be heard before Judge D. V. Kuykendall tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

Some time last June Mr. Newell, while on official business, encountered some of Courtwright's horses on a road about one mile from Malin. Another car coming from the opposite direction helped to confuse the horses who, it is said, ran through a wire fence, injuring themselves.

If it is necessary for Mr. Fleig to remain over on this case, he may conduct the hearing of L. J. Masters, arrested for operating a still at his home on Oregon avenue, and also that of J. F. Ehloff, arrested on charge of association in the operation of a still at 39 Main street.

Habeas Corpus Plea Will Be Decided By Court This Afternoon

Alfred A. Parkhurst, the well known Crater Lake development pioneer who has held the hotel and other concessions of the famous resort for years, with his son Asa L. Parkhurst at the lake. They spent some time in conference with Alex Sparrow, superintendent of Crater National park, in the latter's office, and may go to the Rogue River gorge some distance beyond Union creek during their stay here to view that vicinity in connection with plans Mr. Parkhurst has in mind.

Reconsideration of Judgment Asked

Taking exception to Judge D. V. Kuykendall's decision in the cases of Shaughnessy against J. C. Kimball in which Kimball was awarded judgments which included counter claims amounting to $950, claimed to be due for labor and on notes, plaintiff's attorney yesterday afternoon, in a brief argument, asked Judge Kuykendall for reconsideration of the verdicts. Articles of prejudice had been filed against Judge Kuykendall by the plaintiff, but the judge overruled them, finally deciding for the defendant when the plaintiff's counsel declined to go on with the cases. In the argument yesterday it was contended that when articles of prejudice are filed, the judge has no discretion in the matter, and must accede to the request for another presiding judge. Furthermore, plaintiff insisted the verdict could not have been legally given for the defendant where a momentary consideration was involved, without the taking of evidence. Defendant declined to argue his side of the case.

Judge Kuykendall has taken the matter under advisement.

SEEHORN RETIRES FROM THE WOOD BUSINESS

W. E. Seehorn has sold his interest in the Seehorn Wood company to Frank Frankford, who has been associated with him in the business for more than two years. The business will be conducted as before from the office at 622 Main street. Mr. Seehorn has other interests which are claiming so much of his time, that he found it impossible to give any attention to his wood business.

NEW DEMANDS WILL BE MADE ON GERMANY

PARIS, April 8.—It was semi-officially stated today that fresh reparations proposals are expected from Germany. The allies expect to deliver their ultimatum to Germany at the expiration of the time limit set for the payment of the 20 billion gold marks on May 1.

MOVES JEWELRY STORE TO NEW LOCATION

Frank M. Upp, who has been conducting a jewelry store at 511 Main street, has moved into the rooms vacated by the Exclusive Shine parlor in the Central Hotel building. Mr. Upp will continue to carry his same old reliable line, augmented by the latest effects the jewelry world affords.

FINDS OUTLOOK FOR LUMBER MARKET GOOD

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shepherd, who for the past six weeks have been touring California, have returned home. While travelling in California, Mr. Shepherd took occasion to visit the lumber yards in the various towns through which he passed and made inquiries as to the supply of material on hand and the prospects for the coming year. The information gathered was encouraging and indicates that when things start the lumbering industry will be one of the most active.

"Every yard I visited," said Mr. Shepherd today, "was in about the same condition—shot to pieces," as they generally expressed it. Among the dealers the prevailing opinion was that no general movement towards replenishing their stock would be made until actual orders justified it. They said the indications were for a big building boom just as soon as the people settled down to the hard and fast fact that there would be no further drop in prices and that the time for a constructive program is at hand.

Already there is a noticeable tendency towards optimism on the part of the general public. The people seem to feel that the cyclone has passed, and while it has done a great deal of damage it did not blow a hole in the ground and there is a solid, level foundation to start work on."

Parkhurst Plans For Coming Season

Alfred A. Parkhurst, the well known Crater Lake development pioneer who has held the hotel and other concessions of the famous resort for years, with his son Asa L. Parkhurst at the lake.
