PROSPECTOR IS FAST ON WAY TO JOIN DODD

PORTLAND, April 8.—Old-time prospectors, essentially the products of the frontier, are becoming scarce. T. A. Rickard, editor of a San Francisco mining publication declared in a talk here last night before the Third International Mining Congress. The wireless telegraph, the prohibition law, new land acts and railroad grants all have helped the "sour-dough" prospector off the world mining stage, he declared.

A plea for the well-trying pick was made by Mr. Rickard. "I am prepared to believe honest scientific investigation will devise a way of obtaining guidance for miners by detecting and measuring the emanations, resistances and other intangible reactions of matter on matter to indicate presence of ore underground," he said. "Meanwhile it remains for prospectors to use methods on which he can rely, rather than waste time and break his heart on schemes either fraudulent or incoherent. The cor-drill and the diamond bit are well-tried tools; the shaft and prospect hole will not deceive; after all the best instrument of divination is the pick. There is intelligent curiosity in the point of it; there is strength in the handle of it; there is rhythm in the swing of it. Do not be too readily persuaded to discard it for new fringed tools of exploration."

Describing the passing of the prospector, Mr. Rickard said that first of all most of the easily found rich lodes have been located and large low-grade deposits for which mining engineers are seeking today are unattractive to the prospector because he cannot work them himself.

"In the old days the prospector could count on discovering ore so rich that he could realize on it," Mr. Rickard added. "If he needed a little capital he got it from the local merchant or saloon-keeper."

"The kind of man that makes a good prospector is becoming rare because he was essentially the product of the frontier; he was physically strong, self-reliant, adventurous and optimistic. He hated to work for wages, because he loved independence; so he roamed the unexplored wilderness with a quiet mind. Now his successor cares less for the solitude and more for the hectic life of the noisy city.

"Moreover the unknown possibilities of discovery beyond the frontier have retreated from centers of population. The wireless has extended its

Rabbit Drive At Dorris Sunday

DORRIS, Cal., April 8.—Sunday's rabbit drive will be near the Harry Mitchell ranch in the Oklahoma country, according to advices received yesterday from that vicinity. The Mitchell ranch is located about nine miles east from Dorris.

The Y and O literary club combined its program with the meeting for the organization of a Chamber of Commerce Wednesday evening. A larger number of local folk attended than has been customary, most of them remaining after the Chamber of Commerce meeting to hear the musical and literary program rendered by the club members.

Vocal solos by Mrs. Herman Bercovic and Mr. Fred Rogers were highly appreciated as was a duet by Mrs. Beth Chase and Miss Lela Fox. A debate on the question "Resolved that the plan for world peace suggested by President Wilson would be a workable proposition," was the feature of the evening. The negative team captained by Clifford Sevits won the unanimous decision. Park Sherman lead the affirmative debaters.

Mrs. H. W. Mitchell was a visitor in town yesterday, having driven in from the Mitchell ranch in the Oklahoma country.

A carpenter is at work remodeling the front of the postoffice. The building is owned by George Otto and probably will be the location of the postoffice after the new postmaster is appointed.

J. C. Thompson, Klamath Falls manager for the California-Oregon Power company, was in Dorris on business Wednesday afternoon.

Malin Interested In Better Dairies

(Special to the Herald) MALIN, April 8.—A public meeting at which E. H. Thomas, county agricultural agent, will urge the co-operation of local farmers in purchasing dairy stock, will be held in the Malin hall here next Sunday afternoon. The meeting will be called about 2 o'clock.

Mr. Thomas will attempt to persuade the farmers that pure bred dairy cattle pay here, and will encourage buying the best stock only. Dairying has not been practiced here very largely yet, but it is expected it will be a successful way of marketing the hay, and at the same time decrease the likelihood of experiencing another situation like the present, when crops cannot be sold.

Modesty keeps some people from telling the naked truth.

Lord Reading, the new Viceroy of India, relinquished a private law practice worth $150,000 a year to enter public life.

Invisible tentacles into remote parts of the wilderness. Any discovery is blazoned in the press immediately, bringing a mob of pseudo-prospectors and speculators who plaster the ground with notices of location. The prospector finds the mining law fails to protect his ground, he may be in conflict with cattle-men or may be told he has located on railroad land.

"Moreover they have taken his whiskey from him and this is no joke. It was his one relaxation, the crown of his emotional life. To the old-timer a bottle of whiskey was as essential as a pick and a hammer. The 18th Amendment to him is a rank injustice; he is ready to quit and he does. And what becomes of him, I do not know."

Poets must suffer before they can write, says a philosopher. After that the public suffers.

It's hard for a man to pass money that he sees lying on the sidewalk—especially if it counterfeits.

WEATHER REPORT OREGON—Tonight, fair; Friday, fair and warmer, heavy frost in the morning.

A novel warning sign has been erected at a railroad crossing in San Antonio consisting of a platform eight feet above the ground, upon which is placed a wrecked automobile which figured in a fatal accident of that road some time ago and which resulted in the death of two occupants of the car. A sign under the platform bears the words, "Did the Driver of This Stop Look. Listen?"

Things That Can't Be Bought It is possible to buy power, but not respect—position, but not loyalty—followers, but not friends. In fact, the most precious things in life can't be bought. This truth is nowhere more vividly exemplified than in the drug shop. GOOD WILL is a very valuable asset in the practice of pharmacy—yet it is overlooked by many dealers in their strife for quick profits. Immediate profit has never been our chief aim, for we realize that the increased business which comes to us because of quality goods and superior service will enable profit to take care of itself. When selecting a family drug store, be influenced by other things besides the lure of low prices.
