THE STAR

Have you ever had an uncontrollable desire to lie—to lie magnificently so as to impress someone with your importance? Have you ever had the desire to pretend to someone that you're a dashing hero or a society belle when as a matter of fact you are nothing of the sort? Have you ever felt that if you could attract someone's attention you could hold it—and have you ever had the desire to lie to do it?

On the assumption that you will answer all of these questions in the affirmative Allan Dwan has produced "A Perfect Crime," a comedy drama, as his second Associated Producer's release, based on the desirability and even importance of lying in an intelligent way. The picture shown at the Star theatre tonight.

Monte Blue has the role of Wally Griggs, a timid bank messenger whom everyone despises for his stupidity. Suddenly Wally, the worm, turns. He begins to lie. He tells magnificent and thrilling yarns about things which never happened on land or sea. His ridiculous yarns are published and he wins a beautiful girl who had ignored him in his honest days.

THE MONDALE

"Peggy" was especially written to give free play to the gifts of Billie Burke. It was a comedy, because that is Miss Burke's undoubted field. But "Peggy" also contains a good sound drama. It tells a story of an American girl, whose vivacious spirits are transferred across the ocean to the dour setting of the Scottish highlands. There, among the rugged Scots, the rough edges of her

GIVES TANLAC CREDIT FOR SPLENDID HEALTH

T. J. PARKER
4246 Juneau Street, Seattle, Wash.

"I used to think all the Tanlac testimonials were exaggerated, but I have felt thankful a thousand times I ever believed in its strong enough to give the medicine a trial," said T. J. Parker, well-known salesman for Gately's Clothing Store, residing at 4246 Juneau St., Seattle, Wash.

"Several years ago I commenced having periodic spells of sickness and a few months ago I had an attack that I thought would finish me. When I did finally get up, I was scarcely able to go. I had no appetite and what little I forced myself to eat caused so much gas on my stomach I could hardly get my breath.

"At night I was often so bloated I couldn't breathe while lying down and just had to sit up and struggle for air. At times I had cramps so bad I could hardly endure it. "My liver was sluggish and sometimes I got so dizzy I would nearly fall. I felt tired and miserable all the time, couldn't even sleep and for days at a time I wasn't able to go to work.

"Well, a friend of mine finally got me to try Tanlac, and it certainly has done a good job for me. My appetite is fine now and although I am eating just anything I want and as much as I please, my stomach never gives me the least trouble. I have picked up in weight, my strength has come back to me, and I am now enjoying the best of health.

"All the men at the store know Tanlac put me back on my feet, and I am glad to give this statement for what it may be worth to others."—Adv.

character are tempered and she emerges a real woman.

"Peggy" opens on a luxurious estate near New York city. Miss Burke is discovered standing in a fountain, spraying without fear or favor the house-party guests who have dared her to do "something different." There comes a letter from her uncle and guardian in Scotland. He demands that she leave America and the do-nothing set in which she is being reared, and henceforth make her home with him, his wife and son in Scotland. She protests.

The action now shifts to a small village not far from Glasgow. Andrew Cameron, stern and proud head of his family, is seen at his hearthside, where his unbending nature recognizes no law but his own. Mrs. Cameron and their son, Colin, are at morning service, and at the close remain to congratulate the new "moonster," the Rev. Donald Bruce, on the excellence of his sermon. Colin slips away from the group to walk home with the weaver's lass, Janet McLeod. Their love affair later furnishes the dramatic scenes which punctuate Miss Burke's comedy.

THE LIBERTY

Delightful touches of humor, powerful drama and colorful flashes of inspiring scenery are features of

"Hearts Up!" in which Harry Carey comes to the Liberty theatre today. The Universal photodrama shows the star as a man who is living a lie in which the fortunes of a beautiful girl are strangely affected. The girl believes the man to be her father and he loves her as a sweetheart.

Lon Chaney, recognized as the foremost character actor on the screen and whose work in "The Miracle Man" and "The Penalty," has raised him to stellar eminence, plays the principal heavy role in support of Priscilla Dean, in her latest photodrama, "Outside the Law," coming to the Liberty theatre next Sunday.
