Do You Remember

When some of the older residents of Klamath Falls used to look wise and wink when they told about J. Frank Adams selling his land holdings to suckers (?) for $30 an acre? You all know how that turned out. The "suckers" proved to be the "wise ones." The "suckers" who bought Klamath Basin Land have made more money out of it than the supposedly "wise ones" ever dreamed it would be worth.

Did the old-time residents of 15 years ago make the big profits in Klamath Basin Land? No. They overlooked the big opportunity and let some of the best land in the world lie undeveloped and unproductive and waited for the golden opportunity to sell it to the Bohemians and the easterners have made, and will continue to make the big profits, because they had the nerve to bet their money and back their judgment.

Those same wise ones (?) wink and smile that same old pessimistic smile when anyone talks about oil beneath the Klamath Basin. And they will pass up the wonderful possibilities for profits in oil, just as they passed up the possibilities for profits in timber and saw-mills and alfalfa land.

Did you make the profits you might have made from an investment a few years ago in Klamath land or Klamath timber?

Are you going to make the profit you should make if oil is struck in Klamath Valley this summer?

Isn't it better to be a wide-awake "sucker" and see the opportunities, and make a bet and take a chance, than to be a sleepy, pessimistic old "wise-one" and deny that there is an opportunity and say there is no chance?

W. O. Wilkins, representing the American Automobile association, and J. S. Slade of the Portland Automobile association, left this morning for Bend. They had been here placing association road maps with local organizations. They are traveling by automobile. Mr. Williams is well-known in automobile trade circles. He is the originator of the plan for annual registration of automobile sales of various makes of cars and an overflowing fountain of useful automobile information.

A mail carrier in Kewanee, Illinois, entered the government service twenty years ago, and has not failed to make his regular trip for a single day in all that time.

Weather Probabilities

The barometric pressure, as recorded by the Cyclo-Storm-agraph at Underwood's Pharmacy, has remained practically unchanged since yesterday's report. While it is quite low, no sudden change is indicated and it is quite probable that present weather conditions will prevail for a number of hours. Forecast for next 24 hours: Cloudy, continued cool, unsettled weather.
