THE STAR

"Broadway and Home" is the aptly descriptive title of Eugene O'Brien's latest Seiznick Picture will head the list of film features at the Star theatre tonight.

As the title indicates, the story tells a vividly contrasting tale of the gay night life of New York, the Capital of the world, and the peaceful existence of the dwellers of a small New England coast village.

The scenic effects of "Broadway and Home" are in keeping with the atmosphere and spirit of the story. The sea in all its aspects, becalmed and stormy alike, corresponds with the glittering lights of the "gay white way"

The Jolly Dick Lonsdale company will please you tonight in another of their good farce comedies, with "Ole Swensen" in one of his best parts. This company is each night adding new patrons to their list of admirers and with new talent.

DORRIS PERSONALS

John Siemens Jr., and Jas. H. Driscoll of Klamath Falls, were Dorris visitors yesterday afternoon on business.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Eberhard returned Sunday from an auto trip to their old home at Grants Pass, stopping long enough to catch some fine trout at Rogue river.

Lester Terwilliger of the Star theatre, of Klamath Falls, accompanied the Jolly Dick Lonsdale vaudeville company to Dorris Sunday evening, where they played at the local Star theatre. A new concrete building will house the Star theatre some time this summer.

H. W. Mitchell, Wm. G. Hagelstein and Chesley Stowe departed yesterday morning by automobile for Yreka, where Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Hagelstein will represent the local chamber of commerce at a meeting for the organization of a county association to which all chambers are to be members with voting power proportionate to their membership.
