

Bert Leo and Curley Phillips, two of the 50 funny clowns with the Al. G. Barnes circus coming to Klamath Falls Monday, May 2.

BARNES CIRCUS NEW THIS YEAR

Flaring posters of the Al. G. Barnes big 4-ring Wild Animal Circus have announced the coming of that favorite organization to Klamath Falls, Monday, May 2, and consequently there is great rejoicing in juvenile circles, and among the older persons as well, for the lure of the circus never diminishes with age.

During the past winter the Barnes circus occupied for the first time the magnificent winter quarters recently acquired by Mr. Barnes. It comprises 86 acres west of Culver City, California, on Washington boulevard, and is pronounced by all circus folks who have visited it to be the finest show quarters in the country.

Every facility for the proper care of animals has been provided and the ease with which the dumb beasts absorb the lessons worked out for them by their trainers is taken as an indication that they appreciate the care that has been given to their comfort.

The Barnes circus has always been the pioneer in evolving new animal acts, and 1921 will be no exception to the rule. The fact that practically every other circus in the country is featuring their wild animal departments this year is taken by Mr. Barnes as a decided compliment. He is not worried over this sort of competition, for he knows better than does anyone, that it requires years to build up an animal circus that will please, and past experience has shown him that owners of other circuses have not the patience to devote themselves to the gigantic task.

The Barnes circus will give two performances here—at 2 and 8 o'clock, with a 2 mile street parade at 10:30 a. m.

Doctors for Bees.

When a honey bee staggers around holding his head and staring despondently into space he may be suffering from influenza, dementia precox or any one of a dozen other physical and mental disorders. At any rate he needs quick medical attention. He is getting it in the honey-producing regions of Manitoba, Canada. Bee experts say that the province will pour a river of honey on the world's pancakes this year and that the big production is due almost entirely to the elimination of bee diseases. Last year's average of approximately 65 pounds to the hive is expected to be materially increased by the hundreds of large apiaries scattered throughout the province.—Brooklyn Eagle.
