BAR TO INSIST ON APPEARANCE

Action Held No Reflection on Department of Justice, But Does Question Propriety

PORTLAND, May 20.—(Special)—The Oregon Bar association will press its desire to appear before the supreme court of the United States in the Albers case.

The bar association will pay no attention to objections raised by Attorney General Daugherty and Solicitor General Frierson in a conference with Senator McNary at Washington according to announcement made by Harrison G. Platt, president of the association.

Dispatches received here indicated that Daugherty and Frierson protested any such proceedings as contemplated by the bar association in the Albers case and declared that such appearance before the court as outlined by the bar association would be unheard-of and implied reflection on the integrity of the heads of the department of justice who had appeared in the case in the highest court of the United States.

Albers was convicted in the district court in Portland of violating the espionage act for alleged unpatriotic utterances during the war. He appealed to the circuit court of appeals at San Francisco and the decision of the lower court was upheld. Several weeks ago Solicitor General Frierson confessed error on the part of the government.

CROWDS ATTEND WESTERN NIGHT

Annual Charity Entertainment Is Opened And Fun and Frolic Hold sway.

With a zip and a bang that brought to the minds of many of those present cherished memories of the good old days when a man lived a man's life and honor was the law of the land, the Elks' Western Night opened at the Temple last evening. The start was auspicious and indicated that the entertainment, which is an annual event, will surpass its predecessors and set a pace that future Nights still find difficulty in hitting. The entertainment is not confined to members of the Elks, but is open to everyone, and everyone should attend, both for the good time one can have and to give what little can be spared to swell the fund, for all of the money realized goes to carry on the charitable work conducted by the Elks.

The idea carried out in the affair has its foundation in the wide-open town of the early days—the days when the crope hanger and Blue Sunday pest were unthought of. Those were the days of real sport, when the gambling joints, dance halls, and other sources of amusement held sway, without leaving lasting influences upon the strong characters that demanded vigorous sources of amusement and pleasure. Many today dream of those times and, as they listen to some old-timer tell of the happenings of frontier days, wish they lived or could experience some of the exciting episodes that have gone forever.

Well, here is the chance. For a few cents one can feel like a "Coal Oil" Johnny or a "Death Valley" Scotty. He can try and buck the tiger, break the bank, experience the hold-up guy the exhilarating influences of dance hall follies. Everything is there—everything except the bar. That is conspicuous by its absence, but there is enough left and it would be wise to get out this year and enjoy it, for there is no telling what may happen during the next 12 months. Perhaps even this empty shell may be buried and the one chance of the present day lifetime may escape your grasp.

Millions of dollars of bull coin can be bought for a trifle—$1,000 for one dollar of the current coin of the realm, and with that thousand one can have a million dollars worth of fun. You can delve into the mysteries of the roulette wheel, under the master hand of Nelson Rounsvolle you can cross swords in the Klondyke game with Sam Walker, you can rattle the bones with Ross Nickerson or Glen Jester, play fan tan with Dr. Lamb and Frank Andrews or separate yourself from your last cent by matching wits with Barney Chambers in chuck-luck. In any case you get a run for your money and a good time.

The old familiar chink is there in the person of John Foster, and those who know declare he has it over the real John of old. He is ably assisted in a "Velly Square Game" by Mrs. Willard N. Smith, and between them they make it "interesting" for their visitors.

Then there are Guy Merrill and Fred Houston—well they are the regular Katzenjammer kids of the show, always good, but surpassing themselves on this occasion.

Tonight is the "western night" of the Western Nights, when western togs hold sway and big prizes are given for the best costumes. There is sure to be a night full of fun and frolic for those attending.

Last Night Bad For Automobiles

Last night was a bad one for automobiles. The light shower put the pavements in a very slippery condition, with the result that three machines were damaged on account of skidding. One machine, a Ford belonging to a man named Smith, turned turtle at the corner of Eighth and Klamath avenue, but was only slightly damaged. With the assistance of some passers-by the machine was righted and continued on its way, without the engine missing a stroke.

The machine driven by John Siemens, Jr., skidded at Eleventh and Main streets, smashing one wheel and breaking the windshield. He was accompanied by Mrs. Siemens and some friends. None of the occupants was hurt.

The most serious accident was at the White Pelican hotel, where the Dodge driven by Arthur Leavitt was completely wrecked. He was taking some friends home from the Elks' entertainment and was traveling at a fast clip when the machine began to skid. He evidently became confused and stepped on the accelerator instead of the brake, for the machine seemed to shoot ahead at lightning speed and smashed into the hotel building. It was miraculous that some of the occupants were not killed. Leavitt suffered the severest injuries, eight teeth being knocked out and several cuts and bruises inflicted. The other occupants escaped with minor injuries. The car was a complete wreck, the wheels being crushed, the top smashed and body and seats almost torn asunder.

President Harding has written Governor Olcott that he will be unable to accept an invitation of the latter to accompany a large party of governors on a cruise to Alaska in July. The president, however, hopes to visit the coast and make the Alaska trip later in the year.

Injunction to Be Asked To Prevent Picketing

PORTLAND, May 20.—Marine strike sympathizers here last night attacked the members of the crew of the steamer Coaxet, which is loading here, and threw some Filipino members of the crew into the Willamette river, according to the affidavits and verbal statements presented to United States District Attorney Humphreys by J. H. Piltz, the fleet captain of the shipping board. Attorney Humphreys said that on the basis of the affidavits, he would ask an injunction in the federal court this afternoon against the picketing of the water front.

Fourteen affidavits from the sailors, shipping board officials and other federal officers were in Humphreys' hands telling of a series of waterfront clashes. One declared that several Filipinos returning to the Coaxet last night were attacked, and the officers said that they had information that some were thrown into the water.

C. O. POWER CO. SEEKS PERMIT

Asks Federal Commission To Construct Power Plant.

Herald Salem Bureau
SALEM, Ore., May 20.—Preliminary to petitioning the federal power commission for permission to add another project on the Klamath river to its giant system, the California-Oregon Power company has filed an application with the state engineer.

It calls for the appropriation of 2100 second feet of the stream, which it is estimated would develop 70,000 horsepower.

The company already has five projects, and it desires to add another in order to meet the steadily increasing demand in Oregon and California for hydro-electric power.

Four in Oregon

One of the five projects is located in California, and the remaining four are in Oregon, one on the Klamath river, one at Copco and two on the Rogue river. It also has a preliminary dam on upper Klamath lake.

According to the state engineer, the cost of developing the new project, for which the company has applied, will be several million dollars. The company, he said, immediately will file its petition with the federal power commission, and when the commission is ready to consider the application, representatives of the state engineering department will confer with it.

California Officers Come After Mexicans

District Attorney Charles K. At- ran and Sheriff C. D. Stanton of Colusa, Cal., arrived here last night to receive Jesse Villa, Flora Villa, and Mabel Ragman, suspected of having murdered a Chinaman at Williams, California, returned this morning with their prisoners.

Circumstantial evidence is very strong against the suspects. The murder of the Chinaman occurred last October and was supposed to have been committed by a Mexican and a jitney driver of Williams. Two Indian women were also implicated. It is claimed the four had been buying liquor from the Chinaman for which they had not paid so he took possession of some of their baggage. That night an attempt was made to murder the Chinaman and he was found badly beaten, cuts about his clothing indicating that they had tried to stab him. Several days later he was found dead in the woods near Williams.

A pistol was found in a local second hand store which had been sold by Villa and which is claimed to be of the same caliber as the one used in killing the Chinaman. Villa had also disposed of a watch. None of the parties would admit any knowledge of the crime.
