FREIGHT STAGE SERVICE STARTED TO ASHLAND.

One of the plans for enlarging their growing freight business will be the operation of a freight stage each way every day between Klamath Falls and Ashland, according to the information given out today by Fred Payne and A. H. Bussaman.

The freight stage was started last month and according to the operators has grown to the point now where a daily freight service each way will net them returns sufficient to justify the expense and before the summer is over, should patronage increase, further enlargements will be undertaken.

The Office Cat

BY JUNIUS

It's Here.

Today we offer our passengers something out of the ordinary. Our great poem contest went like a gasoline tank on fire, as it were. Herewith is a few of the choice of the most select.

Fillin' space on a hot day is no easy job, so we conceived the idea of lettin' our readers "rid their chest" of a lotta stray Pomes for today's colyum.

So here goes without an effort:

Ode to a Limb.

I meditate upon a limb
So neat and trim,
So smoothly clad,
(But I'm not bad.)
This limb is on a forest tree,
You were thinking of a l-e-g
You're stung, bedad!

Klamath Falls.

Written in a Refrigerator

To see or not to see,
That is my trouble,
From knee length skirts
I raise my eyes discreetly
But low cut waists confront me then;
These styles leave best-intentioned men
Puzzled completely.

Anonymous

I'm saddened and remorseful
And my soul is sick with pain
Since I drank some ooze
I thought was booze
Never, never, never again.

From Another Sanctum

I wandered slowly in the rain,
Filled with a hun-yry pain
And nothing else
But pain, pain, pain.
(No wonder poets and editors are a queer bunch.)

Dunc's Raving Again

The gentle rain
That falls again
Gives me a pain.
A woeful pain.
And makes my brain turn quite insane.

Jim, our Sincere Sympathy

A keg will contain
Ten gallons of rain
But what a waste—
For just a taste
I'd give—O, d—n, if I'm crazy blame it on Volsted.

ALAS, SHE HAS CHANGED

"So you married that Miss Meek. I remember her well—a quiet, shrinking sort of girl."
"Nothing shrinking about her; she's twice the size she used to be."

The High Cost of Carrying Cash.

Have you ever stopped to think how much it costs you to carry a bill roll instead of a check book?

It is estimated that the people of the United States have in their pocket books, their bureaus, their mattresses and tea pots.

He thought his foot was on the brake,
But it was on the gas.

Real orators are becoming scarce," says an exchange. There haven't been so many, for a fact, since the country went dry.

The unluckiest man in Klamath county has been found: He came to town to see the sights and got dust in his eyes just as a bunch of girls were coming down the street.
