gathered at the rig of the Crater Oil && Gas company near Merrill to witness the "spudding in" of the companys' first well and following a general good time earlier in the day, the big drill was set to work boring downward for the oil which is believed to lie beneath in large quantities.

The crowd began assembling from all over the county as early as 6 o'clock vesterday morning and by noon, the line of autos and other conveyances along the road to Merrill was most imposing. At 2 o'clock, the barbecued meat was served and the three sheep and a baby beef amply served the guests present. Guy Merrill saw to it that everyone had all they wanted.

At 3 o'clock, the crowd gathered about the 82 foot rig where drillers Holstetter, Heley and MceHnry were at work hoisting the big drill into place and watched the process of 'spudding in" closely. At 4:20 p. m., the drill entered the ground and was soon lost to sight.

During the entire day, oil was not discussed so much as were the general crop and farm conditions but the oil excitement was there even though it was kept submerged. The fact that no willd predictions by the assembly indicates that a solid faith in this enterprise is held by the people in the Merrill region as well as by the officers of the company.

It seems that the people who were there felt that with fortune favoring the oil enterprise, and the prospects for the greatest crop in years. all that was needed to complete their happiness and bright prospects is the release of some money to expand their operations, especially the securing of cattle to feed their surplus hay.

R. C. Groesbeck delivered a brief address to the crowd and was warmly applauded for his efforts. Then came the drilling operations and with a smoothness surprising to the spectators, the initial well of the Crater Oil & Gas company began pounding its way downward for the hidden oil wealth which it is hoped will make this section a sec ond Oklahoma.
