Game With Lassen Team Depends on Support of Fans

Ray Crawford, field manager of the local teams in the City League has answered the letter and telegram of Manager Watts of the Susanville team relative to the playing of a game in each place sometime in August.

There are many questions to be taken up in the contracting of outside games and the experience that the local ball promoters have had on this subject does not leave a very good taste in their mouths for mixing up with outside teams. In the game between Weed and Klamath Falls, the cost of the trip down to Weed in machines and the items exclusive of the guarantee made by Weed, exceeded the limit set and had to be borne by the local management.

When the Weed team was brought up here for the return match, while a large crowd attended and the gate receipts were large, after all deductions were made, and net return to the league was the small sum of $14. The league management breathed a deep sigh of relief when the ledger showed a credit instead of a debit.

Manager Crawford is considering the possibilities of this game strongly and it is his wish to play Susanville but one of the points that he brings out, "Will the fans support the team strongly enough on the return match here to keep the league from going in the hole?" As soon as he settles this point, he will announce his decision.

DULL DAYS IN SPORT CIRCLES

The "dog days" of sportdom have arrived, the time of the year when the hot rays of the sun have an effect of making the baseball fan and the follower of the padded arena long for the cool and sheltered spots within the forests.

The tendency is strong in the average man to want to find a "hidden" trout hole, drop in a floating coachman and lure the "grandad" of the stream from his favorite nook—then to feel the rod vibrate with the effects of the strike and after a game fight land the speckled beauty upon the cool grass and gloat over the victory.

Within the last few days, a majority of the followers of sportdom have left for the streams and hills of this county and despite all the fascinations which baseball has to offer, it is doubtful if many could be lured back from the quiet of the forest to the hot streets and ball games of this place.

The reaction will come however, when the fan does not come back. After dispensing stories about the trip, mosquitos, cougar screams, sleeping with porcupines, the "lost" monster trout and similar fisherman dope, the game's at Modoc park will draw him back just as a magnet collects all the steel within its magnetic influence.

THE STAR
The truth of the old adage, "Pleasure is very seldom found where it is sought," is exemplified in the new Elaine Hammerstein picture from the Selznick studios, which is entitled "Pleasure Seekers," and which is to be the principal item of the story.

Miss Hammerstein will portray the part of a quiet winsome girl who succeeds in turning a profligate youth from his constant search of the pleasure he never finds. She does this by marrying him—but it is then that her real problem starts, obstacles she had not counted on are uncovered, but undaunted, she quietly eliminates them one by one until the road to real pleasure and happiness is open.

THE LIBERTY
"Uncharted Seas," a Metro special adapted from the Munsey Magazine short story of John Fleming Wilson comes to the Liberty Theatre tonight, with Alice Lake in the stellar role.

The marvelous combination of a gripping story from the pen of the above short story writer, and the supreme acting of Miss Lake is enough to insure an evening of unequalled pleasure and thrills to all that see it, and this is already borne out by the thousands who have seen the picture in other cities.

As Lucretia Eastman, the young woman who gives her husband a last chance to regenerate himself, and prove that he is something else than an arrant rotter and coward, Alice Lake has a role pre-eminently fitted to her powers. The theme of "Uncharted Seas," with its climax far up in the Behring Straits, amid the dangers that beset travelers is far out of the beaten road of pictures.

SWAT THE KNOCKER
There's about a half a million ways to run your city down. It doesn't take a plague to hang the crepe upon a town. Death of enterprise may follow from co-operative drouth. But the worst of all's the knocker with a syncopated mouth.

He never has a word of praise for any good acquired. His whine persists; its tenor's set; "the people make me tired." "The people ought to do this and they ought to have more zest." (When they really ought to send him to an institute for pests.)

He slams the city paper and he doesn't like the judge; 'Gainst everybody, everything, he's got a patent grudge. "The streets are all too narrow, the lighting system's poor." But ask his aid to modernize,—his backing isn't sure.

There's one thing sure, the town that's fit to let you make your bread. Deserves the best of your support from heart and hand and head. So while your'e cleaning up your town and giving poisons new. And swatting flies, just don't forget to swat the knocker too.

told in the play, "Hell's Hinges," starring W. S. Hart. It is coming to the Strand Theatre tonight. The Rev. Robert Henley and his sister, Faith Henley, come from the East to the western town named Hell's Hinges on account of its tough reputation. At the first service, the tough men and women of the town interrupt the sermon of the young preacher, a weak character, by their ribald singing and dancing. Blaze Tracy interferes, when an insult is offered to Faith Henley.

THAT'S OUR IDEA in making CAMELS—the Quality Cigarette.

Why, just buy Camels and look at the package! It's the best packing science has devised to keep cigarettes fresh and full flavored for your taste. Heavy paper outside—secure foil wrapping inside and the revenue stamp over the end to seal the package and keep it air-tight.

And note this! There's nothing flashy about the Camel package. No extra wrappings that do not improve the smoke. Not a cent of needless expense that must come out of the quality of the tobacco.

Camels wonderful and exclusive Quality wins on merit alone.

Because, men smoke Camels who want the taste and fragrance of the finest tobaccos, expertly blended. Men smoke Camels for Camels smooth, refreshing mildness and their freedom from cigarettey aftertaste.

Camels are made for men who think for themselves.
