Councilman and Fire Chief Clash

(Continued from Page 1) an admission from all the councilmen that he had accorded them courtesy but wound up with the statement, "All except him and he is not entitled to it for he does not extend it to anyone," all the time pointing an accusing finger at Councilman Vollmer.

Mayor Wiley tried pouring oil on the troubled waters by remarking that the council was getting no place—and this quieted the affair.

On a motion made by West and seconded by temporary appointment of Jack Widby was passed, all voting favorably except Councilman Vollmer who did not vote.

Unionists Term De Valera Visionary

BELFAST, July 19.—The return to Belfast of Sir James Craig, Ulster premier, and members of his cabinet from London, must not be taken as a sign of rupture of negotiations, said Colonel Spender, secretary of the peace delegation, on arrival here. The delegation may be recalled to London next week. De Valera is regarded as a visionary and the Unionists feel that there is no discussion possible until he modifies his views regarding the Irish question.

IF KLAMATH was as interested in OIL as it is in "Moonshine," our capital stock would be oversubscribed before daylight tomorrow.

If we could put as much "KICK" in N. C. O., as there is in some moon-shine, the whole power of the U. S. government couldn't keep the public from buying it.

We are sorry to notice that many people would rather buy moon-shine than N. C. O. According to latest quotations, one share of N. C. O. is worth about the same as one drink of moon-shine.
