Plans Completed By Labor Council For Outing Sept. 5

The plans are all made now for the Labor Day picnic about six miles from here on the Upper Lake and according to the definite arrangements made by the committee, two morning barge trips, besides launch trips, will be made to convey participants out to the grounds. No cost will be made for transportation to or from the picnic grounds on that day.

Chairman Conklin of the arrangement committee stated that a number of men had volunteered to help clear away the underbrush on the selected site but that twenty volunteers were wanted for Sunday, August 28, to go up the lake in his launch.

The band has been secured to play on the picnic grounds and the barge fixed so that any one who desire to dance will be able to do so. Free coffee will be provided for everyone.

The Rev. C. F. Trimble will deliver a short address and either the Rev. Father Marshall or the Rev. Father Molloy will be invited to speak as well. The day will be spent after the fashion any one desires, with no effort to have a systematic program.

THE STRAND.

Dorothy Dalton, Thomas H. Ince's new and magnetic star, is the heroine of "Chicken Casey," which will be seen at the Strand Theatre, tonight. The play has to do with the adventures of an actress who plays a clever trick on a young author to convince him that she is fitted for a role which she desires. It is necessary for the accomplishment of her purpose that she disguise herself as a girl of the slums and undergo a series of startling adventures. She is "game", and the eventual discomfiture of the author is complete.

The play is said to be extremely amusing and offers excellent opportunities not only to Miss Dalton, but also to Charles Gunn, the new Thomas H. Ince leading man, who appears as the author.

Los Angeles Will Entertain Realtors

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 23.—For the first time in the history of the Association, California will entertain the twenty-sixth annual convention of Insurance agent here on September 13 to 17. Ten thousand delegates are expected to attend.

Among the speakers who have agreed to appear are John B. Morton, President of the National Board of Fire Underwriters and Platt Whitman, Insurance Commissioner of Wisconsin. Dinners, informal dances, sightseeing rides, the usual trip "to see them make movies," a barbecue, and visits to the beaches are included in the entertainment program.

Board Walks in Bad Condition

Complaint is being made by citizens that the board walks in the downtown section as well as the outlying districts are in bad shape, also boards which are laid for crossings in the streets.

On many crossings, the planks have been torn from place by travel and nails protrude. The same condition prevails on many sidewalks in the city. Boards fly up and crack peoples' shoes when one person withdraws to the side to permit another person to pass.

School children will soon have to use the walks leading to the various educational institutions here and the complainants say that the "city dads" should in some manner have the nails driven down in the sidewalks, and the loose boards, repaired before snow time comes.

There is usually more danger in an elopment than in any other kind of runaway.

SAMPLE OF NEW HUMBOLDT OIL RECEIVED HERE

A sample of the oil which was struck in the course of drilling on the Eitter place near Petrolia in Humboldt county several weeks ago was brought to the office of the Herald by Charles Giacomini, a resident of Petrolia who is visiting with his daughter, Mrs. Charles Garcelon of this city.

This sample of oil from the well of the North Counties oil company will be sent to W. C. Lehman at the headquarters of the Northern California Oil company for analyzing and a report made upon the quality.

The sample contained in a clear glass bottle when held to the light has a reddish cast and when taken away and inspected in the ordinary light shows a grayish green color. The bottle shaken vigorously creates a brownish bead which holds some time before disappearing. In all respects from looks, the sample resembles a thin lubricating oil but one whiff at the stopper or at the uncorked end changes the investigator's mind as a strong smell of gasoline is detected at once.

The inflammability of the sample sent was tested in the ordinary way and no sooner was the flame held near the arising vapor than it broke into a blaze and burned strongly. After the fire had stopped, the smell of "coal oil" was distinguishable above the other odors. The residue left upon the test was greasy and as an evidence that gasoline was present, the bottom of the container was heated to an extent in the brief period of burning so that the fingertips could not be held on it. Gasoline is said to throw its heat downward like alcohol when burning.

This sample of oil resembles closely the oil taken from the Jules Ferraud "fault" at Ventura, California. Ferraud has a water well in the rear of his merchandise store which was giving fine drinking water until after a slight earthquake disturbance about December, 1920. When the water was withdrawn the well was found to contain a high grade oil, having a specific gravity of 54, and in all respects, very similar to the sample sent from the Humboldt fields. The paraffine base of the Ferraud oil, however, was found to be much lower than is claimed for the Humboldt product. One of the peculiarities about the Ferraud well is that no regular flow is received. One day perhaps ten barrels of oil will be taken out and then only about one barrel a day for a week, then suddenly a big flow will occur. The well however never fails to net Ferraud $10 a day.

The sample of oil received here by Mr. Giacomini was taken directly from the well of the North Counties well by Daisy R. Lytle who is one of Mr. Giacomini's neighbors in a letter, Miss Lytle states that the company is going to stop drilling and perforate the casing in the well. As soon as tanks arrive, pumping will begin to estimate the flow of the well. It is evident from the letter that the North Counties people expect a great volume of oil for the states, "they are making a concrete foundation for two steel tanks which will hold 22,000 barrels of oil."

Mr. Giacomini states that, according to news from Petrolia, experts pronounce the oil to be of the same quality of high grade paraffine base lubricating oil that is found in Sumatra, in the Dutch East Indies, and as the price has been estimated to be $35 per barrel, even a 50-barrel output will pay handsome returns to the investors. The same kind of oil is said to be found in Pennsylvania but in limited quantities. Experts pronounce the field in Humboldt county to be about 35 miles in length extending from near Brice land to the Cape Town district.

No attention is paid to a chronic liar when he utters an occasional truth.

$250,000,000 Western Reclamation Measure Is Ready for Action

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 23.—When the regular session of congress convenes in December the McNary $250,000,000 western reclamation bill will hold an unusual and fortunate status. The extraordinary feature of its status will be that it will be before both houses of congress with a favorable report.

A favorable report was made by the senate many weeks ago by the irrigation committee of that body. The house committee on irrigation has completed hearings and probably within a few days the house bill, which was introduced by Addison T. Smith, representative from Idaho, will be reported in identically the same form as the McNary bill in the senate.

The last testimony was taken by the house committee during the past week. The principal and by far the most important witness in the final summing up of the case of western reclamation, was ex-Governor Spry of Utah, commissioner of the general land office, but formerly the official representative in Washington of the western states reclamation association.
