WATER PROBLEM SEEMS SOLVED LAKE CO. LAND

The test well being drilled by the State at the Ernst place, seven miles southeast of Fort Rock, has struck what seems to be an inexhaustible supply of water at a depth of 100 feet, although the well has been sunk to a depth of 120 feet.

On Monday a Layne & Bowler pump with a capacity of 1200 gallons per minute was installed by N. C. Jansen, of Portland, who has the agency for this pump and who also has the contract for drilling the well. The pump was put in the well to a depth of 100 feet to give the water supply a try out. The first water was struck at a depth of 23 feet and the 12 inch hole was standing full of water to this depth. After a few minutes pumping the water was lowered four and one half feet, the pump being run at different speeds to determine the supply. A speed of 500 gallons per minute was the minimum while as much as 900 gallons was the maximum speed, without lowering the water more than noted above.

The appropriation of the State of $10,000, which was used toward sinking this well is to be used as a revolving fund. When a well is sunk on a man's ranch and proves a success, he pays back to the State the cost of drilling. This money will be used to drill other wells. It is reported that Crampton Brothers will get the next well.

Another pumping demonstration of the Ernst well will be made in about two weeks, when it is planned to invite people from Lakeview, Bend and other places, to demonstrate what can be done along this line. — Silver Lake Leader.

OREGON BREVITIES

MEDFORD—In the trial of a lawsuit in the circuit court at Jacksonville, in which they were on opposing sides, Charles Reames, ex-assistant United States district attorney at Portland and Gus Newbury, veteran Medford attorney, became involved in a dispute, the lie was passed and both rolled on the floor in a clinch until separated. Judge E. M. Calkins then lectured the belligerent lawyers and fined each $25.

BEND—Twenty-eight Bend high school graduates will be in college this fall, school figures show. Of this number eight will be at the University of Oregon and a like number at Oregon Agricultural college. The registration from here at the university will be the largest on record.

PORTLAND—A vote to expend $125,000 on improvements for Columbia college at Milton, Or., was the principal business of the north-west conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, in session at First Methodist Episcopal church, South, Union avenue and Multnomah street, with delegates from Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana in attendance.

ROSEBURG—Frank Filley, aged 60, a well known Satherlin sawmill owner, was instantly killed when he fell against a circular saw, severing his head from his body. He was working at the saw when in some manner he lost his footing and fell against the rapidly revolving saw.
