BRITISH HAVE FEWER LAWSUITS

CINCINNATI, Sept. 15—The average Englishman, will all of his proverbial insistence upon his personal rights, calls less often upon his courts for relief than does his American cousin, declared John W. Davis, former ambassador to England, in an address here tonight before the American Bar Association in which he gave "some random observations on the organization of the legal profession in England and the administration of English justice."
 "Who shall come forward with an explanation of this fact, if fact it be?" asked Mr. Davis. "Is it a survival of days long gone when justice was not only costly but tardy and uncertain; is it because there exists in England a class of lawyers whose business lies wholly outside the courts and in whose hands many controversies are settled without judicial aid; or is there a reason deeper still in the age-long habit of this island people to respect the law they have made and live their daily lives within its well-marked circle?"
 "Startling as it may seem, the litigation of England and Wales is relatively little more than the litigation of our Federal Courts alone; and the vast tide of controversy that flows through our state tribunals may be credited to us as surplus belligerency."

The speaker, after discussing the ranks and orders into which the legal profession in England is divided, declared that "in comparison with the close knit organizations sheltered by the Inns of Court and Law Society, we in America seem so many scattered grains of sand." It is difficult to make one familiar only with the English atmosphere, he continued, "understand that, in truth, notwithstanding this Association, there is no such body as the American Bar. There are, instead, scattered groups consisting of county, city and state bars, with a Federal bar here and there composed in part of the same members but united by no tie of common origin or discipline."
 A marked spirit of progress, especially in the domain of criminal law and procedure, Mr. Davis said, has been shown in recent years by the legal profession of England. In addition to sweeping changes in the Judicature Acts of 1873, 1874 and 1875, he declared, "justice has been brought nearer to the masses by the enlargement of the common law jurisdiction of the county courts."
 "When all comparisons have been made, and all differences recounted," Mr. Davis said in conclusion, "the fact remains that the members of the legal profession in England are in very truth our brethren over seas. The common law by which we live has its roots in English soil. The judges who interpret it on both sides of the water look to their distant colleagues for counsel and assistance, and the principles of liberty which it embodies are the rod and staff by which our people walk."
 "Trained in the same school, professing the same great ideals, sharers of like immunities and privileges, there rests upon the legal profession in England and America a duty which is joint and not several, common and not divisible. The nations whom they serve stand today supreme in present strength and in potential energy. Upon them Destiny has laid accordingly the largest responsibility of the immediate future of the world. Shall not the lawyers, who lead as well as serve them, guide them in the ways of mutual confidence and joint endeavor in the service of mankind?"

They're coming to town—the clowns, the lumbering elephants, the spangled folk, the bands, the hooting, tooting callopes, the white dappled horses and the many wonders that are Sella-Floto's, "second largest show on earth," which carries among its 400 performers, "Poodles" Hanneford, greatest clown rider of all time and the highest paid circus artist in all white top history. A large statement, but true, for "Poodles" and the riding Hanneford family constitute the only big, outstanding feature in the white top world. Getting the Hannefords away from New York Hippodrome was no slight task, and beating out circus competitors in the bidding staked even millionaires' purses. The "big thing" comes to Klamath Falls on Monday, September 26, for matinee and evening shows.

CIRCUS COMING SEPTEMBER 26

You who have seen Sella-Floto—for the last eight years a first rank circus—during the last three seasons, when it has raced to the front as did Man O' War, will understand when it is asserted that the 1921 performance tops those of 19 and '20. You will also understand what is meant when it is said that the show given at the annual spring opening stand in the Chicago Coliseum comes to you in fact. Sella-Floto has added another stage to its arena, making three rings and two stages, and they'll be laid out before you on circus day. Better than that, they will be filled with feature acts—the Hannefords the Hobsons, the Hodgins, the Hamido Madri Arabs, the Otways Japanese, the Lindseys, the Whites, the Steber Seals, the Stelners, Lou Grant, the La Fleurs and scores of others. In the air, the famous Codonas and the equally celebrated Nelsons, big flying troupes, will lead the usual strong Sella-Floto aerial offerings.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts E Back Murks or Bladder Soothers
 We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.
 The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.
 When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.
 Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.—Adv.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful Lustre At Once
 Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.
 Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two its natural color is restored, and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.—Adv.
