

LIVESTOCK TO BE PLENTIFUL AT STATE FAIR

SALEM, Or., Sept. 22.—(Special)—Just what the Pacific Northwest is doing in the matter of production of pure-bred livestock will be conclusively proven at the forthcoming state fair, which begins Monday, September 26. Entries have been pouring into the office of the secretary of the board for several weeks past, and from to date a splendid compilation of the names of men and farms that are putting this section of the country on the map from a livestock point of view.

Heretofore, for a number of years, herds and exhibits of notable breeders of the middle-west, east and south-east, have been featured, but this year the entries will be largely from this state and Washington. Outside breeders are not barred, however, and will, as heretofore, send some of their best show stock. In previous competition it has been found that the Northwest breeders run these from other sections a close race for honors and prize money, and so it is considered consistent that this year livestock men from this territory participate in a friendly bit of rivalry.

Every few days the name of some new champion is announced, and this with the general attention that had been directed Oregon-ward by the state fair, is expected to bring a noteworthy showing of pure-bred livestock enthusiasts to the state fair in Salem the last of this month. A number of these men will come in the capacity of judges, and they will bring others with them, all to remain for the six days of the exhibit.

All the men selected to serve as judges are themselves breeders in the line represented, and are chosen because of their recognized ability and proven fairness. They are as follows: E. W. Trowbridge, Columbia, Mo., horses; F. A. Scribner, Pasadena, Calif., dairy cattle; A. H. McDonald, Davis, Calif., beef cattle; George S. Bulkley, Mt. Vernon, Wash., dairy cattle; W. A. Huther, Ord, Neb., swine; Charles Talmadge, Salem, swine; W. A. McCarroll, St. Paul, Minn., sheep and goats; William Coats, Seattle, Wash., poultry; E. K. Carter, Spokane, rabbits.

Among the notable exhibitors will be E. W. Van Tassel, of Wenatchee, Wash., who will send a fine herd of Ayrshires; Waikakai farm of Spokane, Wash., which will be represented by a big entry of pure bred Jerseys; J. G. G. Hubbard, of Canada, who will ship a large consignment of sheep.

W. M. Riddell, of Monmouth, Ore., who took first and second place championships and other honors for his Cotswold and Lincoln sheep at the Manitoba fair in Brandon, the last of July, this year, will be one of the largest exhibitors of sheep, entering the same animals that were successful in the Canadian show.

The Oregon Agricultural College herd of thirty-four head of Jerseys, Guernseys, Holsteins and Ayrshires, which is making the northwest circuit, will be one of the attractions in the big livestock barns. The animals are in charge of C. J. Pollock, herdsman at the college.

"Medal Segis Prilly Gelsche," the Holstein cow, champion by semi-official test, owned by C. J. Berning, of "Nugget Farm," Mt. Angel, will be another important addition to the livestock exhibit.

Additional space, to care for the increased livestock exhibit, has been made possible this year by the remodeling of the old poultry building into a sheep barn.

Yosemite to Have 90,000 Visitors

YOSEMITE, Cal., Sept. 22.—As scenic attractions the Yosemite and Yellowstone national parks are about equal this year, with one more month remaining of the season.

Yosemite's attendance August 31 had reached 85,787, with probability of 90,000 persons entering before September 30, according to Chief Ranger Townsley. Last year but 68,000 travelers had entered the Yosemite up to September 30.

Travel to the valley by automobile is increasingly popular, 17,565 machines carrying 60,404 passengers having been registered as compared with 13,418 machines and 46,074 passengers during the twelve months of last year.

Certainly the ruling pen must be mightier than the sword.

TURKS DENY GREEK STORIES OF ATROCITIES

ANGORA, Turkey, Aug. 25. (By Mail).—Competition between the Greek and Turkish Nationalist official press bureaus is one of the phases of the war in which the Greeks outclass the Turks, due to Greek control of communications.

"Here's an Athens dispatch that we have just hanged six Frenchmen in Angora," said to the correspondent Hussein Raghib Bey, director of the Turkish bureau, tossing the copy of a wireless across the table. "There's no truth in the yarn, of course, but by the time we are able to get out a denial, the news will be printed everywhere in the world, and nobody will believe our denial, anyway, or take the trouble to print it. The most astounding untruths are spread about us."

As the Nationalists have but one feeble wireless station, which receives news from the outside world, but sends only a few hundred miles and in a wave length not known to the American or Allied ships in the waters of the Black and Mediterranean seas, immediate news from Angora reaches the outside world several days old.

The Greeks have the advantage of being visited easily by foreign correspondents and the second advantage—that they censor press telegrams. They recently took the added precaution to place a censor on cables originating in Constantinople, inasmuch as the only cables from there pass Greek territory.

The Nationalists are arranging a more powerful wireless to talk to the Tiflis wireless station which in turn transmits to Moscow. For internal propaganda, bulletins are distributed by the daily newspaper Hakimieti Millie (National Sovereignty) which is printed on presses brought on donkey back from Constantinople. Its editors are Constantinople journalists.

EVEN SOVIET NEEDS MONEY

LONDON, Aug. 30. (By Mail).—In the first number of the new Labor Monthly, Premier Lenine explains the discovery of the Soviet government of Russia that it could not get along without capitalism in some form and why it has compromised on what it calls "state capitalism."

"State capitalism," he says, "is incomparably higher economically than our present economic system—that is one point; and secondly there is nothing in it that is terrible for the Soviet government, for the Soviet state is a state which guarantees power to the workers and the poor."

"One of the simplest cases or examples of how the Soviet government guides the development of capitalism along the path of state capitalism—of how it 'plants' state capitalism—is concessions. Everybody now agrees that concessions are necessary, but not everybody fully appreciates the significance of concessions."

"The Soviet government secures the advantage in the form of the development of productive forces and an increase in the quantity of products available immediately or within a short period. We have, say, hundreds of enterprises, mines, forests, etc., we cannot develop them all; we have not enough machinery, food or transport."

"In 'planting' state capitalism in government strengthens large production against small production, the advanced against the backward, machine production against hand production. It increases the quantity of products of large industry in its hands and strengthens the state regulation of economic relations as a counter-balance to the petty bourgeoisie anarchic relations."
