

Patrick Mackinaws, Overcoats and Leather Vests and heavy clothing in endless variety now ready. We are proud to offer the people of this county this exceptional line of winter clothing—the products of the famous the foremost manufacturers of woolen wear in America. Conceded by everyone, even their competitors, to be the best in their line. We are extremely fortunate in being one of their agents, as they cannot begin to supply the demand for their products.

Come in and let us show you the best line of Overcoats, Mackinaws, Leather Vests, Shirts, Sox, Blankets and Auto Robes you ever saw. The early purchaser has the advantage of getting the size and color he wants. If you want to know about Patrick Mackinaws, "Ask the man who owns one."

Job for Solomon if He Had Been There

"Him my papoose, leggo", said one Klamath Indian woman last night at the corner of Seventh and Main street to another Indian woman who had a wee youngster by the leg and was trying to take possession of him. "Him my boy"—emphasized with a lot of native expressions, came from the woman who had the leg hold. Then the fight began. Hair flew in all directions and some remained on the walk after the mixup.

A large crowd assembled and someone shouted "police" and the fighters stopped and fled, leaving the child in possession of a native friend. The police arrived too late to interfere.

Sewing for Chinese Hospitals Thursday

Ladies of the Emmanuel Baptist church and their friends will have an all day meeting Thursday, September 29, at the parsonage, 1112 High street, to finish the White Cross work which will be sent to the Baptist hospitals in China. A basket lunch will be served at noon. Everyone is invited.

One large box has been filled with women's clothing and bedding for Russian relief by the efforts of the workers under the Rev. J. H. Dickson and they are endeavoring to fill another. Donations may be left at 1112 High street or will be called for if contributors phone 5923.
