

ENGLAND HAS A NEW CLASS

"New Poor" is the Problem There Now—Humdrumness of Life is Their Tragedy.

England has no nouveau riche—the "new poor" is the class most referred to in England today, according to Miss Clarissa Spencer who has just returned from London as representative of the overseas department of the Y. W. C. A. In addition to England Miss Spencer visited European countries to further the work of the Y. W. C. A. in explaining their people one to the other through the medium of their women.

"Not starvation, nor homeliness, but the humdrumness of life is the tragedy of a great portion of English young women," Miss Spencer says: "Young men are few.

"For most of the girls who had been engaged to be married and for many who had just married at the opening of the war, life now holds little but the long years ahead. Some of them, of course, will marry. But many more will brave the endless succession of days, each the same color as the last."

Few English girls are idle. Most of them earn their living now. What has struck Miss Spencer so forcibly is that work, food and shelter become meaningless to the vast number of England's girls who no longer look ahead to homes of their own.

Miss Spencer believes that not so many English girls are coming to this country as are going to England's own colonies.

TELESCOPIC CAMERA IN ANDES

Largest Photographic Apparatus in the World Has 24-Inch Lens.

The South American station of Harvard university's observatory, tucked away in the Peruvian Andes, near the city of Arequipa, in the old Inca empire, boasts of the largest photographic apparatus in the world. It is a huge telescopic camera with a 24-inch lens which has been of great aid to science in its observations of the southern skies.

The station was founded 30 years ago, and is located near the base of the famous Andean volcano, Misti. The Aequipian Indians, descendants of the Inca civilization, frequently speak of themselves as the sons and daughters of old Misti. It is said the Indians in the surrounding country still worship the mountain with much reverence, regarding it as the source of earthquakes which often are felt in the region. The volcano erupted seven years ago.

Superstitions in regard to the mountain date back to prehistoric times. The ruins of the ancient pagan temples, a writer says, have been found in the crater of the volcano, and even today near the top may be seen a great iron cross, placed there in 1077, when a party of Spanish priests exercised and pleaded with it not to erupt again and destroy their cities.

The clear atmosphere of the Arequipa region is said to have afforded an excellent site for an observing station.

German "Booby Traps"

At the start of the reconstruction work in the devastated coal region about Lens, France, the French were taught by several disasters that the retreating Germans, before flooding mines, had concealed along the walls unnumbered "booby traps," says Popular Mechanics. Consequently, in order that the divers, charged with preliminary inspections, may "look before they leap," the government recently purchased from England an interesting apparatus for submarine photography. Lowered down the flooded shaft, this apparatus illuminates a ten-foot zone; then, as switches are pressed at the mouth of the shaft, it photographs simultaneously each of the four walls.

The Best Thing He Did.

A melancholy looking man entered the establishment of a photographer. "I should like to have a picture of myself weeping beside my wife's grave," he explained. "I fear I have not the necessary accessories here," said the photographer. Then he added, facetiously, "Couldn't we arrange to have the portrait made at the grave itself?"

"No," said the man: "that's in New York state. It would be too expensive to go there. Just you fix up some kind of a grave here in the shop. I could weep on that. It's no trouble for me to weep anywhere."—Everybody's Magazine.

Revised Version.

Little Bert, had been to Sabbath school by himself. When he returned his mother tried, rather unsuccessfully, to find what he had learned. But all she could elicit after much questioning was that his teacher said Jesus was going to send him a quilt. That, he insisted, was all they learned.

When mother consulted the Sunday school quarterly, she found the golden text for the day was:

"Behold, I send you the Comforter."

HOLDING CHEMICAL TRADE

Statistics Show That United States Has Been Able to Hold High Mark Set During War.

Official statistics for the fiscal year 1920 demonstrate that this country has been able to keep its trade in chemical and allied products very near the high mark set during the war, despite the loss of markets for purely war supplies and despite the pressing demands that must be met in the domestic market.

Such is the conclusion reached by O. P. Hopkins, a well-known statistician, writing in the Journal of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.

"In almost all lines except munitions," he writes, "the exports in 1920 exceeded in value those of 1918, a fact that can be explained in some cases, perhaps, by rising prices, but which nevertheless warrants the assertion that the position has not been weakened. These exports, which very greatly exceed those of the last normal pre-war year, are made up almost entirely of manufactured products.

"Imports have more than held their own and comprise raw and partly manufactured products required for further advancement by American chemical manufacturers."

Sea Lion Leather.

Large numbers of sea lions on the British Columbia coast which destroy annually vast quantities of fish food may be slaughtered and their hides placed on the world's leather market, if a proposition which comes from Premier Oliver and has the approval of many experienced fishermen, is carried out. The sea lion weighs from 2,000 to 2,500 pounds, the hides being nearly an inch thick. These hides make a tough and durable rough leather such as is used in workmen's gloves and in saddles. It is stated that these animals will eat 50 pounds of fish in a day. Four hunters recently killed several hundred sea lions in one day in Charlotta Islands.—Scientific American.

No Husband is Perfect.

Don't expect all the virtues in one man. If he is good natured he may be lazy; if he is scholarly, he may be cold; if he is thrifty, he may be stingy; if he is generous, he may be wasteful; if he is smooth, he may be deceitful. The man who charms you with his immaculate appearance is likely to be something of an old maid; the man who is careful to pick threads off your skirt is prone to pick snaws in you; the man who takes an undue interest in the selection of your hats may take an undue interest in the bill which comes home; the man who, before marriage, jumps to open the door, least your fingers be contaminated by the knob, may after marriage, allow those same fingers to be contaminated by the washboard.—Woman's Home Companion.

ORDERED TO SHOOT.

For three nights past, the residence of Mrs. Martin, at 406 Michigan avenue has been the scene of prowlers, who attempt to gain entrance to the house in the absence of her husband, the police say. Mrs. Martin and her two children are alone in the place as her husband is away on business. The police told Mrs. Martin to arm herself and shoot at the first attempt made to get into her home.

One secret of success is the early discovery that you can't do everything.

With the exception of the Smiths, Jones, and Browns there are few families as old of the hills.
