ROADS PAVED WITH COTTON

Roads paved with cotton—veritable fleece-lined highways—are the latest thing in the west.

The fact that Old King Cotton had been relegated to this lowly though extremely useful duty was not generally known, even in California, where the "cotton boulevard" idea seems to have originated, until the discovery was made a short time ago by a road scouting party down in the Imperial valley.

"Old 300,000," the famous Dodge Brothers car used by the Albertson Motor Co., Dodge Brothers dealer in Los Angeles, was going through the valley on her regularly appointed task of finding new points of interest for tourists, when a snow-white road suddenly loomed ahead of the tedious, sandy path over which the car had been pulling for hours. The driver was perplexed and it was not until he got out and made an examination that he found the explanation. It was a carpet of cotton, stretching as far beyond him as he could see.

Off the highways the roads of Imperial valley in the vicinity of India, Coachella and Mecca, and throughout the whole Imperial valley in general, are poor, the constantly shifting sandy soil preventing the wearing of trails and country roads.

So, in order to make satisfactory roads for the purpose of inter-communication, the farmers have found that raw cotton makes an excellent surface for automobile and teams alike.

It was found that many other roads which branch off the main highways leading to the farms and ranches were similarly "paved." The cotton pods seem to bed down in the sand of the road and give a good traction surface, especially for light automobile traffic.

Stockman Pays $75 In U. S. Court For Alleged Trespass

MEDFORD, Oct. 15—A jury in the federal court in the case of the government against Ivan E. Kilgore, a stockman of Klamath county, returned a verdict in favor of the government for $75. The government sued for $104 actual damages and $125 punitive damages. Trespass of stock on the Fremont National forest reserve grazing lands was charged.

Kilgore took the stand in his own behalf, and testified that as soon as he received notice that his stock were in the reserve he ordered riders to go to the district and drive off all stock belonging to him. He said that at the time of the complaint he owned in the neighborhood of 1000 head of cattle, and that in July he drove them to the home pastures for branding and sale. Every move of the cows for six months prior, and six months after the alleged trespass was discussed in detail.

The state evidence indicated that the Kilgore stock had been placed so it would stray onto the Fremont reserve, from the Modoc reserve, where Kilgore had a permit to graze 250 head of stock, upholding the contention that the suit has within it the embers of a range quarrel between Kilgore and the small stockmen. Kilgore has cattle on a thousand hills, and is one of the largest stockraisers in the state. His ranch in Klamath county embraces in the neighborhood of 2500 acres, the evidence showed.

After Birds? Not At Home!

No, the cat is not after the birds. Just eating his dinner on the porch of his own aerial bungalow, all modern improvements, fine view, etc. His owner and architect, Clarence Coley, of Raleigh, N. C., is watching him. Coley says cats like to be off the ground.

UNION COUNTY HAS PLAN TO FIGHT H. C. L.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 15—A constructive plan designed to meet one phase of the unemployment problem by combating the high cost of living this coming winter, has been effected and put into operation by the Union County Ad Club of La Grande, according to A. W. Nelson, Secretary manager of the La Grande organization who was in Portland today conferring with State chamber of commerce officials.

The project as carried out in Union county is as follows, according to Nelson: The schools of the county are put on a competitive basis, and prizes are to be given to that school whose students have collected and stored the most vegetable and fruit products. Vegetables and fruits which are not of commercial value, and which ordinarily would go to waste, are donated by the farmers of the surrounding country. In the winter, when the condition of the unemployed is expected to be acute, this food is to be distributed at a very nominal cost.

Union County schools have taken up the idea enthusiastically, according to Nelson, and the Ad Club has provided automobiles on specified days for the transportation of the children to the various farms where the food products can be obtained.

"I consider this a highly commendable project," said Secretary Quayle of the state chamber. "Not only will food be supplied when it is most needed, but school children will be provided wholesome and character-building work during their idle time."

A letter outlining the La Grande project has been sent to every commercial club of the state urging immediate action along these lines, according to Quayle.

BOLSHEVIKI OFFER TO MEDIATE IN CHINA

PEKING, Oct. 15—Bolshevik Russia has offered to mediate between China and the Mongolian republic in an effort to establish amicable relations.

THE STRAND.
 Tom Mix in his greatest Western drama, "The Heart of Texas Ryan," produced by William N. Selig, and pronounced by him to be the greatest Tom Mix picture ever produced is the feature at the Strand theatre tonight.

In supporting of Mix are seen some of the most accomplished actors in the silent drama, including Frank Champagne, who has been seen opposite Douglas Fairbanks in his biggest successes; George Fawcett, one of the prominent character men of Cecil de Mille's production; Beale Ayton, a star in her own right and this season starring in the Pacific Coast company of Oliver Morosco's "Civilian Clothes," one of Broadway's biggest hits.

Sunday and Monday night at the Strand theatre, three old friends of all book-loving youth will be met on the screen in the Thos. H. Ince production, "The Three Musketeers."

This picture is going over big in the East, and is receiving the benefit of the extensive publicity of "The Three Musketeers" now being released by United Artists. In fact in one of the large Eastern cities the two pictures played in opposition houses on the same dates, and drew very large crowds. "The Three Musketeers" being released by the Strand is the original Thos. H. Ince production featuring Orrin Johnson, Dorothy Dalton, Louise Glaum, Rhea Mitchell, Walt Whitman, and supporting cast of over twenty five hundred actors.

Charles Chaplin in "The Fireman" will provide the laughs and a Ford weekly will be the instructive feature.

CONVICTED WIFE SLAYER JOKES OVER SENTENCE

SEATTLE, Oct. 15—James E. Mahoney, convicted of first degree murder for the slaying of his elderly wife and burying the body in a trunk in Lake Union, was yesterday sentenced to be hanged January 6, 1922, at the state penitentiary at Walla Walla. The defense gave notice of appeal. Mahoney in a light vein of conversation said that he "got a suspended sentence, suspended by the neck," the neck.

As They Received the Verdict

The Hickey triplets were adjudged the grand winners among 1500 babies at the Harlem Baby Parade in New York City. One of them was so little concerned that he went to sleep. Notice the reproachful look of another at the third's protest against public exhibition.

W. C. T. U. Holds Enjoyable Meeting

A meeting of the local W. C. T. U. was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James Grimes, 1135 Pine street. Attending members said the meeting was very interesting and that absent members missed a treat.

Mrs. Emma Dickson presided and gave an interesting talk on "Mother Love," based on the scriptural story of Moses and his mother. Miss Restora French, local teacher, read a paper on, "Be Loyal to the Highest Good You Know."

Miss Lydia Fricke, county health nurse, gave a short talk on the work and needs of the county nurse. Mrs. John Linfesty entertained the gathering with a vocal solo. At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. O. L. Brown and Mrs. Campbell.
